Doubts Efficacy of Monarchy Unless a Constitution Were Adopted.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—Conditions in China are much the same as they were in Mexico during the Diaz regime, according to Dr. Frank J. Goodnow, legal adviser to the republic of China, who arrived today from Peking on the steamship Manchuria. Dr. Goodnow plans to leave San Francisco tomorrow for Baltimore to resume his duties as president of Johns Hopkins University.

With reference to his conditional recommendations that the monarchical form of government would be best for China, Dr. Goodnow believes that the Chinese people will be able to solve her own form of government without serious internal trouble if other nations will adopt a "hands-off" policy.

HOW TO SAVE COAL BILLS.

If You Want to Know Write to the Bureau of Mines.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 6.—A problem which touches the pocketbooks of several million householders is described in a report issued today by the Bureau of Mines. In the report the experts of the bureau tell the public in detail just how, in heating their houses this winter, they may save coal bills. Copies of the report may be obtained by anyone who addresses the United States Bureau of Mines. The tests were made in a ten-room house in New Haven, Ct., which was comfortably heated at a cost of $48 for the fall and winter, saving over other houses of the same size in the same locality from $50 to $100.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 6.—Two members of the detective bureau solved a $1500 jewelry mystery in the room occupied by Edward Davis and his wife in the Kaiserhof Hotel today. Mr. Davis owns the Hotel Lankershim in Los Angeles. He complained to Capt. P. D. O'Brien that a three and a half carat diamond ring and another ring set with a two-carat diamond, a two-carat sapphire and fourteen smaller diamonds, had been stolen from his apartment. Detective Sergeants Burns and Carmody began a search of the apartment. Half an hour later they drew from a drawer of the dresser Mrs. Davis's white silk gloves and in one of them were the two rings.

PRESIDENT ENGAGED.

Mrs. Norman Galt is His Fiancee.

Wealthy Widow of Washington will be Next Bride of the White House.

Wedding Scheduled to Take Place Before End of the Present Year.

Gossips Say that Most of the Courting was Done at Cornish, N. H.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 6. — President Wilson announced his engagement tonight to Mrs. Norman Galt, a wealthy widow, who has lived nearly all her life in Washington.

At 8 o'clock tonight Private Secretary Tumulty summoned the newspaper correspondents to the White House and made public the following statement:

"The White House, Washington, October 6, 1915.

"The announcement was made today of the engagement of Mrs. Norman Galt of this city and President Woodrow Wilson."

Although Mr. Tumulty was beaming with joy he had no further details to this momentous White House event to vouchsafe. The President was not accessible. It was said that he was dining at the White House with a party of which Mrs. Galt was a member.

As in everything pertaining to the life of the President and his family, the plans for the marriage are being shrouded in secrecy. According to the friends of Mr. Wilson and Mrs. Galt, however, the wedding will take place before the end of the year. The ceremony probably will take place in the White House—the third event of that character in the President's family.

SURPRISE AT CAPITAL.

The announcement that the President is to remarry created a sensational surprise in the capital. Although Mr. Wilson and Mrs. Galt have appeared occasionally together in public during the last few months and although it was known that the charming widow was a frequent guest at the White House, only rumors of a possible engagement had gone abroad.

According to the most reliable information obtainable the President and Mrs. Galt have been engaged for about ten days. The fact had been a closely-guarded secret in the family circle and few of the President's closest official associates were aware of the progress of the courtship.

Mr. Wilson met Mrs. Galt for the first time a few months after the death of Mrs. Wilson a year ago last August. It was not till last spring, however, that he began to evince a more than usual interest in the widow, who was so frequently the guest of his daughter Margaret and his cousin, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones.

Dr. Cary Grayson, the President's aide and physician, it appears, was the means of bringing the President and Mrs. Galt together. It was Miss Bones, who has made her home with the President's family for several years, who really fostered the romance.

Late in the summer of 1914, Miss Bones was convalescing from an illness which was the result of her close confinement and care of Mrs. Wilson during her last illness. Dr. Grayson, who was also her attending physician, ordered Miss Bones to take long walks every day and for a few weeks she walked alone about the city, but found the occupation most distasteful. She complained to her physician that it was a lonesome task.

MRS. GALT AS COMPANION.

In order to induce Miss Bones to continue her walking exercise, Dr. Grayson introduced her to Mrs. Galt, who is an enthusiastic pedestrian. It was Mrs. Galt who took Miss Bones out into Rock Creek Park every day, where they would wander for an hour or two along the shady woodland paths.

GREECE WILL REMAIN TRUE TO SERVIA SAYS EX-PREMIER VENIZELOS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.] (38)

ATHENS, Oct. 6 (via Paris, Oct. 7, 3:40 a.m.)—British troops began to land yesterday at Salonika. French troops are disembarking a mile and and a half from the town and are being concentrated in a camp located on ground conceded to Servia after 1913 upon which to build warehouses. From this point they are entrained as quickly as possible for Gievgeli on the Servian frontier. Bulgarians have evacuated all buildings on the coast near Dedeaghatch while the forts in that city are being armed with long-range guns and mine layers are placing a double line of mines across the port. Dedeaghatch is reported to be full of troops officered by Germans from Constantinople.

ATHENS, Oct. 5. (1 p.m.—via Paris, Oct. 6, 7:15p.m.)—At the close of a decisive meeting of the Greek Chamber last evening and early this morning, Premier Venizelos gave the Associated Press a statement of the policy Greece would pursue in the impending Balkan conflict.

"One thing is absolutely certain," said M. Venizelos, "Greece will abide by the terms of her alliance with Servia not only in letter but in spirit to the last man and to the last drachma. Moreover, the Greeco-Servian treaty foresaw only the possibility of a Balkan war. When it was made, none could predict the present European conflict with all its widespread complications. But the spirit of alliance was one of mutual defense and because the dangers threatening our ally increased with unforeseen conditions there is no excuse for hiding behind the verbiage of the treaty to escape the responsibility of our pledge.

"Though the entire available forces of the Central Empires be allied to those of Bulgaria in an attempt to crush Servia and Greece will unflinchingly remain true to her passed word. The honor of Greece is at stake. You may be certain it will not be betrayed.

"Nor, indeed, has there ever been at bottom the slightest wavering about the Greek people respecting their responsibility to enter the war in defense of their ally under the terms of her alliance, although every desperate effort has been made to becloud the issue. The spectacle of part of her press subservient to foreign influences has shamed and humiliated Greece. A people so eager to read—so much so that every bootblack while he shines your shoes is reading a paper or book—has been temporarily confused by an inspired and venal propaganda. But the feeling of loyalty to our national obligations never for a moment has been really effected. What Greece has said she will do, she will do. She is ready to fight and if Servia needs her she will fight.

"Respecting the landing of French troops at Salonika, there is but one thing to be said. We have protested, of course, for we have wished to remain neutral in this European struggle and we wish it now if it were consistent with our rights and duties. But the Greek people cannot war on France and would not if they could. What France has done for Greece no Greek can forget. Comes France now asking nothing of Greece, declaring categorically her sole intention to be to support Greece's ally in the case of a need wherein Greece herself would be bound to support her neighbor. It is something offered not something asked. Indeed, since I have been Premier, I may say quite frankly the entente has asked not one concession of Greece. Therefore, when France gives every guarantee respecting the integrity of Greece, when France's motives for landing troops on Greek soil are explained as in the nature of accomplishing the very purpose of Greece's treaty of alliance with Servia, we can see no reason why Greece should resist what she cannot help and what ultimately cannot fail to be to her advantage.

"It must not be forgotten that while no sacrifice has been asked of Greece to which her international obligations do not already impel her, the realization of the dream which sleeps in the heart of every true Greek, has been held out to her without conditions. For centuries the Greeks have wanted two things—a free and united Greece and freedom for Greeks wherever they might be. The former we have gained with blood, heroism and sacrifice extending over thirty centuries. The latter, in a larger degree than we could hope to achieve unaided for centuries to come perhaps is suddenly made possible to us.

"Who thinks what it would mean to Greece if those of our blood line on the opposite shore may one day soon come under our flag, cannot be indifferent to the realization of a greater Greece for which we are asked to pay nothing save the keeping of our pledged work to which our honor binds us in any case. This is the position of Greece today which I am more glad to make clear to America because I have just been approached by Mr. William Hamilton of New York, with a most generous offer of assistance for Greek refugees on behalf of the American mercy and relief committee. I scarcely know how to express the profound gratitude which I am convinced each of my countrymen will feel ever this new evidence of the great heart of America.

"The Greek government is doing all it can to help more than 300,000 homeless refugees from Asia Minor, Macedonia and Thrace. Seventy thousand are now in Mytilene, 22,000 in Chios, over 50,000 in Salonika, and the remainder scattered over Macedonia, all in direst want, especially of clothing. The government is able to keep them from actual starvation but an expense of 3,000,000 francs ($600,000) a month is very heavy for a small country. That that help should be offered from America at this juncture is a source of most sincere joy to me.

"For do not forget that I am a Cretan. I remember the war for the liberty of Crete and the Puissant aid and generosity of America in 1906. No Greek, certainly no Cretan, could never forget, whatever the destinies of Greece may be in the way upon which she is embarked, her debt to America is, and will be, unpayable."

WAR IN THE BALKANS A MATTER OF HOURS.

LONDON, Oct. 7, 12:20 a.m.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Sofia, sent by way of Petrograd, says:

"Bulgaria's reply to the Russian ultimatum is unsatisfactory. The Russian Minister has notified Premier Radoslavoff of a rupture of diplomatic relations between the two countries.

"Russian interests in Bulgaria have been confided to the Dutch Charge d'Affaires.

"Bulgaria's reply was delivered at 2:40 o'clock on the afternoon of October 5 (Tuesday.)"

SOFIA, Tuesday, Oct. 5. (via Paris, Oct. 6, 11:55 p.m.)—The Russian, French, British, Italian and Servian ministers have asked for their passports, Bulgaria's answer to the Russian ultimatum being unsatisfactory.

LONDON, Oct. 6, 10:15 p.m.—Even the greatest battles of the war may prove to have had less weight in deciding the future of Europe than the events of the past few days in the southeastern kingdoms.

King Constantine of Greece, brother-in-law of the German Emperor, appears to hold the balance of power of the Near East in his hand for the time. In the second crisis, where Greece seemed on the brink of entering the war by the side of the Entente powers, he has virtually dismissed the foremost Greek statesman, Eleutherios Venizelos, from the Premiership, and has asserted personal control of the government.

King Ferdinand of Bulgaria has rejected Russia's ultimatum demanding that she break with the central powers and expel German officers who have taken charge of Bulgaria's army staff, and at the same time, according to several correspondents, has sent an ultimatum to Servia, allowing a twenty-four-hours' limit for the cession of Macedonia to Bulgaria.

The programme of the Germanic empires apparently includes the consolidation of their field operations with their Turkish allies by sweeping clear a channel from Berlin and Vienna to Constantinople. For the ac-

FRENCH CAPTURE TAHURE IN A FIERCE ASSAULT.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—The French War Office issued the following statement tonight:

"Our action in Champagne obtained today new results. Our infantry, after strong artillery preparation, captured by assault the village of Tahure and reached the summit of the small hill of the same name, constituting a point of support in the second line of the enemy resistance. We likewise made progress in the direction of the Navarin farm. The number of prisoners taken exceeded 1000.

"On the rest of the front only artillery engagements are reported. They are especially intense in Artois in the region of the Givenchy wood and of La Harazee to La Pretre and in Lorraine, near Leintrey Reillon and Badonvillier, as well as in the Vosges on the Metseral ridge."

The Belgian official communication follows:

"The enemy artillery has displayed only very slight activity before our front. It has bombarded the region of Furnes, Pervyse and Costkerke. A struggle with bombs has occurred in the region to the north of Steenstraete to the north of Dixmude. Our artillery dispersed military pioneers at several points."

BUNKHOUSES BURN. (30)

CONCORD (Cal.) Oct. 6.—The bunkhouses and stables of the Cowell Lime and Cement Company near here were burned to the ground by an incendiary last night after a keg of powder had been so placed as to threaten with death, anyone who might fight the flames. The fire loss, which includes seven horses, is estimated at $12,000.

FORMER PREMIER ZAIMIS ASKED TO FORM CABINET.

ATHENS, Oct. 6 (via Paris.)—King Constantine has asked Alexander Zaimis, a former Premier, to form a Cabinet.

A great crowd marched to the home of M. Venizelos, the retiring Premier, tonight, singing the Greek national anthem and the "Marseillaise." The former Premier was in consultation with the diplomatic representatives of the Entente powers.

The crowd jammed the narrow street separating the American Legation from the residence of M. Venizelos, crying "Long live Venizelos! Long live France!" The cheers for France were on account of the occupation of Saloniki by French troops.

SURPRISE IN LONDON.

LONDON, Oct. 6. — The dramatic downfall of the Greek Cabinet astounded diplomatic circles here. What the outcome will be no one appears able to predict, but emphasis is placed on the fact that the Venizelos party has a considerable majority in the country.

Opinion is divided as to whether King Constantine will prove strong enough to carry the country with him against the retiring Premier. The Pall Mall Gazette suggests that the King may precipitate a crisis similar to that of 1909, when the army, by threat of armed revolution, forced King George to grant the reforms it demanded.

Reuter's correspondent says in a dispatch from Athens:

"King Constantine today conferred with former Premiers Rhallis and Zaimis and requested their assistance. After a discussion of the situation it was decided in principle to form a coalition government without M. Venizelos, under the Premiership of M. Zaimis. The constitution of the Cabinet is expected to be completed tonight.

"The British Minister had a long audience with the King today.

"The totally unexpected resignation of Premier Venizelos created a great sensation among both his partisans and his opponents. The loyalty of the people to the King saves the situation."

ADD SEVEN NAMES TO HALL OF FAME.

JOHN PAUL JONES AND ROGER WILLIAMS ARE REJECTED IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 6.—Seven more names, six men and one woman, were added to the hall of fame today in the annual election conducted through the New York University Senate, making a total of fifty-six names, fifty of whom are men, and six women. Of four names reconsidered under the new rule two, John Paul Jones, the sea fighter, and Roger Williams, the divine, failed of re-election.

The seven names are: Mark Hopkins, former president of Williams College; Francis Parkman, the historian; Elias Howe, the inventor; Joseph Henry, the scientist; Charlotte Cushman, the tragedian; Rufus Choate, the jurist, and Daniel Boone, the pioneer.

American soldiers fared ill, none of those voted on being elected. Nathaniel Greene of revolutionary fame got thirty-two votes, seventeen short of the forty-nine required.

GOETHALS TO REMAIN AT CANAL INDEFINITELY.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

PANAMA, Oct. 6.—Gen. George W. Goethals has withdrawn his resignation as Governor of the Panaman Canal Zone.

This fact was announced by Gen. Goethals tonight on his arrival on board the steamer Cristobal from New York after a vacation spent in the United States. His action was taken, he said, in view of the recent slides in the Gallard cuts, which have closed traffic through the canal.

Gen. Goethals said he would remain in Panama indefinitely, until such time as the condition of the canal would permit his departure. Further than to make this announcement that he had cabled Secretary of War Garrison withdrawing his resignation, which was to have become effective November 1, Gen. Goethals had nothing to say concerning the canal.

He did not seem worried over the situation, but eager to enter upon the work of combatting the slides. He will discuss the situation tomorrow with Lieut.-Col. Chester Harding, engineer of maintenance, and afterward make a personal study of the slides.

KAISER AIMS AT SUEZ CANAL.

London Hears that He has Changed His War Plans.

Otherwise the Moves in the Balkans are a Puzzle.

His Main Hope to Strangle Britain's Sea Trade.

BY EDWARD PRICE BELL.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Fascinating beyond any previous feature of the war is the present strategic drama in Europe. Do the Austrians and Germans really contemplate a huge movement toward Constantinople or do they hope by threatening such operations to achieve two results—first, reduction of the allies' strength in the east and west through the concentration of allied troops in the Balkans, and, second, the provoking of rushes by troops of the allies against German intrenchments, designed to arrest the supposed flow of Austrian and German troops toward the southeast, with consequent appalling losses to the aggressors?

TO STRANGLE ENGLAND.

Some observers believe that the whole trend of German policy has been changed, that the Germans and Austrians have abandoned the hope of crushing their enemies in either the east or the west and have decided to assume the defensive in both these regions, while hurling great forces into the Balkans with the purpose of sweeping all opposition into the sea and thus establishing unobstructed communication with the east. It is argued that if this plan succeeded, Germany would not only escape the consequence of hostile sea supremacy, but would strangle the British empire by seizing the Suez Canal and ultimately realize the Napoleonic dream of the conquest of the East.

FERDINAND SUPREME.

Dispatches from various points in more or less close touch with Bulgaria seem to reveal an intense struggle in Sofia for the control of the state. The slav nation is represented as being in the throes of distress because the apparent policy of the Cabinet is dominated by its German king. Civil war is predicted, but those in London who are acquainted with the Bulgarian people hardly expect that King Ferdinand's policy, whatever it proves to be, can be opposed successfully either by the notable men in Sofia who are in sympathy with the allies or by the Bulgarian masses. The people seem to be in as much doubt as to what their leaders intend as are others outside informed circles in Sofia and the Germanic capitals.

It is reported that word has been sent broadcast throughout Bulgaria that the mobilization was for the purpose of resisting Servian aggression.

NORWAY ACCEPTS GERMAN INDEMNITY.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Oct. 6 (via Sayville.)—A dispatch from Christiania to the Overseas News Agency says:

"The Norwegian government, answering the German note of September 9 with regard to the sinking of the Norwegian steamship Svein Jarl by a German submarine, says that it accepts with satisfaction the German offer of indemnity for the loss of the vessel."

The Svein Jarl was sunk July 9, twelve members of her crew being drowned. Germany notified the Norwegian government that she could not recognize any responsibility for the sinking of the vessel as the steamer was not provided with any signs showing that it was a neutral ship. However, to show her friendly disposition toward Norway, Germany agreed to make reparation for the damage done and asked Norway to nominate an expert who, with a German expert, would fix the amount of damages.

LAST REFUGEES FROM TSING-TAU.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6. — One hundred and seven German refugees from Tsing-tau, China, arrived today on the steamship Manchuria en route to Germany. The party is headed by Dr. C. Muller, who was in charge of the German medical corps of the army at Tsing-tau at the outbreak of the war and during the siege by the Japanese and the British forces. These are the last of the refugees from Tsing-tau.

The Manchuria, of the Pacific Mail Steamship Line, which has discontinued its service to the Orient, is the last ship of the neutral nation to depart from Shanghai, according to present schedules of steamship lines, and the Germans considered it as their last opportunity to leave China while the war continues.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Tamaki Miura, Japanese prima donna, made her American debut in opera here today in the role of "Madame Butterfly." Tamaki Miura made her first appearance outside of the Orient in London about a year ago.

War in the Balkans.

complishment of their programme, they have already secured the cooperation of Bulgaria. They need the neutrality of Greece and Rumania and then must crush Servia.

Today's developments tend to confirm the statements of the German press that the German Emperor has guaranteed to Bulgaria both Greek and Rumanian neutrality. Thus the crucial field of warfare has shifted from the French and Russian fronts to the Balkan Peninsula, where German success would mean the realization of Emperor William's ambitions to expansion toward India and Asia.

The people of the Entente nations fully appreciate the momentousness of the crisis.

The French and British expedition may have completed the landing at Saloniki, but if Greek support against Bulgaria cannot be counted upon, heavy reinforcements will be needed.

While technically King Constantine accepted the resignation of M. Venizelos, his action amounted to dismissal of the Premier. The Greek chamber had approved the Premier's merely formal protest against the allies' landing on Greek soil, and his declaration that Greece was bound by the treaty and vital interests to go to Servia's aid without waiting for a declaration of war by Bulgaria, by a majority of forty in a house of 257, of whom thirteen abstained from voting.

The majority may have appeared not a large one for committing the country to war and thus the King may have felt justified in informing the Premier that he could not pursue the Cabinet's policy to the end. A coalition Cabinet, without M. Venizelos, will probably be formed, with either ex-Premier Rhallis or ex-Premier Zaimis at the head.

The possibility that Greece may try to remain neutral, fearing to stake the nation's fate upon the success of either party to the great war, is recognized in England, although it is considered small. The hopes of the Entente powers are that popular sentiment is with them and that the King may find it best to bow before the will of the people, as he has done before.

French officials declare that the landing of the allied troops will take its course and that the Greek people have given them an enthusiastic reception.

Bulgarian reports are to the effect that mobilization is being completed rapidly; that many German officers are arriving, and that the departure from Sofia of the French, British and Russian and Italian diplomats, except the Russian minister, who is ill, is imminent.

News from Rumania is scant. Feverish military activity on the Bulgarian boundary is reported, but there has been no general mobilization. There is nothing to indicate that the Rumanian King, who is a Hohenzollern prince, will abandon the safe path of neutrality.

SITUATION REVIEWED.

There is little change in the military situation on any of the war fronts.

Reports which remain unconfirmed, are to the effect that an Austro-German force, variously estimated at from 100,000 to 500,000 men, with 2000 guns, is proceeding through Southern Hungary to attack Servia. Military observers here, however, assert that it is probable that a figure between these estimates would be nearer the truth, declaring that there is no evidence of any very heavy withdrawal of Teutonic troops from the Russian front and that the western front every day is demanding new drafts.

The observers say that the Germans are not in a position to withdraw many troops from the Russian side as the armies of Emperor Nicholas are making a desperate effort to assume the initiative in the fighting. On some sectors Petrograd reports that the Russians already have succeeded in doing this. Besides, it is asserted, they have now held up Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's drive against Dvinsk for several weeks and inflicted very serious losses on him. Von Hindenburg is now reported to be receiving reinforcements with a view to making another attempt to force his way through the outer defenses of the city. In the west the big guns are booming, seemingly preparing a way for a continuation of the offensive of the allies, which the Germans doubtless will try to forestall by an attack from their side. In Champagne the French have captured the village of Tahure and the summit of the Hill of Tahure, which is situated at a point in the German second line of defense.

The Italians record another advance toward Rovereto, which has so many times been reported as evacuated by the Austrians.

HEAVY LOSSES.

The heavy losses sustained by the British and French in their attempts to penetrate the German lines in France and the large number of men required for the operations along the Euphrates River and in the Dardanelles and the Balkans have made necessary another appeal for the enlistment of men throughout the country. The Earl of Derby, who is directing recruiting and who is receiving the assistance of the labor organizations in his work, has taken charge of a campaign, the object of which is to obtain at least 30,000 men weekly. Should it fail it seems fairly certain that Parliament will adopt a national service bill.

LORD CREWE SPEAKS ON THE ATROCITIES COMMITTED BY THE TURKS.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Replying to a question by Lord Cromer in the House of Lords today, the Marquis of Crewe, Lord President of Council, said that information which had reached the government in regard to the massacre of Armenians was based mainly on statements from Tiflis. In one district, it was declared, the population had been absolutely exterminated and the most terrible description was given of the condition of the country.

The government, he continued, had no confirmation of statements that German Consular representatives in Asia had encouraged these horrors, but the statements had been made by an observer from the United States and he was bound to say that, knowing what happened elsewhere, there could not be said to be antecedent improbabilities that such was the case.

AMERICA MUST COMMAND RESPECT OF ALL NATIONS.

President Wilson so Informs the Naval Advisory Board at its First Meeting—Declares We Must be Prepared, not for War, but for Defense, and Adequately Prepared—Must have Stronger Army.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—President Wilson, at the initial gathering of the new Naval Advisory Board, announced himself today in favor of having the United States adequately prepared "to command the respect of other nations for our rights." Later it became known that the President plans to make "for defense" the slogan of his advocacy for a stronger army and navy and will outline his view more specifically before the convening of Congress.

The President addressed the members of the Advisory Board at the White House, congratulating them on beginning their work. Previously the board had met at the Navy Department, with Thomas Edison presiding, and listened to an address by Secretary Daniels.

Later they took a trip down the Potomac River on the Presidential yacht Mayflower, to the Indian Head gun-proving grounds. One of the sights witnessed there was the firing of the navy's most modern weapon, a 14-inch, 50-caliber gun. A newly-designed machine rifle also was brought into action.

The Mayflower hardly had gotten under way when Mr. Edison discovered the wireless plant, which held his attention for the remainder of the trip. He expressed a desire to "speak" with the powerful station at Arlington, Va. This message was sent to Capt. Bullard, superintendent of the Naval Radio Service:

"Congratulations on your big Arlington plant. I have heard the small and large sets seated in the wireless room of the Mayflower and they are great." In a few minutes the following reply was flashed back:

"My compliments to Mr. Edison and members of the Naval Advisory Board, by this message, transmitted on the 100-kilowatt spark set."

Tonight the members of the board held their second meeting in Secretary Daniels's office and plans for organization were taken under advisement. Another session will be held tomorrow.

MUST PREPARE.

President Wilson, in outlining his attitude toward the national defense question, said he believed the whole nation was "convinced that we ought to be prepared, not for war, but for defense, and that the preparation for defense is not merely a technical matter, it is not a matter that the army and navy alone can take care of, but a matter in which we must have the co-operation of the best brains and knowledge of the country outside the official service of the government as well as inside. For my part, I feel that it is only in the spirit of a true democracy that we get together to lend such voluntary aid, the sort of aid that comes from interest, from a knowledge of the varied circumstances that are involved in handling a nation."

"I want you to feel," President Wilson continued, "those of you who are coming to the assistance of the professional officers of the government, that we have a very serious purpose, that we have not asked you to associate yourself with us except for a very definite and practical purpose, to get you to give us your best independent thoughts as to how we ought to make ready for any duty that may fall upon the nation.

"I do not have to expound it to you; you know as well as I do the spirit of America. The spirit of America is one of peace but one of independence. It is a spirit that is profoundly concerned with peace, because it can express itself best only in peace. It is the spirit of peace and good will and of human freedom; but it is also the spirit of a nation that is self-conscious, that knows and loves its mission in the world and that knows that it must command the respect of the world.

THE SPIRIT OF AMERICA.

"So it seems to me that we are not working as those who would change anything of America, but only as those who would safeguard everything in America. I know that you will enter into conference with the officers of the navy in that spirit and with that feeling, and it makes me proud, gentlemen, that the busy men of America, the men who stand at the front of their professions, should be willing in this way to associate themselves voluntarily with the government in the task in which it needs all sorts of expert and serious advice. Nothing ought to be done in this by any single group of persons — everything ought to be done by all of us united together—and I welcome this association in the most serious and grateful spirit."

The President was warmly applauded by his hearers. Secretary Daniels then introduced each member of the board to the President.

DANIELS TALKS.

Secretary Daniels delivered a brief address, calling attention to the development of ordnance and instruments of destruction during the present war in Europe.

"We may not," the Secretary said, "expect to build the biggest navy in the world, but with the help of this board we must have a navy, every unit of which shall be as nearly perfect as American ingenuity makes possible."

Mr. Daniels said laboratories and places of research now used by the navy were far too small for present needs, and that he hoped to secure the advice and recommendations of the experts as to the kind of a national laboratory that should be erected.

GIVES CREDIT TO MARSHALL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—In Secretary Daniels's address to the members of the civilian advisory board of experts the Secretary gave full credit for the origin of the board to Edward Marshall's interview with Mr. Edison in which the board was first suggested. This interview was written for the Los Angeles Times and was published on May 29. Mr. Marshall was the only person present at today's first meeting of the board who was not a member of the board or connected with the navy or the Secretary's personal staff.

ASK NAVAL INCREASES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — A three-day session of the national defense conference under the auspices of the National Defense League and similar organizations, closed today with the adoption of resolutions urging immediate naval and military increases that would secure the country against any foreign aggressor.

The resolutions also urge Congress to create immediately a national defense council to co-ordinate the needs of the navy as expressed by the general board with the necessities of the nation and approved plans of the Army General Staff as to military preparations.

Discussing the "third line of defense," Gen. Oden Lake, commander-in-chief of the army and navy union, said the National Guard virtually was useless as at present constituted, and its paper strength of 120,000, in the opinion of military experts, would shrink to 25,000 effectives in wartime through refusal to volunteer or failure to pass the physical examination.

MICROPHONE A WONDER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Edward F. Chandler, inventor of a system of harbor defense now being tested by the United States Navy for the detection of the approach of submarines and battleships with the aid of water microphones, announced today that he has perfected a method of detecting and locating airships by the microphone. Mr. Chandler said that one of the greatest applications of the airship finder would be as a defense against night raids such as the Germans have made upon London.

Mr. Chandler said that he could easily discover the range, height, speed and direction of a dirigible or other aircraft in the darkest night.

LANDING AT SALONIKI DENOUNCED BY GERMANS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—A statement to the press of the United States, contrasting the landing of allied troops in Greece with Germany's action toward Belgium, was cabled to the Austro-Hungarian Embassy here today by the Foreign Minister at Vienna.

The statement follows:

"I should like to point out to the press of the United States the difference between Germany's action toward Belgium and the actual violation of the neutrality of Greece by the French and English who, without asking Greece, landed at Saloniki, their troops, notwithstanding, having at their disposal other ways of bringing help to Servia. Perhaps the world will now see how little worth there is to the smallest state in the phrases of the Entente powers."

FRANCE WILL RATIFY THE LOAN TOMORROW.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Parliamentary ratification of the $500,000,000 Anglo-French credit loan established here is expected in the case of France next Friday, and on the part of Great Britain next Monday, it was reported here tonight. The bonds will probably not be offered to the public prior to such ratification, although this is said to be unnecessary, as the commission possesses plenary powers—and may be placed on sale next Wednesday.

What portion of the $500,000,000 issue will be offered to the general public was not disclosed today, but there were indications that the amount would be large. Probably half of the entire amount will be offered to the public.

The American Truth Society, an organization of persons opposed to the loan, announced today that its depositors' committee of 100 had arranged to hold twenty mass meetings in Jersey City, Hoboken and New York to educate the public in the details of the loan. Their campaign, it was stated, would culminate in a parade through the streets of New York to Madison Square Garden, where a general meeting of bank depositors would be held.

FINDS NEW PLANET AND THREE COMETS.

PROFS. HUSSEY AND SOLA DISCOVER UNKNOWN DENIZENS IN THE HEAVENS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Three new comets, one of which is said to be remarkable because of its distance from the sun, have been discovered by Prof. William J. Hussey, director of the University of Michigan observatory, who arrived today from La Plata, Argentina, where he has been engaged for two years in a series of special observations at the National Observatory. Prof. Hussey was assisted by local observers.

Prof. Hussey said that 300 stars, formerly believed to be single, were discovered to be double stars and that the measurements have been carefully established.

Encouraging reports of business conditions in Argentina, Brazil and other South American countries were brought by a number of special representatives of American manufacturing and wholesale firms, who returned on the same boat.

ARABIC NOTE IS DISCOUNTED.

BRITISH CALL IT SORT OF A VICTORY FOR WILSON.

"Standard" Says German Concession is Superficially Considerable Triumph for Pertinacious Diplomacy of the President—Question of Seized Food to Come up Next.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Commenting on the German note on the Arabic, the Evening Standard says that President Wilson has won a "sort of victory," but that an analysis shows that matters remain about where they were.

"Superficially," says the Standard, "it might seem to constitute a considerable triumph for the slow but very pertinacious diplomacy of Dr. Wilson. He has succeeded in his main object of keeping clear of warlike complications without eating his words or compromising his dignity or his courage. Nevertheless, the Lusitania incident is still unsettled and there is not the smallest guarantee for the future—apart from the British fleet.

"The President has saved his own dignity and his nation's, and has got guarantees he may consider worth having, but he has yet to win a victory for the cause of humanity."

The Westminster Gazette says:

"It is too soon to say whether the note is likely to settle all questions in dispute between the two powers, but Germany undoubtedly does a very considerable climbdown. Anyhow, it looks as if Count von Bernstorff was going to do his level best to escape the fate of Dr. Dumba."

THE NOTE TO BRITAIN.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Secretary Lansing indicated today that the settlement of the Arabic case had cleared the way for the dispatch of the note to Great Britain, covering the general subject of trade negotiations and interference with American goods in neutral trade. The note has been completed and is ready to be forwarded to Ambassador Page. It is a lengthy document, covering the general situation.

On the general situation, the American note, it is understood, contends that the burden of proof is upon the British government to show that goods of neutral destination destroyed or seized are intended for Germany, and that the assumption that all food products going to Germany are intended for German military use is not justified.

Discussion of the Lusitania case, still pending between the United States and Germany, probably will be resumed soon with the German Embassy here.

Until the pending negotiations are completed it cannot be definitely stated whether an answer to President Wilson's last note on the Lusitania is to be expected. In German quarters the impression prevails that the concessions outlined in the German Ambassador's letter yesterday were intended to meet what this government has held to be the main issue between the two countries. It was believed possible that no formal answer in the Lusitania case would be framed by the Berlin Foreign Office, as it is known that the German Ambassador has full instructions governing the question.

RUSSIANS WEARING GERMAN HELMETS.

BERLIN (via Tuckerton) Oct. 6.—The official statement from German army headquarters under date of October 5 contains the following: "Russian patrols are wearing German helmets in order to deceive German troops. It is evident that such Russians when they fall into German hands will be treated in accordance with the laws of war."

The foregoing was omitted from yesterday's official statement received from Berlin by way of London, apparently having been eliminated by the British censor.

Presidency as soon as possible, if he can do so without hindering the progress of the country, Dr. Goodnow said.

YUAN MAY RETIRE.

"President Yuan told me himself," said Dr. Goodnow, "that he would not accept the Emperorship if offered, and that as President he would retire if he could with assurance that no trouble would follow.

"Men think of retiring in China sooner than they do in this country. President Yuan is 56 years old. He always expressed the idea to me that he was eager to do what was best for his country. So if the people will it, President Yuan informed me, he will remain as their President.

"President Yuan never expressed to me an opinion as to his views of my recommendations bearing on the form of government. So I have no idea whether he was satisfied or otherwise. These recommendations were made at the request of the government."

POLITICIANS ARE FEW.

Dr. Goodnow said the Chinese were not politicians and had no experience along these lines. Because of this fact he believed that the change from a republic to a monarchy could only be made successfully if there was no opposition from the people and no objection on the part of other nations. At the time Dr. Goodnow left Peking, so far as he knew, there had been no serious trouble following the manifesto of the "Society for Peace," which advocated restoration of the monarchy.

"But I was in Peking," said Dr. Goodnow, "and I didn't know—President Yuan didn't know—what was going on in the south of China."

Dr. Goodnow said his recommendations embodied three big "ifs," first of these being the danger of disorders in making the change. Another was with reference to the question of succession. Along these lines, he said, President Yuan's eldest son, Yuan Ko Ting, had been mentioned. "But there have already been indications of opposition to the son," said Dr. Goodnow, "many of the Chinese believing him incapable of mastering the situation should he come into power." The adviser to China is doubtful, as set forth in his recommendations, whether the change would be beneficial unless a constitutional monarchy was established.

Dr. Goodnow first went to China as adviser to the government two years ago, spending more than a year in Peking. On this last trip he spent seven week in China's capital. He said today that his work as adviser was virtually at an end—that he had returned to the United States according to programme. His contract with China expires next May, and in the meantime, should President Yuan or other government officials wish to consult him, communication would be by cable or mail.

Dr. Goodnow is accompanied by his wife and daughter.

British Need Thirty Th... Recruits Every Week.

Manifesto Issued in En... Emphasizes Crisis.

Declare Defeat will Mean Inconclusive Peace.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Oct. 6.—An appeal for recruits for the British army was issued today by the authorized committee of the three national combined trades unions, the Parliamentary Committee, the General Federation of Trades Unions' Committee and the Executive Committee of the Labor party.

The manifesto declares that hundreds of thousands of men of military age and fitness have not yet joined the colors. Stating that equipment and supplies of munitions for those who are ready, the manifesto urges that they assume immediately their share of the burden.

"Thirty thousand recruits were called for the appeal declares, "must be found to maintain the efficiency of our armies and secure such a victory as will free the world from the menace that military tyranny which Germany would impose upon it."

The manifesto, which is addressed by the joint labor board to "fellow countrymen," points out that no time in the history of the empire has it been faced with a crisis of such gravity as now exists.

"Aggression, carefully planned and continued, "has after fourteen months of war brought German forces into Belgium, France, Poland, Turkey and the Balkan states. We are convinced that Germany is prepared to let every country in the conflict, in order to attain her ends."

The appeal concludes:

"We know that defeat or an inconclusive peace means for us not only loss of prestige as a nation and uncertainty that the conflict will be renewed in a few years, but the loss of those personal liberties and privileges which it has taken centuries of effort to win. Responsibility for victory or defeat rests upon those who have not yet responded to the call."

AUSTRIANS DEFEAT SLAVS ON BESSARABIAN FRONTIER

BERLIN (via Sayville) Oct. 6.—A dispatch from Czernowitz, Bukowina, reports that Russian forces have made a violent attack on the Austrians along the Bessarabian frontier, northeast of the city. The attack is said to have been made along the River Pruth, which the Russians attempted to cross at one place by swimming.

The dispatches say that the Russians made five assaults without success and that many of them were drowned.

This movement is of great importance in view of the present state of affairs in the Balkans. The point of the Russian attack lies directly north of the Rumanian frontier. It is said that should Rumania enter the war on the side of the Entente powers in junction with the forces of Russia, it would be effected. It was reported from Athens today that Rumania was hurriedly sending troops to the Bulgarian frontier and making other military preparations.

NEW FRENCH OFFENSIVE STOPPED BY GERMANS

BERLIN, Oct. 6 (via London.)—An attempt by the French to resume the offensive on the Champagne front by heavy artillery fire against the German positions was frustrated with heavy losses by the German artillery, it was announced by army headquarters today.

The text of the statement follows:

"Regarding the British claim to having obtained the upper hand over German aviators. In the month of September German losses of aeroplanes were seven. In the same period the British lost eight, and the French twenty-two."

"Western theater: A French hand grenade attack on the hill north of Neuville was repulsed.

"In the Champagne the French yesterday attempted to resume the offensive on the front of their former attack with heavy artillery fire which increased to the greatest intensity during the afternoon. The enemy hoped to prepare our positions for storming in a general attack he intended to make. Simultaneously he was preparing his troops ready for the attack on the entire front.

"Under our artillery fire, directed by the enemy's points of departure, the French were successful only at certain points in bringing their troops forward for the attack. Where they did advance they were driven back again with heavy losses.

"Repeated rushes on the hill from Somme-Py to Souain were broken down completely. North and northeast of Beausejour farm and northwest of Ville-sur-Tourbe their attacks were entirely unsuccessful.

"Eastern theater: Army of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg: The attacks yesterday again began between Dristiata and Krewna. They were either repulsed or broken up under our fire. The enemy's initial successes at Kozany and north of Lake Wisziview but by counter attacks the situation was again restored to our favor with heavy losses to the enemy."

Judge Blount Shows How Our Rights are Invaded.

Declares Germans Kill Our Citizens on the Sea.

While England Grabs All of Our Commerce.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—American rights have been invaded by both sides in the present war, Judge James H. Blount of this city today told the National Defense League conference today at its closing session, because "speaking from a military standpoint, we are pitifully unprepared at the present time to make our rights respected."

"If Germany has lain in wait on the high seas and slain our citizens in cold blood," he said, "Great Britain has taken control of our commerce on the high seas as absolutely as if we were a colony of hers, having no voice in her councils."

Judge Blount, who is general counsel of the league, said Great Britain had violated the Declaration of London by placing cotton on the contraband list, which was equivalent to confiscation of a large part of the American cotton crop by making it unsalable to Germany or Austria.

"What we ought to do," he said, "is to set our house in order and command the respect of other nations for our rights by a decent national preparedness."

RADIO EAVESDROPPERS.

Government to Organize all Amateur Wireless Stations for Use in Case of Trouble.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—All commercial and amateur wireless stations in the United States will soon be organized by the Navy Department for immediate use in case of emergency by the intelligence bureau of the navy. In the event of war hundreds and perhaps thousands of operators along the coast lines would be instructed to "listen in" on any radio conversation that might be in progress within range of their instruments, each station using a different wave length. The result would be to establish a line of radio "eavesdroppers" around the country which would be certain to intercept any message transmitted by ships at sea or shore stations beyond the borders south or north.

All matters pertaining to the movements of ships, to communications with or between vessels and shore stations, or relating to information valuable to naval commanders, falls under the direction of the chief of operations.

INCREASES NAVY PAY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Secretary Daniels approved today recommendations for increases in the rates of pay of various classes of navy employees engaged in the manufacture of ordnance and ordnance material at the Washington navy yard, effective October 1.

President Engaged.

would be seen standing by the roadside in the park at the entrance to some glade, while Mrs. Galt led Miss Bones in pursuit of health. These walks continued throughout the winter.

The President's cousin and Mrs. Galt became inseparable companions, and the widow was more and more frequently a guest at the White House, at first for luncheon, at which the President is always present when he is in Washington. Later, she spent many evenings there. At first this caused no comment in official or social circles here, because of the well-known fact that Mrs. Galt was the friend and almost only female companion of the President's cousin, particularly when Miss Wilson, the President's eldest daughter was away from home as frequently occurred.

In the late spring and early summer of this year, however, it was noticed that Mrs. Galt was frequently seen in the White House automobiles when the President was taking his daily drive. She and Miss Bones often accompanied him to the golf links, where they formed a gallery to watch his play with Dr. Grayson. People here began to comment upon the growing intimacy between the President and Mrs. Galt and notice was taken of the marked attention which he paid her when they were in public together.

NATIVE OF VIRGINIA.

Mrs. Galt is a beautiful woman of a distinct brunette type. She is about 40 years old and comes from Virginia, the President's home State.

Once the President had been impressed with the beauty and charm of Mrs. Galt he pressed his addresses with all the ardor of a younger man. Mrs. Galt witnessed the naval review in New York in May from aboard the Presidential yacht, the Mayflower, where she was a guest of Miss Margaret Wilson.

At that time rumors were afloat that the President had developed a strong liking for Mrs. Galt, and that another White House romance was to be anticipated.

Later, Mrs. Galt went for a visit at Harlakenden House, the summer home of the President at Cornish, N. H. For a month or more she was a member of the circle there. The President made two visits to Cornish during Mrs. Galt's stay. It was then, as Washington understands it, that the acquaintance began to ripen into love. They took long drives together in the big White House touring car in the beautiful mountain country of Vermont and New Hampshire. It was noted then that the President had abandoned his practice of riding beside the chauffeur of the White House automobile and that he preferred a seat in the tonneau with his daughter and their charming guest. The President derived a great deal of pleasure, it is said, from reading with Mrs. Galt, finding that their literary tastes were the source of common interest.

RUMORS TAKE SHAPE.

With Mrs. Galt's departure from the summer White House in August, reports that they were to be engaged took tangible shape. These reports were received, of course, with the greatest interest in official and social circles at the Capital, but the President's friends refused to discuss the matter in any way. Indeed it was intimated quite broadly that the President would resent any effort to pry into his personal affairs, it being pointed out that he considered that matters that related solely to his family did not concern the public, and that he did not intend, because of his official position, to yield any of the privileges of a private citizen in this respect.

Mrs. Galt returned to Washington several weeks ago after visiting friends in Massachusetts. Last week she sat near the Presidential box in the reviewing stand for the Grand Army parade. Persons in the stand noticed that the President glanced frequently in her direction.

The entire White House circle fell captive to Mrs. Galt's charm, the President not permitting himself to be surpassed by his daughters in his admiration for her. The President was not engaging in any social activities of any sort in this period, and he found the companionship of Mrs. Galt a source of much gratification, amid the official worries that passed upon him at the different stages of the controversy with Germany.

SKETCH OF MRS. GALT.

Mrs. Galt was Miss Edith Bowling. She was born in Wytheville, Va., where her girlhood was spent, and where her father, William Bowling, won distinction as one of the ablest lawyers of the State.

Mrs. Galt lives at No. 2308 Twentieth street, Nortwest, in the fashionable section of Washington. She has lived here since her marriage in 1896 to Norman Galt. Her first husband was the son of William M. Galt, head of the firm of William M. Galt & Company, which is to Washington what Tiffany's is to New York. Mr. Galt died about eight years. After his death his widow purchased the interest in the jeweler's firm of Sterling Galt, her brother-in-law, and since that time the house has been managed by her two brothers.

Norman Galt was a vestryman of St. Thomas's Episcopal Church here, of which Mrs. Galt is a member.

Mrs. Galt has enjoyed an enviable distinction in the social circles of the capital, not only because of her unusual beauty and natural charm, but also because of her very unusual and interesting character. She is a woman of mental gifts. She has traveled much, has lived for a while in Paris, and has all the self-possession and capacity for thought which would naturally result from her experiences.

HAS ALL SOCIAL GIFTS.

While possessing all of the social gifts that will make her an attractive and graceful figure as the first lady of the land, she is regarded as partial to the quieter pleasures. Her activities in club circles have not been extensive because of more serious interests.

It is announced today that Miss Isabel Hagner, who was social secretary to Mrs. Taft and Mrs. Roosevelt, had been retained in the same capacity by Miss Margaret Wilson. Society people here assume that the capital is entering upon the gayest White House season of several years. Of course there will be a great deal of entertaining in favor of Mrs. Galt unless she and the President express a wish otherwise. The formal White House dinners and state receptions are expected to be resumed and Mrs. Galt, immediately after the wedding, will supersede Miss Margaret Wilson at the helm of the White House society events.

"Loving, charming, witty," are the adjectives to which Washington society has become accustomed during the last few months in connection with the name of Mrs. Galt.

"We are all so southern and congenial," is the way Mrs. Galt put it in speaking of her entertainment by the President and his family. "We have the same musical and literary tastes and our informality is delightful."

The President will be the third member of his family married in the White House. Miss Jessie Wilson, the President's second daughter, was married to Francis Bowes Sayre on November 25, 1913. Miss Eleanor Wilson, the President's youngest daughter, was married to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo in May, 1914.

PREVIOUS WEDDINGS.

The only other widower who married during his term as Chief Executive was President Tyler, but his marriage did not take place in the White House. He married Miss Julia Gardiner of New York at the Church of the Ascension in that city. President Cleveland, the last Democratic President, was the only President ever married in the White House.

During the trip down the Potomac on the gunboat Princeton one of the guns exploded, killing two members of State Upshur and Secretary of the Navy Gilmer. Former Senator Gardiner of New York, father of the girl whom President Tyler married, was killed in the same accident. It was after that accident that President Tyler became interested in Miss Gardiner. Two years before President Tyler married his second wife his 19-year-old daughter, Miss Elizabeth Tyler, was married to her cousin. Representative William Waller of Virginia, the marriage taking place in the White House.

GEN. SCRIVEN WEDS MISS M'QUADE.

CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER OF THE ARMY IS MARRIED AT GLOUCESTER.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 6.—Men in uniforms of blue and gold stood at attention this noon when their chief, Brig.-Gen. George Percival Scriven, was married to Miss Elizabeth McQuade, daughter of Mrs. Peter McQuade of New Brighton, Staten Island. The wedding of Miss McQuade and Gen. Scriven, who is chief signal officer of the army, was the termination of a romance that began at Gloucester, Mass., this summer.

Maj.-Gen. Scott, chief o staff of the army, was Gen. Scriven's best man at the ceremony, which was performed at the home of the bride's mother, Miss Betty Scriven, the general's daughter, attended the bride.

The ceremony was performed by the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Charles A. Cassidy, rector of St. Peter's Church, New Brighton.

JAP PREDICTED WILSON WEDDING.

PROF. KODAMA ALSO INSISTED PRESIDENT WOULD HAVE TWO DAUGHTERS.

The coming marriage of the President was foretold last April 20, at Portland, Or., by Don-shaw Kodama, a Japanese seer who, later, in this city, made other predictions, among them that Mayor Sebastian would be the winner in the city election, then pending.

Prof. Kodama, in an interview given out at Portland and widely published April 21, declared the President would marry an American widow about 40 years old, and that the wedding would be next March. He said Mr. Wilson would reside in New York, and they would have two daughters, and live long and happily.

At the same time he declared Mr. Wilson would bring the big war to a close, and could not again be President, foretelling a great Republican victory next year.

PIERRE DU PONT WEDS ALICE BELIN.

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Oct. 6.—Miss Alice Belin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Belin of Scranton, Pa., was married to Pierre S. DuPont of Wilmington, Del., this afternoon at the apartment of her brother, Ferdinand Lammont Belin, head of the Aetna Explosives Company of Scranton. Mr. DuPont is president of the DuPont-DeNemours Powder Company, with which Ferdinand Belin formerly was associated. Only relatives were present at the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Dr. Joseph M. O'Dell of Troy, N. Y., and which was followed by a reception. R. H. Sharpe, a brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was the best man. Mr. and Mrs. DuPont will live at Pierce's Park, Del., after December 1.

MRS. WIDENER WEDS DR. RICE.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Eleanor Elkins Widener of Philadelphia, widow of George D. Widener, who was lost with his son on the Titanic, was married in Emmanuel Episcopal Church here today to Dr. Alvexander Hamilton Rice of this city, widely known as an explorer.

NEW PORTUGUESE PRESIDENT.

LISBON (Portugal) Oct. 6 (via Paris.)—Dr. Bernardino Machado took the oath as president of the Republic today, succeeding Theophile Braga. Dr. Machado pledged his administration to devote itself to internal and external defense. He assumed office on the fifth anniversary of the proclamation of the republic.

WOULD RETAIN DUTY ON SUGAR.

Democrats Obliged to Back Down on Tariff Issue.

Administration in a Hole may have to Sell Bonds.

May also Lower Exemption on Federal Income Tax.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Retention of the present duty on sugar until conditions become normal and extension of the emergency tax law until the European war is over are two revenue measures which the administration has decided to ask from Congress on the coming session. Secretary McAdoo announced tonight he would recommend the necessary legislation and it is understood President Wilson is in accord with the plan.

No other revenue measures have been approved by the administration so far, although many suggestions have been offered which may be considered before Congress completes its work. Retention of the duty on sugar—which goes on the free list May 1, 1916, unless Congress acts—would give the treasury about $50,000,000 a year. The emergency tax is counted upon to produce about $100,000,000 a year.

Since both the sugar duty and the emergency tax are working at present, however, this would not mean any increase in existing revenues. Larger appropriations for the army and navy without any corresponding cut in other expenditures, indicates that more revenue must be raised from other sources in the next few months.

There has been much talk about an issue of Panama Canal bonds, authorization having been given by Congress for the issuance of more than $200,000,000 of these securities, but Mr. McAdoo has stated that no such step is in contemplation. A lowering of the exemption limit of the income tax law is believed to be more probable.

Amendment.

WILSON TO VOTE FOR SUFFRAGE.

DOESN'T BELIEVE IT PARTY OR NATIONAL ISSUE.

The President Declares Question Should be Decided by the States and Hopes New Jersey will Extend Ballot to Women at Coming Election.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—President Wilson will vote for the woman suffrage State constitutional amendment in New Jersey, his home State, at the special election October 19. He said today he would vote, not as the leader of the Democratic party, but as a private citizen.

Mr. Wilson said he believed the question should not be made a party issue, and should be decided by the States, not the national government.

The following statement was given out at the White House:

"I intend to vote for woman suffrage in New Jersey because I believe that the time has come to extend that privilege and responsibility to the women of the State, but I shall vote, not as the leader of my party in the nation, but only upon my private conviction as a citizen of New Jersey, called upon by the Legislature of the State to express his conviction at the polls. I think that New Jersey will be greatly benefitted by the change.

"My position with regard to the way in which this great question should be handled is well known. I believe that it should be settled by the States and not by the national government and that in no circumstances should it be made a party question, and my view has grown stronger at every turn of the agitation."

Secretaries Garrison, McAdoo, Redfield and Wilson, who also will vote on the question in the near future have declared in favor of equal suffrage.

DR. SHAW GRATIFIED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, in a statement issued here today, expressed her gratification at the news that President Wilson would vote for the suffrage amendment in New Jersey and predicted that "nothing can stop us from carrying New Jersey now."

A statement from Mrs. Medill McCormick, chairman of the Congressional Committee of the association, predicted that President Wilson's announcement was of inestimable importance to the suffrage cause throughout the country.

ROB EVERYBODY IN THEIR PATH.

TWO BANDITS RUN AMUCK HALF WAY ACROSS STATE OF WISCONSIN.

LA CROSSE (Wis.) Oct. 6.—Two bandits, thought by the police to be the men who held up the Milwaukee and St. Paul train, at Glencoe, Minn., Monday morning, ran amuck half way across the State of Wisconsin last night and early today, during which time they figured in robbery and armed fighting in at least three places. The men first held up the caboose of a Milwaukee freight train at New Lisbon, sixty miles east of here, and robbed trainmen of their money, watches and clothing.

They were next stopped at Portage, forty miles away, by Chief of Police Curry of Portage and his assistant. The officers were greeted with a fusillade of shots and robbed of their revolvers and money.

The robbers were next intercepted at Watertown Junction, fifty miles east, where three officers attacked the two fugitives when they leaped off a train. In the exchange of shots one of the robbers was wounded. He was afterward captured at Johnson's Creek, near Watertown. The other escaped.

Catarrh a Blood Disease
S. S. S. Drives It From Your System

Because Catarrh affects the nose and throat, causing sores in the nostrils, stoppage of air-passages and gathering in the throat, it has been common practice to treat Catarrh by lotions, washes and sprays applied to these parts. This mode of treatment is entirely wrong. It cannot give permanent relief, and it is liable to irritate and aggravate the trouble. Catarrh cannot be trifled with. If allowed to run on it will disease the bronchial tubes, settle on the lungs, the stomach—indeed it is a very serious disease. Don't treat it locally. The fact that it causes headaches is proof that it is caused by impure and diseased blood. The one treatment that has proved effective in the treatment of Catarrh is S. S. S., it is the greatest blood purifier and blood tonic known. It relieves the cause of Catarrh by the process of renourishing the blood, renewing its strength and vigor, giving new life to the red blood corpuscles, and stimulating the flow so that it has the vitality to throw off the poison and germs from the system. It is literally a blood bath. You quickly feel results. Headaches disappear, the gathering in the throat stops, the nostrils heal—before you hardly realize it you are well. S. S. S. is a natural blood tonic and has proven effective in the treatment of all blood affections, eczema, tetters, rash, scrofula. Get S. S. S. at your druggist's. UNION SHOWS UNFAIR TACTICS.

GRANITE CUTTERS ABSOLUTELY REFUSE TO ARBITRATE.

Nearly Two Million Dollars in Contracts in San Francisco are Tied up Because the Employers Insist Upon Their Right to Conduct Their Own Business.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—The Granite Cutters' International Association of America has rejected the proposal made by the employers, and the strike instituted June 1, last, which has tied up work on the City Hall at San Francisco, remains in force. Unions at San Francisco, Rocklin, Los Angeles and Raymond are involved.

This information is contained in a communication addressed to E. A. Weisenburger, secretary of the Granite Manufacturers' Association of California, from James Reid, secretary of the union at Knowles, Cal. This communication declares that unless the demands of the union are accepted all plans for a settlement are withdrawn and the situation will remain virtually the same as on June 1, when the strike was first declared.

The union demanded an immediate flat rate of 70 cents per hour, while the employers made a counter-proposal offering to pay a graduated scale at the rate of 62½ cents an hour for the balance of 1915, and increase it until the maximum of 70 cents is reached January 1, 1918, and the employers offered to sign a five-year agreement. Another proposal at variance was the union demand that all foremen shall have been members of the union, that men shall be employed in the order in which they shall apply for work and that discharged employees shall have the right to appeal to a union adjusting committee, whose decision shall be final.

REJECT ARBITRATION.

The employers also insisted that an arbitration agreement be adopted, each disputant in the future to name three arbitrators and the seventh arbitrator to be selected by the original six. Under the terms of this agreement there shall be no strikes, lockouts or suspension of work. The unions rejected the arbitration clause.

In addition to tying up work on the City Hall of San Francisco, involving an expenditure of $1,000,000, the proposed new San Francisco library, with granite work approximating $400,000, and the Benjamin Ide Wheeler hall, with an expenditure of $250,000, are involved.

What the next move will be is a matter of conjecture. Mayor Rolph and others had endeavored to bring about a settlement, but, according to a letter just sent out by the union, the issue is as far from settlement as when the strike was called.

MILITARY HEAD QUITS HIS POST.

Sheriff of Clifton Leaves Strikers in Charge.

Compel All to Join Union or Get Out of the Camp.

Mine Managers Decline to Confer with Hunt.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, Oct. 6.—Sheriff Cash of Clifton, Adjt.-Gen. Harris of the National Guard of Arizona and Maj. Donkersley of the same force arrived in Phoenix from Clifton this morning for a conference with Gov. Hunt. Sheriff Cash asked that 600 additional troops be sent to Clifton at once. Much surprise and dissatisfaction has been expressed here that the heads of both the civil and military forces at Clifton have left their posts of duty.

J. W. Bennie, manager of the Shannon Copper Company, has declined to accept the Governor's offer of safe conduct into Arizona and remains at El Paso.

Another peace delegation has been sent from Clifton to El Paso. Former Supreme Court Justice Ernest W. Lewis, counsel for the mine operators, was in consultation with Gov. Hunt all forenoon today. He declined to state either the subjects discussed or the final results, but admitted that, on behalf of his clients, he had demanded the complete protection of the properties of the three companies interested.

OPPOSE DEFENSE ACT.

The State Federation of Labor, now in session at Tucson, has passed a resolution opposing the national defense act, and another was introduced asking the Governor to take over and operate the Clifton mines under the State Industrial Pursuits Act. A telephone message from Tucson says there is no doubt of the passage of this resolution. Telephone messages from El Paso state that the mine operators are firm in their determination not to return to the State nor to operate the mines until the Western Federation of Miners has withdrawn completely from the district.

An appeal to President Wilson to send Federal troops to take charge of the situation was wired from Phoenix tonight.

NEWSPAPER OPINION.

Tonight's Arizona Gazette says, editorially:

"The Governor of this State sent this pitiful handful of guards [referring to the thirty-two men sent to Clifton] by arrangement with Moyer and the other heads of the strikers not to preserve order, not to protect property, not to uphold the dignity of the State of Arizona and the peace of the commonwealth, but that in case of trouble there might be found some excuse for the State to intervene and to assume a larger measure of control than would otherwise be possible and to intervene for the benefit and on behalf of the strikers."

The movement for the circulation of a recall petition against Gov. Hunt is proceeding and plans are being made to have Democratic and Board of Trade committees take the lead in agitating the recall, if this is found possible.

DEVELOPMENTS AWAITED.

CLIFTON (Ariz.) Oct. 6.—The copper miners here, who went on strike September 11 for recognition of their union and a new wage scale, awaited word of developments at Phoenix, the State capital, where Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners, went today to keep in touch with the situation. In the meantime the miners tightened their organization of the federation.

This procedure was somewhat of a frolic. Everybody in Morenci and Metcalf joined the union, including bankers, storekeepers and their clerks. The sole exception, according to union leaders, was the physician at Metcalf.

Those who refused to join were given marching orders. Union men reported that 192 persons left Morenci today, most of them being English miners.

Reports received here concerning a proposed conference between J. W. Bennie and Gov. George W. P. Hunt brought from the strikers a discussion of the terms under which they will return to work.

The men stated that they will not require recognition of the union, but will insist upon pay of $3.50 for an eight-hour day for miners, $3 for muckers or shovelers, $3.75 for timbermen. These rates are based on a minimum rate of 13 cents for copper.

THE HOSPITAL SYSTEM.

Another point to be insisted upon by the miners is abolition of the present hospital system. This apparently is a sore point, as employees of the companies say they have been required to pay $1.50 as a monthly hospital fee, and that in addition they have had to pay $1 per day board when incapacitated. They insist that the board fee be abolished.

The men declared that up to the time of the strike their rate of pay averaged $1.62 per day for the underground men and that when American employees complained they were threatened that Mexican labor would be put on the job. When the Mexicans sought increased pay the process was reversed.

Norman Carmichael, manager of the Arizona Copper Company, telephoned from El Paso to a subordinate official here today that he would proceed to Phoenix and join the conference with Gov. Hunt, with a view to settling the strike.

If conditions were favorable, he said, he would await the report of J. W. Bennie, who has promised to confer with Gov. Hunt, before going to the capital. Carmichael stated, however, that he might leave El Paso tomorrow.

CARMICHAEL'S STAND.

Manager Carmichael's message materially heightened hopes here for a settlement of the strike. It was understood that the change in his attitude was a result of a conference with John Christy, a representative in the Arizona Legislature, who has been in El Paso since Sunday.

In his message, Mr. Carmichael was reported to have stated that some minor obstacles still remained to be removed before he considered conditions favorable for a settlement of the strike.

"If Mr. Carmichael had adopted this attitude at the beginning," said Guy Miller, member of the executive board of the Western Federation of Miners' "there should have been no strike."

J. G. Hopkins of Virginia, president of the Arizona Copper Company, is in El Paso. It is not known whether he also would proceed to Phoenix to confer with the Governor, or come here to enter negotiations which are expected to occur before the men actually return to work.

PLEDGE SUPPORT TO ACCUSED.

State Federation Says it Will See that Schmidt and Caplan Get a "Fair Trial."

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SANTA ROSA, Oct. 6.—Gov. Johnson's refusal to consider further the pardon of Richard Ford and Herman Suhr, in prison for the Wheatland hop-riot murders, and Scharrenberg's defense of the Governor's action, were the subjects of hot debate today in the annual convention of the California State Federation of Labor.

Resolutions which criticised Gov. Johnson and Scharrenberg, secretary-treasurer of the federation, were presented by Hugo Ernst of San Francisco.

The resolution also demands that the Governor pardon the men.

Among the resolutions adopted today were those pledging support to Schmidt and Caplan at Los Angeles "to see they were given a fair and impartial trial;" favoring construction of at least one new battleship at the Mare Island Navy Yard; recommending the investment of surplus union funds in the labor temple at Los Angeles; two favoring stronger union organization in several trades, and one opposing the repeal or amendment of the seamen's act.

Resolutions opposing revision of the coastwise navigation laws were sent back to the committee.

The report included a recommendation that the association appoint special committee to investigate availability of motor busses as for railways in districts where permanent tracks were not profitable.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

Government ownership of public utilities was termed today a "menace to progress" and a means of securing a controlling vote by Jonathan Bourne, Jr., of Portland, United States Senator from Oregon in an address before the association.

Government ownership, "except in rare instances," Mr. Bourne said, "tends to discourage efficiency by removing competition.

"Its evil effect upon the constructive spirit of enterprise, the most active and capable of people, constitutes a menace, not to the welfare of this generation, but to the progress of our people for time to come.

"If we were to add to the number of government civil employees all those who are now employed by railway, telegraph, telephone, express railway, express or water transportation companies, we would have a host of government employees numbering more than 3,000,000.

"Under government ownership these public service corporations' employees and their friends would variably control the government."

Labor.

"We're Partners," Rockefeller Tells the Workmen.

Declares Capital Needs Labor to Develop Property.

Thinks Times will Improve in the Near Future.

SUNRISE (Wyo.) Oct. 6.—Two hundred men, their clothes, faces and hair powdered with ore dust to a uniform terra cotta hue, gathered around the bath-house of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company iron mine here today and listened to a speech by John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The young capitalist stood half way up a wooden stairway that led to a mine viaduct. His clothing was sprinkled with ore dust and his hands were red with much clasping of miners' palms.

"The last time I visited Sunrise was twelve years ago," began Rockefeller. "Is there anyone here who was working in the mine then?" Two or three said they had and one grizzled miner professed to remember Mr. Rockefeller.

"I won't be so long before coming to see you again," continued the speaker. "It is not a good thing for us to let so much time pass without meeting each other. We are in danger of getting to believe some of the stories each hears about the others. If anybody tries to tell you that I am your enemy don't believe him. I'm your friend.

"We are partners in this business and neither can get along without the other. Your labor would not earn you a living without capital to provide a place for you to work and capital to provide a market for your work. My capital would not get the ore out of the ground without your strong arms and brave hearts to toil at steam shovels and under the earth. We must work together or both will suffer.

"Just remember I am doing everything I can for you. Times are hard now and the men who have put their money into this enterprise are not making anything, but times will improve and with a better demand for our products there will be more work and all of us will prosper."

The reception at the bath-house came just after Rockefeller and his party had eaten luncheon at the camp boarding-house. Arriving shortly after daylight, the day was spent in inspecting the Sunrise properties, talking with workmen and mine officials. Most of the time was spent in the Sunrise mine, a side trip being taken to the Chicago mine, temporarily closed.

ITALY'S KING NEAR TO DEATH.

SHRAPNEL WOUNDS HORSE ON AUSTRIAN FIRING LINE.

Victor Emmanuel, Unmindful of His Danger, Calls for Another Mount, Rides Among His Men and Cheers Them to Take the Enemy's Position by Storm.

UDINE (Italy) Oct. 6 (via Paris.)—King Victor Emmanuel recently had a narrow escape from death or serious injury by shell fire while close to the firing line at the front. His horse was wounded by splinters of shrapnel but the King was unhurt.

The King, desiring to assist in the direction of operations, was proceeding toward the front on horseback, having left his automobile because of the lack of a road. He rode in among his troops although he had been warned that the Austrian projectiles were claiming a number of victims.

As he passed a certain point a shell exploded so near to him that splinters of shrapnel struck and injured his soldiers. The King's composure was not disturbed, and when his suite urged him to retire, he called for another horse, exclaiming: "Here we must win or all die." Then he rode in again among the troops who with shouts of "Savoy," took the Austrian position by storm. The spot is now called the "King's Spur."

On another occasion when near Monte Nero he passed a small detachment that was exposed to bombardment by the Austrians from a mountain opposite the position. The King stopped his automobile and inquired whether there had been any casualties. On being informed that only one gunner had been slightly wounded, the King drove on.

The royal automobile was scarcely out of sight when the Austrian artillery fire was resumed, a large shell falling on the exact spot where the King had stopped, the explosion tearing a hole several yards deep.

The King, hearing the sound of the bombardment, returned to the scene and photographed the smoking cavity where the automobile had just stood.

RED CROSS WITHDRAWN FROM WORK IN MEXICO.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Relief work in Mexico has been discontinued by the American Red Cross and agents in the field there have been ordered home. The action was taken at the instance of Gen. Carranza, who informed Red Cross officials through the State Department that their aid no longer was needed.

Repairs to railroads and release of rolling stock from military use, Gen. Carranza said, had so increased facilities for food transportation that the shortage in Mexico City and other important cities had been alleviated.

The department's advices from its own agents in Mexico recently have indicated a general improvement in transportation facilities and resulting relief of the food situation.

PELTZER'S DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL.

LIFE INSURANCE OF KANSAS CITY MAN WILL PAY ALL DEBTS.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Oct. 6.—Theodor Peltzer, wealthy real estate dealer, died by accident in a fall from a window of his office on the fifth floor of a building here on September 29, a Coroner's jury decided today.

That "there is evidence of a motive for suicide, but no positive testimony showing it to be such" was the declaration of the jury after hearing witnesses testify that Peltzer had issued fraudulent deeds of trust and notes to an amount estimated by the witnesses at $400,000.

Floyd Jacobs, county prosecutor, issued a statement saying a grand jury would be called to examine into the business affairs of the dead man.

Life insurance carried by Peltzer, it was said, is counted on to pay many of the claims against the estate. Mrs. Peltzer, widow of the real estate operator, it was declared, had waived her claims to all the life insurance except $85,000 in accident policies. The remaining insurance of Peltzer, in several life companies, aggregates $432,000.

INNOCENT MAN SERVES A TERM.

BOOK AGENT RELEASED FROM LEAVENWORTH AFTER FIVE-YEAR SENTENCE.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6.—Gross S. Edison of St. Louis, a book agent, was ordered released from the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth today, where he has served five years for a crime which he never committed.

Edison was arrested in St. Louis in February, 1911. He had in his possession a $20 banknote of 1857 on a Savannah, Ga., bank. He was convicted of passing counterfeit money and sentenced to eight years in prison.

L. S. Harvey, deputy United States District Attorney, learned Edison was accused of counterfeiting a Georgia State bank bill which was issued in 1857, when State banks were permitted to issue banknotes. It was not the money of the United States government and therefore was not a crime against the Federal laws.

CHARGES COLLINS WITH KIDNAPING.

MRS. ALBERT SWARTZAUER OF LOS ANGELES SEEKS CUSTODY OF HER CHILD.

PORTLAND, Oct. 6.—A warrant for the arrest of Raymond F. Collins, now in Butte, Mont., on a charge of kidnaping a child actually but not legally his, was issued here today.

The case is peculiar in that the mother of the child, Minnie Swartzauer, says frankly that Collins is its father. She is the wife of Albert J. Swartzauer of Los Angeles, however, and the law takes the position that the baby, having been born in wedlock, is that of Swartzauer.

The mother was married to Swartzauer five years ago while a minor, and never did live with him. A few days after the marriage she eloped with Collins, a grocery clerk, and for years they have lived together as man and wife at various places along the Pacific Coast.

Fifty Organizations in Chicago Pledge Support to Oppose Mayor Thompson's Edict.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Fifty organizations affiliated with the United Societies for Local Self-Government called meetings today to pledge their support to any action which may be taken to oppose Mayor Thompson's Sunday-closing edict against the 7152 saloons of this city.

Eugene Pike, City Comptroller, who managed the Mayor's election campaign, admitted today that the Mayor signed the "wet" pledge not to interfere with the saloons, but Mr. Thompson, according to Mr. Pike, attached his name under a misapprehension.

"He was told that the Sunday-closing law was a dead letter and that nothing in the pledge called upon him to violate the laws," explained Mr. Pike. "When the corporation counsel reported, however, that the Sunday-closing law was perfectly valid and operative there was nothing for the Mayor to do but to perform his sworn duty, namely, to see that the law is enforced."

SAVE YOUR HAIR AND BEAUTIFY IT WITH 'DANDERINE'

Spend 25 cents! Dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Try this! Hair gets beautiful, wavy and thick in few moments.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its luster, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots tarnish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

A Lightning Result.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger:] During the lessons one afternoon in a public school, a thunderstorm arose, and seeking to lessen the fright of the children, the teacher began an entertaining discourse on the wonder of the elements.

"Jimmy," said she, finally turning to a bright little youngster, "can you tell me what lightning is?"

"Yes, ma'am," was the ready rejoiner of little Jimmy. "Lightning is streaks of electricity."

"That's right," smiled the teacher, encouragingly. "Now tell me why it is that lightning never strikes twice in the same place."

"Because," answered Jimmy, quite easily, "after it hits once the same place ain't there any more."

Going Back after Him.

[New York Evening Post:] A visitor who passed through one of the English military hospitals, noticed an Irish private, who had been seriously injured.

"That's a bad case," he said to the attendant. "What are you going to do with him?"

"He's going back to the front," answered the attendant.

"Going back!" echoed the visitor.

"Yes," said the attendant, "he thinks he knows who did it."

Not set in caps, estimate five (5) average words to the first line and eight (8) average words to each line following. The Times cannot guarantee accuracy or assume responsibility for errors of any kind occurring in telephoned advertisements.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one time.

Errors not the fault of the advertiser, which clearly lessen the value of an advertisement, will be rectified only by republication, without extra charge, on presentation of receipt within five days after insertion. No allowance will be made where the error does not materially affect the value of the advertisement.

Advertisers should retain receipts given by The Times for money refunded. "Errors," as no mistake can be rectified without them.

Telephoned orders to discontinue advertising in The Times are numbered in the order of their receipt, and in each instance the number of the order given to the advertiser, who should make a memorandum thereof. Sunday real estate advertisements, to be classified properly, must be in The Times office before 8 o'clock Saturday night. Other classified "Wants," "To Lets," etc., received over counter or by telephone until 11 p.m. Saturday. Ads received after closing hours for each division will be inserted under heading "Too Late to Classify." Rate 1½ cents per word.

For Excess Condemnation.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce reaffirmed their position yesterday favoring the passage of Constitutional Amendment No. 8, providing for excess condemnation for public purposes. The directors set forth their belief that such action will materially assist in future public improvements by permitting counties or municipalities to condemn property additional to that actually needed for a proposed improvement.

Big Junior College Enrollment.

Three hundred and fifty-five students, ranging in age from 16 to 46, representing thirty-seven different States and twenty-two different nationalities, have registered at the Los Angeles Junior College. Two full years of college work are offered by the junior school and its standing is recognized by all the large eastern schools and also at Berkeley. No tuition is charged.

Tariff Commission.

Acting on the request of the United States Chamber of Commerce, President Bulla of the affiliated Los Angeles chamber appointed a special committee yesterday, consisting of F. Q. Story, D. P. N. Murphy, to work in conjunction with the directors of the big organization on a proposal to request the President to appoint a nonpartisan tariff commission. It is the purpose of the United States Chamber of Commerce to shortly take a referendum vote of its membership on the question.

Ill-advised Regulation.

SEAL INDUSTRY GOING TO WASTE.

FEDERAL LEGISLATION REDUCES LARGE INCOME.

Effort to Protect the Seals of the Pribilof Islands Conduces to Ruinous Condition of Valuable Herd. Law Passed by Men Unfamiliar with Breeding of Seals.

George Archibald Clark of Stanford University seems to know more about Alaska and the fur seals of Pribilof Islands than Deputy Commissioner of Fisheries Lester Jones, who has recently made a report of Alaska investigations.

Mr. Clark finds that the United States government is wasting a half million dollars annually through blunder-headed legislation in the Pribilof Islands. A law passed in 1912 prohibited commercial killing of fur seals for five years. But Mr. Clark points out that this is sheer waste, because "the stock of breeding and reserve bulls in 1913 shows an increase adequate to meet the needs of the expanding herd. The relation of the two sexes on the breeding grounds has in this season been more nearly ideal than at any time in the past seventeen years. Could present conditions remain undisturbed, accurate information regarding the herd's future condition would be certain. Unfortunately this is not to be. The suspension of land killing, incorporated in the law of August 24, 1912, will break the present equilibrium and throw all factors of the problem into new confusion, by swamping the breeding grounds with an overstock of idle bulls. The real effect of the suspension is not at present visible, except in that the hauling grounds were in 1913 filled with superfluous young males, the killing of which was prevented by law. Ten thousand of these animals (with skins worth $250,000 to $400,000,) were left to grow up as useless fighting bulls, and this condition is to be multiplied through four more seasons. Its consequences ten years hence will prove a veritable calamity to the herd."

The wise rule governing the sealing, previously, was that killable bulls were confined mainly to the ages of three and four years respectively; that an adequate number of bulls to serve the herd of cows be scrupulously preserved and protected—these bulls being of the age of five years and over as a rule. In other words, the killable bulls were almost wholly confined to three and four years, with possibly an occasional exception of particular fine specimen of a four-year-old. The killing of two-year-olds was regarded under the old rue as well nigh a wanton waste, because the animals at that age had not attained a size such as to make their pelts of full commercial value.

The rule was perfectly sound, as Mr. Clark shows. And it was protective, for the reason that the fur seals, being polygamous, necessarily produce from year to year a large surplus of males, and these were available for killing; and to let them grow up was a wasteful increase of fighting bulls. Also, to let them alone past the age of four years, was, to all intents and puproses, to waste them and their pelts, because the pelt of the full seal, after it passes the prime, deteriorates and in certain seasons becomes what is known as "staggy."

The inviolable rule in regard to cows is that none of them under any circumstances be killed. In this way, and by maintaining and enforcing the rule of action adopted by the Russians before the United States acquired the islands, about 1867, and which rule was perpetuated under American control for about a quarter of a century, experience demonstrated that the practice described was the very best that could be adopted and enforced.

In the twenty-five years there was yielded to the United States an aggregate in the way of taxes paid on skins, together with the yearly rental of $55,000, that made a formidable offset to the aggregate purchase price of Alaska, to-wit: $7,200,000.

But by the law of 1912 the revenue has been cut off, the seals have gone to waste, the valuable fur-bearing foxes of the islands depending on the seal meat for food, have perished to an alarming extent and the United States hasn't a thing of value to show for the law hastily and ill-advisedly passed.

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of permitting agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies to its issue. Neither does it mid-brand nor predate its editions, nor inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply its patrons.

The Times' entire circulation is practically net, and it is more genuine and in every respect superior in quality to that of any other newspaper published in Los Angeles.

SCHOOL HEAD ON WARPATH.

Supt. Keppel Flays Hearsay Evidence on Russell.

Long Beach Immorality Case Stirs up Tempest.

Accused Teacher has Best of First Day's Hearing.

Scoring the methods employed by the County Probation Office in investigating the immorality in the Long Beach public schools three years ago, County Superintendent of Schools Keppel yesterday afternoon almost brought to a sudden termination the appeal from dismissal by the city Board of Education of Tom A. Russell, a teacher in the Sixty-first-street school, who was let out because of these charges.

The explosion of Supt. Keppel, who is sitting as judge in the case, came after six or seven witnesses had admitted their only knowledge of wrongdoing on the part of Mr. Russell was of the hearsay kind, based principally upon the allegations of General Secretary R. H. Gossom of the Long Beach Y.M.C.A. and R. B. Dunlap, assistant county probation officer. The latter was assigned on the case three years ago and his testimony was largely responsible for the dismissal. He admitted he had not gone to original sources to seek information.

According to the testimony, the case dates back to the time when Mr. Russell discovered a number of boy pupils of the Daisy-street school in Long Beach were ill treating a mentally-deficient girl pupil. He succeeded in stopping the practice, but it is alleged two of the boys were advised to take certain precautionary steps.

CONFLICTING EVIDENCE.

Secretary Gossom in his testimony declared that Russell had come to him with grave admissions, an assertion denied absolutely by Russell and several witnesses but confirmed by Long Beach Superintendent of Schools W. L. Stephens, who stated that the defendant in the action had made similar admissions to him long after the official investigation.

About the same time Mr. Russell was instrumental in the arrest of S. B. Cramme, who was charged with improper conduct, was fined and left the community. Six weeks later he received a letter to the Long Beach folks from Portland, alleging that Russell's conduct was similar to his own and would bear investigation.

MOVIES ON SUNDAY.

Barring these things, Secretary Gossom did not dismiss his leader of Russell's camp and other Y.M.C.A. activities, because of his great following among the boys, letting him out only about eight months later and then on a charge that Russell had frequented motion picture theaters on Sundays and was too often seen on the "bike" with various boys. The charges of Cromtie, coupled with those of Secretary Gossom, were passed in the hands of the police at the latter's town and Captain of Detectives E. A. O'Rourke at that time, and Officer C. C. Mitchell and W. Winters questioned Russell and asked numerous boys with whom he was with as to his character. Both men on the witness stand stated that it was impossible to get any evidence against Russell.

They admitted they had not looked up the two boys or the girl directly implicated by the alleged confession of Russell. Supt. Stephens admitted he had made no further search for the three children or their parents, a thing admitted also by Mr. Buffum.

The latter's testimony denied largely that of Secretary Gossom as to the inquisition. He declared that at that time Russell emphatically disclaimed assisting the boys by advice or in any other way in their practices. When he admitted those representing the school board had not gone to the boys, the girl or the parents in question, he and his confreres were severely criticised by Supt. Keppel.

Mr. Buffum was unable even to give the names of the children involved, which throughout the entire hearing could not be elicited from any one. He stated that not only had Russell remained in the Y.M.C.A. work, where his Bible class was most popular, but he had remained a teacher in the Long Beach schools for a year and a half, when he resigned of his own accord, and to the regret of the board, which deemed his services unexcelled.

After other favorable testimony for Russell by several witnesses, who admitted their only knowledge of impropriety on his part had come through Secretary Gossom, Assistant Probation Officer Dunlap was called. Under cross-

DIVORCE COURT HEAD SELECTED.

JUDGE WOOD IS CHOSEN BY HIS CONFRERES; TO TAKE JOB SOON.

Judge J. P. Wood was chosen last night at a meeting of the Superior Court judges at the Athletic Club to preside in the divorce court after January One, next, the date recently named by Judge Monroe for surrendering the position. The latter will preside over Department Fourteen, where Judge Wood now holds forth.

The matter was brought to the attention of the judges in a letter written to them several weeks ago by Judge Monroe, who asked to be relieved after serving in the divorce court more than four years. Judge Monroe was highly complimented by his brother jurists for the character of his work in the divorce court and all tendered him a vote of thanks for his untiring efforts in the trying work.

Judge Wood said he appreciates the irksomeness of the divorce court and though he did not seek the position, will be glad to trade courts with Judge Monroe.

The judges also discussed shortening the term of the presiding judge. It was suggested the term be cut from one year to six months and the matter will be decided at the next meeting.

It was unanimously decided to hold the regular monthly meetings of the judges on the first Wednesday night instead of the first Monday, as heretofore.

WRAPPED IN FLAMES.

Lantern Ignites Gasoline, Auto Driver Probably Fatally Burned in Explosion.

H. V. Swain of No. 2665 Lacy street, a motor truck driver, was probably fatally burned and his truck was destroyed by fire having its origin from a lantern placed by Swain near the truck while filling the gasoline tank. The fire also destroyed a small garage where the truck was kept.

At the Receiving Hospital he explained that he drove his machine into the garage early last night and placed a lantern near the rear of the car while he started to fill the gasoline tank. A splash of the gasoline hit the hot glass of the light and the explosion followed. The loss, according to the fire department, is about $3000.

PIONEERS ELECT.

County Society in Annual Meeting Holds Social and Hears Speeches of Forty-niners.

With some of the first pioneers to cross the Rockies in 1849 present, the Los Angeles County Pioneer Society held their annual business meeting and election last night in The Times assembly-rooms, on the second floor of The Times Building. A musicale and literary programme followed the election of directors.

Among those who delivered addresses was E. A. Speegle of Sawtelle, who came to California in '49 with his parents and grandparents. His sister, Mrs. L. L. Bequette, who also came with the caravan across the desert and over the Rockies, lives in Boyle Heights, but was unable to attend last night's meeting of the society, of which she is a member.

The following directorate was elected, to hold office during the ensuing year: William H. Workman, J. Frank Burns, John L. Slaughter, Joseph Mesmer, Randall H. Hewette and Edward Nittinger.

BAR CAPLAN OUT OF COURTROOM.

Unless Legally Admitted, is Ruling of Judge.

Significant Change of Front by Schmidt Defense.

Sharp Clash Over Attempt to "Reach" Talesmen.

A feature of yesterday's proceedings in the attempt to secure a jury in the trial of M. A. Schmidt for the murder of Charles A. Haggerty—one of The Times employees killed in the dynamiting of the original building—was a discussion in open court of the attempt of friends of the dynamiters to reach and influence prospective jurymen.

As published in The Times yesterday morning, this attempt was made through mailing scurrilous circulars, aimed against the State and its court officers. Immediately after the court opened yesterday morning Chief Counsel Fairall for the defense arose and addressed Judge Willis.

"I observe in The Times this morning," said Mr. Fairall, "a statement that someone has been writing to the jurors and trying to influence them. The indications in this article are that the defense is responsible for this.

"This seems to me like it bears the earmarks of William J. Burns and his satellites to influence the minds of the public, and the attorneys for the defense deny any knowledge of the affair. We ask the court for an investigation."

Attorney Fairall was attempting to proceed further, when he was interrupted by the court.

"This matter has already been called to the attention of the court," said Judge Willis, "and it is under investigation at the present time. Proceed with the examination of the juror."

District Attorney Woolwine made a brief statement resenting the implication of the counsel for the defense of criticism of Burns and court officials. Later he issued the following statement:

WOOLWINE'S STATEMENT.

"Any statement made by counsel for the defense to the effect that William J. Burns was responsible for the distribution of the circulars in question is ridiculous for many reasons; among others, that it is an attack upon the prosecution and in particular upon the court and the District Attorney. I do not know who is responsible for the circulation of this literature, but if it came into the hands of any jurors by design, it should be promptly investigated. However, I do not believe that any sane man would attach any particular importance to such a vile slander."

The next most important development of the day came at the last thing before the close of the court. Chief Counsel Fairall asked that the court permit the presence of David Caplan in the courtroom during the trial. Caplan was present when the case was first called and when an agreement was reached to try the cases separately.

Counsel Fairall admitted that he had stated that it was not desired that Caplan be present during the trial, but stated that this was now desired.

"You will have to consult with me after the adjournment of court," was the response of Judge Willis.

CAPLAN BARRED.

Immediately after adjournment this conference was held and Judge Willis stated that the counsel for the defense would have to advance some legal reason for granting the request before it would be granted. This was not done, and Caplan will remain in jail during the trial, which gives every indication of being long drawn-out.

Doubtless the defense has concluded that it would be much safer to have Caplan in court every day, under the protective wing of Olaf Tveitmoe, than for him to remain in jail during the long and weary days of the trial, where he could brood over his situation. It is generally conceded that Caplan is the "weak" member of the alleged conspirators.

At the closing of court last evening the situation toward securing a jury was thus: Six of the regular venire have been excused for cause. Four have been examined and challenged for cause by the defense, but these challenges have been denied. Two have been unchallenged.

The examination of Juror McBurney was continued in the forenoon. Dr. Cecil Reynolds was called as a specialist to testify concerning the condition of the juror's mind and his ability to serve on this long trial, but before he was questioned, and after a further examination of Mr. McBurney, the court announced his decision that the juror should be excused.

The name of H. L. McCabe was then drawn from the box, and the examination of A. M. Allen was taken up. This developed that Mr. Allen is a bookkeeper and accountant, managing an office in Pasadena for the Torrens Title Security Company. He stated that his mind was free and clear to receive evidence as to whether dynamite or gas caused the explosion that destroyed the Times Building, and that he had no bias against The Times or any person connected with it. He was passed.

Much time was taken up in the interrogation of Sanford Woodbury, who resides in Pasadena, and has lived in Los Angeles county seven years, having come here from Indiana. He stated that he has employed labor, but has had no trouble with the men employed. Both State and defense passed this juror.

Julius Swartzentraub of No. 1658 Third avenue was the next juror to be questioned. He stated that he had been a banker and hardware merchant, and a manufacturer on a small scale, and is now retired from active business; that he had employed labor and expressed decided views on the rights of the employer to conduct his own business without the interference of

AROUND THE HORN AGAIN.

American-Hawaiian Does not Wait for Reopening of the Canal.

Resumption by the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company of the old routing through the Straits of Magellan, pending the reopening of the Panama Canal, was announced here yesterday by H. W. Roberts, the company's Southern California agent.

Mr. Roberts also announced that the west-bound steamers Arizonan and Iowan, which have been lying at Cristobal, have been ordered to proceed on their way via the Straits and should arrive here in about fifty days. The east-bound steamers Ohioan and Montanan, which have been lying at Balboa, have also been ordered to take the routing via the Straits and should arrive at their first Atlantic ports of call in forty-five days.

Subsequent routings of steamers will be announced as soon as definite information is forthcoming on the status of the canal.

IDEAL SPOT FOR NEW NAVAL BASE.

RESOLUTIONS DECLARE THIS IS LOGICAL LOCATION.

Chamber of Commerce will Forward to the President, Military Heads and Congress a Clear Statement of Our Harbor's Advantages and City's Commanding Location.

Setting forth that Los Angeles is not only the largest city on the Pacific Coast, but the wealthiest municipality of the Southwest, and the strategic center of Southern California, resolutions were passed yesterday by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, for transmission to the President, Secretary of War, Secretary of the Navy, chairman of the House Committee on Military and Naval Affairs, and the California representation in Congress, directing attention to our logical location as the site of the proposed new naval base.

"Los Angeles harbor possesses harbor lands and facilities," says the resolutions, "for wharfage, dockage and slips sufficient to accommodate the commerce of Liverpool and Antwerp combined. It affords safe anchorage for the combined fleets of all the nations of the world, in all kinds of weather. It has been dredged to a depth to accommodate vessels of the deepest draft."

It is also pointed out that work on harbor fortification is already under way; that the city is the terminus of many transcontinental railroads and steamship lines plying to all parts of the world, and that there is a sufficient supply of fuel oil, at minimum cost, for the use of the entire United States Navy.

"Southern California is a principality in itself," says the resolutions, "easily defended, hemmed in by mountains and the ocean. The logical center of this principality is the city of Los Angeles, for naval and military operations, and would surely be the principal point at which an enemy would strike in Southern California, as the fall of Los Angeles would involve of necessity the fall of the balance of Southern California.

"Troops in Los Angeles could, by the several transcontinental railroad lines and boulevards, be rushed northward and concentrated at San Francisco within twelve hours. They could be rushed to Los Angeles harbor, loaded on transports and landed anywhere on the California or west Mexican coast. There is a short rail communication to the Lower California line. Los Angeles is within less than twenty-four hours' rail communication with the Southeastern California border and the Arizona line.

"The unequaled climate of Southern California and the topographical conditions surrounding the city of Los Angeles afford a field for military and naval maneuvers nowhere else excelled. Los Angeles is one of the five natural locations for troops and the base for naval operations, the other four being Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Monterey, the four last named now having army posts and naval bases."

BIG TEUTON FETE.

German Day Will be Celebrated Here Sunday with Great Programme at the Auditorium.

The German-American Alliance of Southern California will celebrate "German Day" Sunday with a monster celebration at Clune's Auditorium. A large musical and literary programme has been arranged, in which more than 300 singers and several prominent local business men will participate.

On October 6, 1683, a band of Germans landed in Pennsylvania and settled Germantown. It is in commemoration of this that the local alliance is celebrating. Because they were unable to procure a suitable hall yesterday, the gathering was postponed to Sunday afternoon.

Among those who will deliver addresses are Walter Haas, Rev. Otto Satzinger and Max Socha. Both English and German will be spoken. Alfred Wallenstein, the local boy 'cellist, who has gained some reputation as a vaudeville performer, will play. Mrs. Marie Young, former premiere soprano of the Royal Opera Company of Dresden and Stuttgart, will sing. Miss Elsa Grosser will play the violin, and the Los Angeles festival choir and Saengerbund will render some of their choruses. The proceeds of the celebration will go to the German Red Cross fund.

EGG A DAY FOR THREE MONTHS.

Swain Hangs up Hard-boiled Record to Win Bride.

Fair Deceiver Collects Bet on Dietetic Feat.

Spends Money on Trousseau and Weds Another.

Christopher Waldo is guilty of disturbing the peace and he revels in the charge. Most persons would say he has a reason.

Before he had the reason he had a sweetheart, one Matilda Walters, No. 1622 Utah street. Every day he called on her, every day he proposed marriage, and every day he was rejected.

It was three months and a day ago that Chris Waldo thought he was celebrating the happiest day of his life, second possibly to one. For Matilda Walters said she would wed him.

However, as it later developed, Matilda's avowal was not uninspired by ulterior motives. In an argument one afternoon some of the neighbors declared it was impossible for any person to eat a hard-boiled egg for breakfast every day for three months. That started a debate that raged along Utah street for several days, until one prosperous neighbor came to Matilda's home one day and proclaimed it was impossible for any person to eat said boiled egg each morning for three months.

Matilda shrewdly asked how much he would bet on such an issue. He said he would bet $50. Then Matilda, who is by no means unattractive, cajoled him into making a further offer—that he would give $50 if he could be shown any person who could perform such a feat.

"If you'll promise me you won't tell anyone about the understanding, I think I can get a fellow who'll eat those eggs, if you'll give me the fifty."

"Sure," said the neighbor. "Go as far as you like and the fifty bucks are yours."

EXPERIMENT BEGUN.

When Christopher Waldo returned from labor that night, he called on Matilda.

"Are you going to marry me, Tilly?" he asked.

"Do you want me to, so much?"

"Everything that wears hairpins trots second to you."

"Well, Chris, I'll marry you on one condition. I want to see you every morning at breakfast, and that will show me whether or not I would get

ELKS TO VISIT BAY CITY FAIR.

TWO SPECIAL TRAINS WITH FIVE HUNDRED MEMBERS LEAVE TONIGHT.

Nearly 500 members of Los Angeles Lodge, No. 99, B.P.O. Elks, and their friends, will leave this evening for San Francisco, headed by the Elks' band and drill team. Two special trains will be run on the Santa Fe.

The trains will leave about five minutes apart, but when 11 o'clock tonight strikes the two trains will be together somewhere along the line. All Elks will detrain and give a toast to their absent brothers at this hour, which is significant in Elkdom all over the world.

The band will escort the Los Angeles delegation from the train at Oakland and a parade will be formed at the foot of Market street when the ferryload of Elks arrives.

The purpose of the excursion to the Bay City is double, in that it carries the Elks to the State convention and to the exposition. The drill team will compete for the State trophy at the exposition on Saturday afternoon and the band of No. 99 will be one of the features of the entertainment.

Returning to Los Angeles, one train will leave San Francisco Sunday evening, arriving Monday morning, and the second special will leave Wednesday.

The drill team and band are being taken to San Francisco as guests of the lodge, which raised the necessary expense money outside the lodge funds as a tribute to the showing made by the two organizations during the recent convention.

NEVADA JUDGE COMING.

Will Preside in United States District Court While Local Jurist Goes to Fresno.

Official information was received yesterday from Judge W. B. Gilbert, senior judge of the United States Circuit Court, San Francisco, to the effect that Judge Edward S. Farrington of the United States District Court of Nevada will be in Los Angeles next Wednesday to hold court, continuing until some time in November when Judge Robert S. Bean of Oregon will preside indefinitely.

The outside judge will hold court in Judge Bledsoe's department, who, in the meantime, will go to Fresno and begin the hearing of the famous oil withdrawal suits continuing until November 1, when he will return and start the hearing of the oil land suits involving the charge of fraud made by the government against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, and a number of corporations and individuals with holdings in Kern county.

This series of cases, involving six different actions, will continue some months, and in the meantime Judge Bean will be compelled to hold court elsewhere, and it is understood that during the month of November the session will be held in the room on the fifth floor of the Bullard Block.

Gentlemen:
The music of the Edison Diamond Disc is wonderful. Never have I enjoyed such perfect music for my work, and the tone of this marvelous instrument is truly an inspiration in my interpretive dances.
The violin records by Carl Fleish and Albert Spaulding are as perfect as the actual playing of these great artists.
I am delighted with my Diamond Disc and consider it, as Mr. Edison says, "a real musical instrument."

Politics.

"PAP" TO FILL UP BANDWAGON.

Smooth Procedure to Boost Road Bonds Bared.

Propositions Juggled with Votes at Stake.

Letter of Supervisor Shows the Inner Workings.

How one part of Los Angeles county was juggled against another in a political deal to get votes for the $2,886,000 road bonds is uncovered by a letter written by Supervisor Hamilton, who was the mainspring on the Board of Supervisors in doling out "pork" to make the lump sum which will be voted upon the 26th inst.

Mr. Hamilton belongs to that certain "reform" element in our politics that for years decried the Congress "pork barrel," the inclusion of items in the appropriation bill to get votes from districts favored.

The letter which Supervisor Hamilton wrote to the editor of a Lordsburg paper is being circulated throughout the county to show the arrangement of propositions in the ordinance calling the bond election was made merely for the purpose of obtaining the support of each of the favored districts for the entire issue.

The Supervisor's letter to the Lordsburg editor says:

"I desire to thank you for your recent editorial on the road situation indicating that San Dimas Canyon should be included in the list of bond proposals.

"I had overlooked that important interest of your section and was only too glad to have an item of $75,000 for a road into San Dimas Canyon added to the resolution adopted today.

"I trust this will incline the people of Lordsburg and neighboring cities to recognize the justice of the bond proposition as a whole, it being the intention that its benefits should reach every part of the county.

"Fraternally yours,

[Signed] "JOHN J. HAMILTON,
"Supervisor First District."

In taking a slant at the items included in the list of bonds to be voted, the people of San Dimas and Lordsburg noticed their districts were overlooked. They sent threats to Mr. Hamilton that if he didn't include these districts, the voters would rise up and smite his bond proposition.

The agile Mr. Hamilton, having learned smooth politics in Iowa before he migrated to California, saw the necessity of silencing, or at least soothing the citizens of San Dimas and Lordsburg. He amended his bond resolution by adding $75,000 as "road pap"—to the "kickers."

This shrewd political move on his part, Supervisor Hamilton calculated, would net considerably more votes. Instead, the letter in which he brazenly admitted the trade is being used to the detriment of the whole road bond proposition.

In all parts of Los Angeles county protests are being made against the voting of the road bond issue. In Los Angeles city the opposition is developing into a strength that indicates the "road pap" pet of Supervisor Hamilton will have hard sledding.

SPECIAL ELECTION. MAY BE CALLED SOON.

The probability of another special election was presented yesterday when the backers of the Whiffen petition for an ordinance compelling the city to sell water to outside land owners announced that they propose to continue their work until they have sufficient signatures to the initiative. A petition of that size, it was explained, will make it mandatory on the Council to call a special election within sixty days after the petition is certified by the City Clerk. The Whiffen petition, bearing 5 per cent. of the last vote, has already been filed and is now being checked. Workers for the anti-two-platoon fire ordinance petition filed a supplementary petition yesterday, which will bring that petition over the required 15 per cent., but because this calls for the repeal of an initiative ordinance, a special election is not mandatory.

In the event of a special election on the water sale question, the two-platoon repeal and the five city bond propositions will also be added. The Board of Freeholders may also be able to present the proposed charter for the same election although at the present rate the freeholders are working, the charter will not be ready for a vote before next March.

On the Amendments.

Assemblyman Lyon addressed the Santa Monica Bay Women's Clubs yesterday on the proposed no-party law, holding that it would be folly to suppose any such concoction would redound to the benefit of the people of California. He strenuously opposed the approval of the bills.

Mrs. Laura Martin of the W.C.T.U. will speak on the proposed constitutional amendments at the Temperance Temple, Temple street and Broadway, tomorrow afternoon.

Representatives of all the political parties will hold a conference today to determine upon a plan of action to defeat the proposed no-party bills, which are to be voted on the 26th inst.

THWARTED AGAIN.

Fireman, Who Periodically Attempts Suicide, Saved by Comrades, Who were Prepared.

Whenever fires are scarce in the vicinity of No. 1825 Cahuenga avenue, where a city fire station is located, Fireman H. C. Harts attempts to take his life. When work is brisk he is entirely happy.

For several days no flames had aroused the community protected by the fire fighting unit of which Harts was a member. He became morose. His co-workers warned each other.

"Next thing he'll be trying to kill himself again if there isn't a fire soon," they said, "so we better get the dope ready."

The dope referred to was first aid to suicide materials.

So yesterday when Harts went into the yard in the rear of the fire station and swallowed a potion of cyanide of potash his comrades were ready. They discovered his act just as he was throwing the bottle away. Immediately they carried him into the station, piled him with emetics, and summoned a doctor. Their rapid assistance saved Fireman Harts's life, and he was sent to his home, No. 1115 Maple avenue, but slightly indisposed from the results of his attempt.

Seven Feet High; Nine Hundred Pounds.

A big cake for a big celebration in a big store.

This is the "Tenth Anniversary Sale Birthday Cake" of the Fifth Street Store. It will be cut at 9:30 o'clock this morning and every visitor to the popular emporium will get a piece. The figure of the genial Frank Wiggins has been set in to show the relative size of the monster confection, which was baked at Jevne's.

At Broadway Store Today.

WILL CUT NINE HUNDRED POUND CAKE FOR GUESTS.

LIKE cake? Go around to the Fifth-street Store this morning and see one dismembered that would put a strain on a hay-scale and that stands seven feet over all. Also get a piece of it, for it is the big department store's tenth birthday and the establishment is host to all.

The first incision in the biggest cake, bar none, that was ever tested with a broom straw in this town, will be made at 9:30 o'clock by one of the prettiest girls in the store. No, it is not to be made with a meat-cleaver, but with a cake knife that is like the cake and the store—big.

Last year the store had a birthday cake that compares with this one about as the bank account of a ribbon counter clerk does with the allies' loan. Nevertheless, it was estimated last year's cake was divided into 20,000 pieces. The one this year will go last year's about five times better, and leave crumbs enough over to feed all the canary birds east of Main street.

The cake is of the pound variety—900 pounds of it, to be exact. It is frosty all over in a quite delectable way, with a Greek temple effect as a setting for candied poppies and a chocolate bear, and the whole surmounted by a replica of the Santa Barbara Mission done in icing, with a lawn of icing mint.

WOMAN ARRAIGNED AS A LARCENIST.

FORMER SECRETARY OF LOCAL DEMOCRATIC LEAGUE OUT ON BAIL.

Mrs. Imogene Huey, former secretary of the Women's Democratic League, who was arrested on a charge of grand larceny at her beautiful home in Montecito late Tuesday night by Constable Woodbury and brought to this city yesterday morning, appeared before Justice Hinshaw shortly before noon and gave $1000 bail. She will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

The warrant for Mrs. Huey's arrest was issued last June, based upon a complaint made by Mrs. Minaie G. Pelzer of Glendale, who alleges Mrs. Huey induced her to sign the name of Mrs. Mary F. Green to a check while instructing her in the method of drawing checks, and thereafter deposited the check to her own account.

Mrs. Huey declared she secured the money on a loan from Mrs. Pelzer and has paid back most of it.

Employees at Courthouse Surprise Clerk Who Did Same to Them When He Married.

Being modest William M. Ward, clerk for Judge Taft, did not say a word to his fellow clerks when he got ready to marry Miss Franc Ward Smith. They discovered it after he returned to work. Yesterday the clerks surprised Mr. Ward. He was called into the judgment department and was shown a set of silver.

"That's mighty fine," commented Mr. Ward.

"It ought to be," was the retort. "We bought it for you and Mrs. Ward."

Then County Clerk Lelande presented the wedding gift.

TALKS ABOUT CHINA.

Rev. John Hedley, many years a missionary to China, addressed the students of the University of Southern California, college of liberal arts, yesterday on "The Call of China." CONTRACTOR WINS.

Supreme Court Affirms Decision Granting Payment—Architect will Get New Trial.

Work done on the Central Union High School at Imperial was the subject of two decisions handed down yesterday by the State Supreme Court.

In the action brought by W. A. Reams against L. E. Cooley, superintendent of schools, to compel Cooley to allow a warrant for $531 from the school trustees to cover the cost of outside plastering work done on the building, the judgment of the District Court of Appeal, in favor of Cooley, was affirmed.

In the case of F. T. Harris against Cooley, in the appeal against judgment of nonsuit in a proceeding brought for a peremptory writ of mandate to compel Cooley to approve a warrant issued to Harris by the board of trustees for $1997.35, balance due on a contract made in 1912 for the erection of the Union High School Building, the judgment of the lower court was reversed. Harris is an architect, and the case must now be tried over. The court found that the Superior Court based its opinion on a statute now obsolete.

ALLIGATOR CAUSES ARREST.

Ray Augustine, 17 years old, was arrested yesterday morning because he had a nickel-plated alligator mounted on his motorcycle. When Deputy Sheriffs Nolan and Fox saw the unusual adornment they made an investigation and discovered, they say, that he stole the machine from a Japanese.

Oct. 7, 1890 — Twenty-five years of Conservative Banking — Oct. 7, 1915

FROM a modest beginning in a small store-room on Main near First street, to a Twenty-one-Million-Dollar Institution occupying the entire ground floor of one of Los Angeles' largest office buildings—and all accomplished in the comparatively brief space of twenty-five years—this is the life story of the German-American Trust and Savings Bank.

First located at 114½ S. Main St., with a working force of four officers and assistants; later moving to its own building at First and Main; consolidated with the Union Bank of Savings in 1906 to form an Eight Million Dollar Bank; compelled by need of additional space two years later to move from 223 So. Spring to rooms at Fourth and Spring, and again in 1913 to Seventh and Spring; a history of rapid and consistent growth even surpassing that of our thriving metropolis itself.

A spirit of Progressiveness in keeping pace with the onward march of banking evolution, and providing for customers every modern convenience and facility which are properly required by banking transactions—

A controlling motive of Conservatism, placing foremost the service and safety of patrons and the best interests of the community—

The habit of Efficiency in personal attention to the individual necessities of each patron, making prompt and complete satisfaction the desideratum of every transaction, large or small—

These are the elements responsible for the remarkable quarter-century record of this aggressive bank.

These are the elements which it is determined shall continue to guide with renewed emphasis the policies and practice of this great financial organization, striving to cement between itself and every patron bonds of friendly mutual usefulness and hearty co-operation.

This bank feels complimented and believes itself entitled to be congratulated upon the quality of the relation existing between the bank and its friends. That cordial relation is its greatest asset, and the one most highly prized by every officer and director of this institution.

Think of Marigold as a Great Food

It is just that. Marigold is rich in protein, the element that builds flesh, and makes blood. Besides, it is a dainty, flavory-good spread for bread, for biscuits, for muffins. It puts the final appetizing touch into a baked potato, and it's just great on griddle-hot batter-cakes.

Marigold Margarine

is all that you can ask in purity. It's clean, wholesome, inviting. It's made with every possible care; in orderly, spotless, white-tile churneries. Marigold is a quality food, made for particular folk like you—and one trial will give it a permanent place in your home. Good dealers everywhere sell Marigold.

REVIEW GREAT PAST GROWTH.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY IS OBSERVED BY BANK.

Citizens National Passes Quarter-century Mark as one of the Oldest Financial Institutions of Los Angeles with Each Year a Milestone of Progress.

Yesterday saw the passing of the quarter-century mark in the history of one of the oldest financial institutions of Los Angeles, when the Citizens' National Bank celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. There was no formal programme, but many friends called with congratulations. The bank was originally organized as the Citizens' Bank of Los Angeles October 6, 1890, with a paid-up capital of $100,000, and operated under the laws of the State of California.

The first banking chamber was at the northeast corner of Third and Spring streets, in a small, three-story building, known as the Perret Building, which was afterwards torn down and replaced by the present Stimson Building, and was occupied by the bank from 1893 to 1906.

On July 19, 1901, the directors adopted resolutions increasing the capital stock to $200,000, and the directors from nine to eleven. They also resolved to change the bank from a State to a national institution. This conversion was completed on July 31, 1901, with the capital stock fully paid.

On January 4, 1902, R. J. Waters was elected president. The new executive proved to be one of the most important factors ever connected with the bank.

The quarters of the bank in the Stimson Building becoming entirely too small for the business, in 1906, new and spacious rooms were secured in a recently-constructed building at the southwest corner of Main and Third streets. At this time the capital stock was increased to $300,000.

In 1909 the American National Bank was consolidated with the Citizens' National, and the capital stock was increased to $1,000,000, with a surplus of $500,000. The officers at this time were: R. J. Waters, president; A. J. Waters, vice-president; J. Ross Clark, vice-president; M. J. Monnette, vice-president; W. W. Woods, cashier, and E. T. Pettigrew, George E. F. Duffet and George Bugbee, assistant cashiers.

In 1911 the directorate decided that the bank would benefit by a direct savings bank and trust company connection, and the Broadway Bank and Trust Company was purchased and reorganized as the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank, with a paid-up capital of $500,000 and deposits of about $3,000,000. All of the capital stock of the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank is owned by the stockholders of the Citizens' National Bank.

In September, 1911, the bank suffered a grievous loss in the death of its president, R. J. Waters, who had been its active head for ten years, and under whose management the bank had shown a remarkable growth. Mr. Waters was succeeded by his son, A. J. Waters, who had been vice-president. At this time W. W. Woods was advanced to the position of vice-president and E. T. Pettigrew to that of cashier. Since that time no further changes have been made among the officers of the institution.

ANOTHER OIL SUIT.

Action Filed by Government to Recover Properties in the Kern County Fields.

Extending the fight for the recovery of oil lands another suit brought by United States government, involving property in the Kearn county field, was filed yesterday in the United States District Court.

The southwest quarter of section 23, township 31, south, range 22, east, claimed to be worth $200,000, is involved in this latest suit.

The defendants are the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company, Recovery Oil Company, Fred H. Hall, Southwest Western Railway, Standard Oil Company, the Visalia-Midway Oil Company and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway.

The usual allegations about the land having been withdrawn from all forms of public entry by proclamation of President Taft on September 27, 1909, are made in the bill, and the further charges that at the time such an order was issued none of the defendants, or their predecessors in interest, had made any discoveries of oil on the land involved in the southwest quarter.

The complaint asks the United States be adjudged the sole owner of the land in controversy; that a decree of the court set aside as null and void any claim made in behalf of the defendant corporations or individuals; that a receiver be appointed by the court for the property, and that an accounting be had of the oil taken from the ground and sold by the defendants.

Llano Del Rio.

RED UTOPIANS ARE DISGUSTED.

DISSATISFACTION BROUGHT OUT AT COURT HEARING.

Former Harriman Investor, Who Declares He Lost His Money in Desert Colony, Held to Answer Extortion Charge—Isn't Only Disgruntled One, Says Attorney.

W. M. Beck, who invested $829—all the money he had—in stock of the Llano Del Rio "Co-operative" colony, whose chief officer is Job Harriman, was bound over to the Superior Court by Justice Hinshaw yesterday afternoon, his bond being fixed at $1000. Unable to furnish so large a sum, the prisoner was sent to the County Jail. He is charged with extortion.

During the hearing it developed that Mr. Beck is only one of many investors in the Socialist colony who are disgusted with the manner in which it is operated, and are anxious to get their money back. Attorney S. S. Hahn, representing the defendant, told the judge he would be able to show that other disgruntled stockholders are decidedly more active in showing their displeasure at the way the colony is conducted and he declared it is reasonable to assume that one of them sent the letters upon which the complaint against his client was issued.

"My client does not admit having written the threatening letters," said Attorney Hahn. "He admits only writing letters to the company asking for the return of the money he invested. An investigation of this affair shows there is general dissension and that nearly all the stockholders would like to get back their money."

The defendant is accused of threatening to kill Harriman and other officials of the colonization company and letters were produced in support of the allegation. Milton Carlson, handwriting expert, was called, and he identified the letters in question as having been written by the same hand that penned the letters admitted to have been written by Mr. Beck.

G. P. McCorkle, secretary of the company, was called to the stand for further questioning, but he threw little light on the case. He could not even remember how much money he invested in the company's stock.

"You paid for the stock, didn't you?" Attorney Hahn asked. McCorkle replied he had, but he did not know how much.

When Mr. Beck was taken into the courtroom his only daughter, Irene Beck, 11 years old, rushed to his lap and kissed him affectionately. She was in the company of Mrs. Hornef, who also says she is a victim of the colonization scheme. She is taking care of the child, the father having lost all he had in the company.

The defendant, according to his attorney, did not intend to kill Harriman, McCorkle or others. All he wants is the money he invested and he denies in toto the charge of extortion.

ALLEGED CLEVER FORGER IS HELD.

MAN POLICE STYLE A SECOND "JIM, THE PENMAN," TO STAND TRIAL.

Paul R. Cooke, referred to by the police as another "Jim, the Penman," charged with forgery, was bound over to the Superior Court for trial yesterday afternoon after his preliminary hearing before Justice Hinshaw. His bond was placed at $2000.

Cooke is the young accountant who assisted in auditing the books of the Pacific Light and Power Company several months ago and is accused of taking possession of some of the blank checks of that corporation. One of them for $75, made payable to W. O. Wilson, was honored at the Mullen and Bluett store and the cashier of that establishment appeared against the defendant. He said he paid the check and supposed Cooke was an employee of the power company.

A bank clerk testified the signatures on the check were forged and one of the men whose name was signed to the paper also denied the signature.

Detectives King and Oaks had in their possession a check for $2600 which they said the defendant told them he was preparing to have cashed. It was found in his baggage.

It developed at the hearing that Cooke had a checking account in a local bank, having deposited a check that is alleged to have been forged.

Attorneys Veitch and Richardson represent the defendant.

FIVE CLAIM LAND.

Two Rooms of Witnesses Gathered in Contest for Sixty Acres Near Whittaker.

Two rooms filled with witnesses attested the interest taken in a contest heard by Register Roche and Receiver Mitchell, at the local Land Office yesterday. There were five claimants for sixty acres of land, located in the vicinity of Whittaker, recently opened to settlement within the area of the Santa Barbara National Forest.

The contesting entrants are Annie L. Rose, George O. Nicholson, Marshall L. Cruise, Henry H. Schmidt and William E. Sands. There was a quintette of lawyers versed in the land statutes to object to testimony and grill witnesses.

Register Roche, who officiated as trial judge, had his temper sorely tested.

SUES FOR FREEDOM.

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of A. W. Marsh was filed yesterday in the District Court of Appeal. The writ was allowed, returnable the 13th inst. It is alleged that Marsh was committeed to the County Jail by Justice Forbes on a charge of grand larceny and embezzlement under bond of $2500. It is claimed that the evidence in the case was insufficient and bail was fixed in an excessive amount.

Every Day---

the demand for homes that will take the place of the "rented" place increases. Scores are now taking the same money they previously paid for rent and are paying it towards a home that they can call their own. In a few years, instead of a "nice" little bunch of paper rent receipts, they will own the DEED, worth two or three thousand dollars, to their own home. Isn't it a pretty good saving plan?

This Week---

we are offering two such houses on these "rent payment" plans—If you cannot call, phone and we will come out and tell you about them. Here's a short description, but that doesn't tell half—

$18.50 a Month, Interest Included

4 large rooms, bath and screen porch—cosy and comfortable—large lot, flowers, fruit trees and lawn—close to 5c car and 22 minutes from Broadway. Only $75 cash to start; then just the same as rent.

$20.00 a Month, Interest Included

Larger, with 5 rooms, bath and screen porch—in same restricted District—a delightful home with lots of front and back yard. Same carline and same distance from down town. $100 down for this one and balance same kind of terms.

You will be surprised at the prices we have placed on these homes, but we are building more and we have priced them to sell quick. Call or phone TODAY.

Forget the past, develop your possibilities for permanent good health, enjoy the present and the future, and avoid a premature old age. The chief internal cause of ill health is intestinal poisoning, caused by the fermentation of poorly-digested food in the alimentary canal.

Intesti-Fermin Tablets contain the health preserving cultures of the Bacillus Bulgaricus and Glyco-Bakter, derived from sour milk ferments of Bulgaria—where many people live to be 125 years old.

They are strongly endorsed by leading members of the medical profession as an efficient, natural and drugless treatment for many disorders arising from the intestinal poisoning caused by the increasing demands of our modern business and social life, and evidenced by nerve and stomach trouble, headache, constipation, biliousness, indigestion, auto-intoxication and the many serious ailments of advancing years.

TREND OF THE FINANCIAL NEWS.

CHIEF EVENTS OF YESTERDAY.

(At Home:) The new policy of conservatism in speculation inaugurated by stock exchanges bore fruit in war-share dealings, these stocks showing a decline for almost every one listed. The general tone of the markets was much stronger, railroads and other issues classed as isolated stocks being freely dealt in. Bonds, excepting coppers, which were strong, generally followed the downward trend of stocks.

(For details see financial pages.)

BEAR IN CHAINS.

Bulgaria failed to become excited about the Russian ultimatum. The Bulgars probably never doubted Russia's evil intentions so much as they questioned the bear's ability to execute its threats.

OVERDOING IT.

It seems that Los Angeles averages thirty automobile accidents a day. This totals some 9000 a year. Somebody is going too fast. Probably it is the pedestrian. He should be cautioned about his speed.

TURN IT AROUND.

Suppose we Americans stop worrying about the recognition of Mexico and begin praying that the Mexicans will recognize the government of the United States? What they are to one another is not nearly so important as what they do to us, and they seem to be doing enough.

NOT ENCOURAGING.

Those battleships of the North Atlantic fleet may do their best with their annual war game, yet we imagine, in view of what they have recently learned about submarines, that they will have little appetite for maneuvers. Somehow a torpedo takes the heart out of the warship business.

MAY NEED IT.

Japan seems to be buying considerable American cotton. We wouldn't be surprised if as much cotton were stored in national warehouses in all countries in the next few years as was put to actual use. It is unlikely that countries which believe in preparedness will overlook this essential.

LET THE COMPANIES PAY.

There will be no freight to handle in the harbor for a month on account of Panama Canal slides. Say, if the canal insists on taking its time about cutting a permanent channel, can't we people in Los Angeles do something about getting Congress or the Interstate Commerce Commission or somebody to see a light with regard to that short-haul business?

THANKS.

A story once went the rounds of the British papers that Rudyard Kipling was writing short stories for a shilling a word. Some Oxford undergraduates concluded to have some fun with Mr. Kipling. They wrote him a letter enclosing a shilling and, assuring him that it was all the money they had to spare, asked him to write one word. He complied with the request by sending them a postal card on which was written the word "Thanks."

KICKING THEIR LOAN AROUND.

Wall street is always ready to seize upon any pretext for the abnormal. Such a thing as a norm does not exist for the speculators. Naturally the big fellows do not figure that it will help their cause to have the bulls and the bears roughing their loan to the allies. They realize that there is trouble ahead for somebody if too many fortunes are made and unmade on account of this proposition. They were willing that somebody should make money out of this negotiation, but they expected to limit these profits to legitimate channels, they themselves constituting these channels.

READY FOR RETIREMENT.

Schemes are under discussion for pensioning off the superannuated palms that droop their stubby fronds from the ugly spittoons on our Los Angeles sidewalks. These palms are not so old in years as they are in sorrows and miseries. They have become veritable Jobs of the plant world. Their appearance warrants retirement to the Hollenbeck Home for the Aged which, we understand, has offered to take them in. We favor the proposal if the expense is not too heavy.

This childish experiment, however, in city beautifying has already wasted a lot of the taxpayers' hard-earned money. The originators of this freak plunge into civic aesthetics ought to pay for the long-needed relief for the sad palms and the suffering public.

ENDLESS CHAINS.

Curing drug habits by means of restrictive legislation seems like trying to reach the point where parallel straight lines meet. The habit once formed follows the path of least resistance—checked at one point it finds a detour back to the old road. Denied morphine, it reaches out for paregoric; switched off from cocaine, it fumbles with laudanum; it turns from whisky to cruder alcoholic concoctions.

Endless are the chains of misery in which the foolish victims of drugs and alcohol have bound themselves; endless, too, unfortunately, are the substitutes for the original debilitating habit. When the will power is gone restrictive legislation comes too late—for those who may possibly form the habit education and discipline cannot begin too early.

THE CRY OF THE WAR-WEARY.

The British and German statesmen, who fill the press with protestations of their intentions to keep the war going until the other side is crushed, seem to overlook the fact that there are people in the world besides themselves, and that many of those people—tens and hundreds of thousands of them—are becoming very weary of the "causeless war," as it has often been designated.

In most of the great wars of the last century the man behind the gun knew what he was fighting for. In the present war he does not know. If asked, he would be forced to reply, as did the Roman soldier when asked why he invaded Gaul—"I know not, save that it is the will of Caesar."

The war fury has not deprived the people of Europe of their capacity to reason. It has not banished from their minds love of home and kindred, the desire for security and peace of mind.

"And when," says the Omaha World-Herald, "a war, terrible and bloody as this war approaches the deadlocked stage, with tremendous daily sacrifices involved and no tangible results gained as compensation for such sacrifices—when the day of possible victory grows ever farther distant and the call is sounded for the piling up of more lives, more treasure, more broken hearts, possibly for years to come—there must come a time when just plain people will look into one another's haggard faces and ask, 'Why? To what end?'"

When that stage is reached in such a war as the present one it is pretty safe to conclude that the war's popularity will soon sink away below par. When people who are giving their all to support it begin to ask each other why? and can find no answer, their enthusiasm will wane.

That stage, it is urged in an article published in the New Republic, is about reached in England. And since human nature is the same the world over, it is safe to conclude that Germans and Frenchmen and Russians are in much the same mind as Englishmen are.

Mr. J. A. Hobson of London writes: "Up to the present time Englishmen have been submissive. Few people believed in a protracted war. Victory, they said, would soon be won. The public mind was tense, but uncritical. As time passed and victory faded farther into the distance, the tension became painful. There is a growing irritability of mind. The habit of criticism is creeping back. There is a loss of the earlier buoyancy of spirit. The prospect of having to win the war, not by sweeping victories, but by the process of attrition, is depressing. There is nothing dramatic and sustaining in the spirit of attrition; the choice of this inhuman term to cover such a human agony appears into rable. While all talk bravely and even angrily of continuing the war until the enemy is overwhelmed, there is a hollow note to the talk."

Mr. Hobson says frankly—

"But deep down in our hearts we no longer feel the early faith. Though still stubbornly refusing to admit it, even to ourselves, we are suffering disappointment and disillusionment. The confidence expressed everywhere in public is undermined by private personal communications. People complain, of course quite unreasonably, of the slowness of the war."

The feelings of the British people are not relieved by the shadow of impending taxation. For the great war loan has by no means filled the voracious jaws of war; to the toll of lives must be added a heavy toll of property. The effect of heavy taxation demanding a large and lasting alteration in the standard of living is difficult to accept in a spirit of resignation.

Mr. Hobson concludes his article on "A Weariness of War" as follows:

"There is no present organized movement for peace at any early date. But there is a weariness of war and a longing for peace. And as there is in England so there must be in other countries that are suffering even more than England is suffering. Both Germany and France, the foremost repositories of civilization on continental Europe, face the prospect of having to sacrifice practically all of their able-bodied men before the war is ended, while on those who remain, with their women and children, will be piled such a mountain of debt as the world never dreamed of before.

"And for what? their people must be asking themselves. For just about the same 'place in the sun' enjoyed before the war began. Only where the sun, before, shone on a garden, it will shine in the end on a desolation, and the longer the war is continued the more nearly utter that desolation will become. It would be a desolation pitiful and awful, beyond the power of man to imagine, if by some miracle sent from out the bottomless pit the war could be protracted until the one side or the other had won a 'conclusive victory' by the 'crushing' of all its enemies."

WHERE DOES WILSON STAND ON THE MAIN QUESTION?

As President Wilson wrote to James M. Cox a month ago, the United States possesses in the Department of Commerce and the Federal Trade Commission agencies empowered to collect all the information the Congress needs to write a "scientific" tariff law.

But what absorbs the attention of the business community is the President's attitude toward the tariff now in ruinous force. Does he still believe, as he did a year ago, that it should be left unamended until "normal conditions" are restored? Is he still unconvinced that its failure was not thoroughly demonstrated by its operation previous to the breaking out of the war on August 1, 1914? Does he imagine that the establishment of peace in Europe will reinstate the "normal conditions" that obtained until the end of July last year?

The present Underwood (Democratic) law was discredited in peace, and war has changed the situation of commerce and business. The end of the military struggle will still further alter our circumstances. Already the lessons are written for those with sufficient wit to learn them. The menace of an industrial struggle of unprecedented intensity is over our manufacturers and merchants, their workers and all who are dependent on them. Has Mr. Wilson recognized it, or is he blind to the danger on the one hand and insensible to the wonderful opportunity on the other?

With a tariff—a business tariff, not a political one—adjusted to its needs and its situation, with schedules designed to meet the facts of business and not the economics of the hustings, the United States could regard with confidence the assaults industrial Europe will launch when it stops killing its men; but with the present Democratic low-tariff (free-trade) law in effect this nation will be at the mercy of the most skilful and desperate competitors the world has ever known.

Where does Mr. Wilson stand on the main question?

TOO PROUD TO PROSPER.

Our cities are full of unfortunate or unfit, but by no means criminal, men and women whose daily cry is, "We cannot dig, to beg we are ashamed," and, like the steward in the parable, they are continually at their wit's end to keep up a respectable appearance without starving to death. You find them in every rendezvous of Vanity Fair.

One-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives. Strange, but not so strange as the fact that one-half of the world doesn't know how its own half lives. The very poor, the tenement dwellers, the flotsam and jetsam of humanity, they know each other, their misery is not masked. But the quiet desperation of many of the apparently well-to-do is hidden behind a respectable front door.

We should be lamentably disillusioned as to the proofs of prosperity expressed in good clothes did we know how close to the submersion line many, in their efforts to keep up appearances, are daily treading, often by a miracle enduring to the end.

Mind you, they are not criminal or paupers by instinct, training or environment. Pretty good company, decent fellows, we should call them. Some are the victims of false pride who might become well-fed car conductors or janitors or park gardeners or deck stewards, but prefer to remain half-starved lawyers or physicians or nondescript artists in hand-to-mouth vocations. They can't step down, though sooner or later they must step out, and their fate, when age has deprived them of the little ability or competence they once possessed, is not comforting to contemplate.

They have been over-educated and undertrained, these men and women who must be genteel at any sacrifice, though such gentility is only to masquerade in the passing procession of Vanity Fair; they cannot dig—to beg they are ashamed. So, unless they have the executive ability of the unjust steward, they must sink under a burden far more tragic than that of the submerged tenth who have been spared the long-drawn agony of slowly sinking.

No lot is more pitiable than that of the person too proud to prosper along commonplace endeavors. Some retrieve themselves, some have friends to extend the helping hand at the right time in the right way. Many, alas! through false pride seek no assistance from others and, being incapable of self-help, drift—drift—till their powers are exhausted and they are swept away into the misty waters of the unknown sea.

Nothing of consequence ever happened to them. They never lived over much, and when the end came they simply ceased.

THE COMING SMASH.

From all quarters of the State come assurances that at the election on the 26th instant Hiram Johnson's plan to extirpate all parties in this State except the party of the first part will be everlastingly smashed.

The Republican says: "Why should I vote to destroy my party because in years gone, when Hiram Johnson was a paid agent of the Southern Pacific road, that corporation sometimes tried to control nominations of tax assessors and legislators, so as to get in office men who would not blackmail it?"

The Democrat says: "There never was a time when the Democratic party was in power in this State and under the control of its bosses that it did not give to the people a more economical government and purer laws and better public service than the anti-party gang who rule at Sacramento. We may not, through party rule, obtain any better men for office-holders, but it is a sure thing that we cannot obtain more extravagant or rapacious ones."

The Socialist says: "The principles of government in which I believe are promoted educationally by party organization. At least we can note our growth by them. Debs received 79,2[illegible] votes in California in 1912. What will we gain by scattering this vote among no-party candidates? We will gain the loss of our identity as Socialists."

The Prohibitionist says: "Is it remotely possible that the slaves of the demon rum, who obey the orders of that friend of booze, Hiram Johnson, will ever nominate a prohibitionist for office? No. We will not join the anti-party party. We will stand pat as Prohibitionists."

Republicans and Democrats, Socialists and Prohibitionists will join on the 26th instant in killing Hiram Johnson's steal-as-you-go, grab-everything and fool-everybody, anti-party octopus.

RILEY'S BIRTHDAY.

Just umpty-leven years ago, he came into this world of woe—James Whitcomb Riley, he whose song has helped us as we coiled along, has brightened many sunless days, and smoothed for us the weary ways.
Just umpty-leven years ago, he reached this world that loves him so, and it is now a better place, more fitted for the human race, because he's lived in it and sung his lyrics in the Hoosier tongue. Today he eats a birthday lunch with all that gifted Hoosier bunch, whose well-earned honors do not fade—Booth Tarkington, and "Abe" and Ade, and Nicholson, and many more, and guests from many a distant shore. If all who love him could be there to greet the bard beyond compare, they'd need a banquet hall so great that it would reach across the State, and many herds of slaughtered kine, and seas of mild denatured wine. But we, obliged to stay away, still celebrate his natal day, and send this wireless note to him,
"God bless and keep you, dear old Jim!"

THE MAN WITHOUT A PARTY.

BY BURL ARMSTRONG.

It may not be unreasonable on the part of the average voter to ask: Who's going to make the rules?

I used to play football and baseball in neighboring cities back East, and whenever my team went to another town we always were suspicious of the umpire whom the opposing team selected. The umpire or referee was always a fellow who lived in the town whose name was sewed on the shirts of the home team. In all my experience I never encountered an umpire who didn't lean toward his neighbors when it came to a close decision. That's a part of human nature.

So it is in politics. The average voter is going against another man's game, umpired by someone he knows nothing about and ruled by a series of regulations he hasn't time to decipher.

The men who foregather at Sacramento every other year lay down the rules for more than 1,000,000 voters to observe. These rules are contained in what we refer to as the Political Code. In 1911, when the new order known as "Progressives" came into power in California, the Legislature began to develop an itch for change. The direct primary was tinkered with. Mr. C. C. Young, a smart young man from Alameda county, took it upon his shoulders to become chief adviser, and soon he was recognized as the authority.

One of the first things he suggested was not, as Gov. Johnson has stated, to develop a voting system that would eradicate parties, but to safeguard and protect political parties and party organizations. That idea was carried out to such an extent that the independent voters and the Prohibition party in California were deprived of the right to place candidates upon the ballot. This was a move toward the protection of the established political parties. They had prestige, and the reformed laws were designed to maintain this prestige.

In 1913 there came another assault upon the direct primary. Innovations developed that were not even thought of two years before. This same smart young theorist from Berkeley, Mr. Young, was Speaker of the House of Representatives. He was a power, for he was in harmony with the smoothest politician that ever made the one-night stand pay a dividend in California.

The amendments to the law that year provided that there might be political parties, but that a candidate might step from one into another and win two or three party nominations if he was lucky.

Then something happened to upset this train of thought. The "Progressive" party began to diminish all over the nation. The continuance of a third party was found to be hopeless. Californians refused to rally to the advertised demands that they register as "Progressives." They registered with the parties of their choice. And in Los Angeles county alone they elected a majority of Republicans to the Legislature. Gov. Johnson's election was a personal election and not a party triumph.

It having been demonstrated that there was no hope for the "Progressive" party, the 1915 Legislature came along, and out of it sprang a law providing for the destruction of all parties. If the "Progressive" party couldn't endure, its sponsors were here to tell you none others would be permitted to survive.

So the effervescing Mr. Young dug up a new set of rules. There were several conditions he hadn't allowed for in the 1913 law. One of them was this situation: Two men run for Justice of the Peace and one wins at the primary, as there are only two candidates, and the law provides that any one receiving a majority at the primary is declared elected. The defeated candidate organizes a "write-in" campaign and at the election defeats the man who beat him at the primary.

Mr. Young said this couldn't be done, but the court upheld the fool law, and said it could.

This new set of rules, adopted by the Legislature in 1915, provides that there shall be no more parties. This is an easy method of keeping the Johnson crowd in office, that's all.

The record of nonpartisan elections in California proves that the incumbent has a strong advantage over the outsider contesting for his place. He is in a position where he may dole out crumbs to the hungry, where he may use the vast resources of the State administration to bestow favors. In the Legislature he comes in contact with a strong lobby. He is close to the "interests." He trades the favors his position gives him for the friendship or future favors he may contract for. In other words, he builds a machine.

The rules he makes are rules for himself. The voter goes up against another man's game unless he gets a new set of rules, and this is what he has to do to get them:

Circulate a petition, as was done this summer, until 46,000 signatures are obtained. This requires that someone interested in the upsetting of the rules takes the lead, raises the necessary cash to pay professional circulators, and gets the petition to Sacramento in time to head the rules off.

That is only the first step. The second and crucial move is to set aside the rules by interesting the people in their iniquity and the necessity of their overthrow. To accomplish this there must be a campaign. Gov. Johnson and others in the State administration may travel around at the expense of the taxpayers, urging the people to stick to the rules adopted. If the average voter were to travel around he would learn how much more convenient it would be to have a job with a steady revenue and an expense account that would never be questioned.

Not a single election law has been passed in three sessions of the California Legislature that has simplified the work of the voter. The election laws are growing more and more complicated. The latest propositions to destroy parties is in line with the theory that the best hope of those in office is to keep those out of office in constant confusion.

The destruction of all parties, the scattering of all party organizations, would serve to keep the ins in and the outs out; it would create an office-holding monopoly, with Hiram Johnson its autocrat.

Our Merchant Marine.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I noted an article in the columns of the Springfield Republican of last month written by James H. Dunn under the heading, "American Merchant Marine—Novel Plan for Achieving It—Through the Co-operation of the Business Bodies of the Country."

This plan to my mind appears perfectly feasible and worthy of earnest consideration, as one which would eliminate a government-owned and controlled merchant marine, something no sane business man would invest a dollar in. The merchants and business men of the United States are, to my mind, fully capable of conducting its commerce without government control, and where shall we look for such men except among the members of our boards of trade and chambers of commerce of the various cities throughout the United States?

At this time, when the exports of American goods are larger than ever before in the history of this country, a great deal of dissatisfaction is felt over the smallness of our ocean-going merchant marine. With only one third-rate trans-Atlantic line and with only a few score antiquated vessels flying the American flag engaged in transoceanic commerce, we are paying heavy freight charges to the proprietors of foreign vessels to carry our goods to Europe, Asia and Africa. In time of war, our navy would be very seriously handicapped by lack of auxiliary vessels which might be supplied from an efficient merchant marine; and the opportunities which the great struggle in Europe affords us of extending and solidifying our commerce with South America and Asia are gradually passing away unimproved with the lapse of time.

The outlined plan by which we may proceed in securing an ocean-going merchant marine which is so badly needed, and which would be of such inestimable value to this country at the present time is the formation of a large ship corporation under a Federal charter, the capital to be provided by the boards of trade and chambers of commerce throughout the United States. There are 300,000 men, or more, belonging to these bodies in the various cities throughout this country. There are at least 225,000 of these men who would be glad to subscribe for five shares each of the stock of such a corporation as is proposed at the par value of $100 per share, and the remaining 75,000 would subscribe for one share each. This would furnish a working capital of $120,000,000. Upon organization the stock could be distributed by means of the various boards of trade and any small portion that might remain unsubscribed would be readily taken up by the more prominent business men. Such stock might be made collateral acceptable to the Federal reserve banks by that any member national bank might make loans upon it and rediscount the notes immediately with its reserve bank.

The effect of such provision would be to give to the stock of the proposed corporation a standing which would render it readily salable at any time at its full value.

With the $120,000,000 thus obtained it would be easy either to purchase or to build a large number of modern and well-equipped vessels to carry American products to all parts of the world, to act as instruments of American commerce and to extend and strengthen our relations with many countries which can now be reached only in a very irregular and unsatisfactory way.

The plan proposed is of vast and far-reaching importance, but the situation calls for such a plan. The great changes which are taking place in the world, the opening of the Panama Canal, the great world struggle among the nations which have heretofore enjoyed a monopoly of ocean transportation, and the growth of American exports, offer an opportunity which may never again come to this country; and it cannot be doubted that a company such as is proposed, which would be owned and controlled by the people of the United States in all the various communities from coast to coast, would have their cordial support.

Each town and city throughout the country making shipments to foreign countries would naturally be anxious to see that their goods were sent on ships in which they were personally interested.

This plan, so grand and feasible, can easily be carried out by the aid of the government in legislation.

1. Amend the Seamen's Bill, which is a death blow to the trans-Pacific trade in American shipping, surrendering the enormous trade with the Orient into the hands of the Japanese—the entire commerce that should be carried in American bottoms.

2. Rescind the Japanese treaty, signed by Ex-President Taft just before retiring from office and which gives the entire trade of the Orient to Japan or the trusts, who could barter Japanese ships (or any other) and entirely control the great trade of the East Indies, and with the low cost of running their ships could keep every ship under the American flag out of competition.

3. Take down the bars in our navigation laws for all time and allow our merchants to build or buy their ships in the world's markets and give them American registration and clothe them with any nationality, the same as any other nation. This would put us on an equal footing with other countries and we could successfully enter into competition with them. Once that this country wants is not flap-doodle, but a restored commerce and an efficient merchant marine.

4. A rebate of 5 per cent on all imports brought into this country in American bottoms—to be paid the owners of American ships bringing same.

5. If subsidies are paid by other nations, to control commerce, our government can do likewise, but in view of the drain upon the resources of the European nations now engaged in conflict, I think there is little danger of having to resort to subsidies to hold our own.

All we want is a fair field and no favor in the world's commerce; competition without being handicapped by our own government. America can hold her own among the nations of the earth.

Our Merchant Marine.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I noted an article in the columns of the Spring-field Republican of last month written by James H. Dunn under the heading, "American Merchant Marine—Novel Plan for Achieving It—Through the Co-operation of the Business Bodies of the Country."

This plan to my mind appears perfectly feasible and worthy of earnest consideration, as one which would stimulate a government-owned and controlled merchant marine, something no sane business man would invest a dollar in. The merchants and business men of the United States are, to my mind, fully capable of conducting its commerce without government control, and where shall we look for such men except among the members of our boards of trade and chambers of commerce of the various cities throughout the United States?

At this time, when the exports of American goods are larger than ever before in the history of this country, a great deal of dissatisfaction is felt over the smallness of our ocean-going merchant marine. With only one third-class trans-Atlantic line and with only a few score antiquated vessels flying the American flag engaged in transoceanic commerce, we are paying heavy freight charges to the proprietors of foreign vessels to carry our goods to Europe, Asia and Africa. In time of war, our navy would be very seriously handicapped by lack of auxiliary vessels which might be supplied from an efficient merchant marine; and the opportunities which the great struggle in Europe affords us of extending and solidifying our commerce with South America and Asia are gradually passing away unimproved with the lapse of time.

The outlined plan by which we may succeed in securing an ocean-going merchant marine which is so badly needed, and which would be of such inestimable value to this country at the present time is the formation of a large ship corporation under a Federal charter, the capital to be provided by the boards of trade and chambers of commerce throughout the United States. There are 300,000 men, or more, belonging to these bodies in the various cities throughout this country. Upon organization the stock would be distributed by means of the various boards of trade and any small portion that might remain unsubscribed would be readily taken up by other prominent business men. Such stock might be made collateral accessible to the Federal reserve banks so that any member national bank might make loans upon it and rediscount the notes immediately with its reserve bank.

The effect of such provision would be to give to the stock of the proposed corporation a standing which would render it readily salable at any time at its full value.

With the $120,000,000 thus obtained it would be easy either to purchase or to build a large number of modern and well-equipped vessels to carry American products to all parts of the world, to act as instruments of American commerce and to extend and strengthen our relations with many countries which can now be reached only in a very irregular and unsatisfactory way.

The Utopians.

SOUTH PASADENA, Oct. 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] While I have no connection with the principles of true Socialism, believing that great problems will be worked out eventually for the betterment of humanity, I believe it must be a growth or rational evolution, brought about by sane methods. With my Socialistic views, I have deemed it best to identify myself with one of the old regular parties, both of which are adopting progressive ideas as fast as the people can adjust themselves to them. I cannot think of joining the "rank and vile" of those whose ideas are destructive rather than constructive. Should we permit vociferous agitators now leading the Socialistic movements to control affairs, pandemonium would reign—like unto the regime of Schmitz in San Francisco. Their idea is to tear down and loot, and they have no compunction about preying upon each other—always looting among themselves as they would from those whom they charge with controlling property interests. Leaders of the Utopian co-operative schemes usually grab everything in sight, or fight among themselves, and leave the poor dupes who have furnished the funds nothing but regrets and bitter disappointment. Socialism is a beautiful theory but it must be worked out gradually by those who have a kindly feeling toward all humanity, who are tolerant regarding the rights of others, and who are not trying to bring disorder and chaos instead of promoting our social welfare.

Need of Parties.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Often in the past month I have asked myself, can it be possible that the people of this great commonwealth of California will permit the nonpartisan law to be placed on the statute books of the State?

I have examined this law in all its parts. I have analyzed it in the light of ancient, modern and current history and I am ready to condemn it as one of the most pernicious pieces of legislation ever offered to a free and intelligent people.

Furthermore, I am ready to assert—and without fear of successful contradiction—that the tendency of such a law would be towards absolutism, which would be followed by chaos and anarchy.

It is not hard to see that a group of men, holding the reins of government, could perpetuate their hold and dictate the course of legislation to please themselves and load upon an unwilling, but enthralled people, burdens as onerous as the burdens which a Czar of Russia can impose on his oppressed people.

Why enact such a law only to bring disaster on the State? For a free people, like ours, will not stand oppression and slavery long before there would come an upheaval with a prospect of anarchy before there could be a restoration to the common sense and a restoration to the regular party regime.

The machine in politics is beyond question losing its hold everywhere because it is being considered unworthy of a place in the science or profession of politics, but a nonpartisan law in its operation would so far eclipse it in throttling the aims and ambitions of worthy and patriotic politicians as to make the machine in politics seem necessary and desirable.

No, not until we have the millennium when it is said we shall be under the benign rule of the man of Nazareth, can we do without the beneficent rule of the party system. It is to be hoped that the voters of the State, both men and women, are giving this subject the most searching investigation.

L. N. COUNTRYMAN.

To Solve Two Problems.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] There seems to be a long-drawn agitation about an outlet through Bunker Hill and also what to do for the unemployed.

Why not combine both and take down the whole hill with the unemployed even if it took two, three or five years to do it; it has taken longer to do nothing.

Form an organization, association, corporation or stock company and buy the whole hill, that is, buy part of it and take one, two or three years' option on the rest of it, then dig it down by employing at $1.50 a day all who come for work, paying them at the end of each day's work. This would give work to all the unemployed, they to be employed by the day only and would have to be re-employed each day, which could be arranged by a badge system which would be turned in each evening and receive their pay for the day's work. In this way a man need not come back to work the next day if he found something better. It possibly would be that some days there would be many more men employed than on others. It would relieve the city of beggars as it would give them at least enough to eat and sleep.

After a piece of land would be leveled to the required grade sell it at once and there would be money coming in from time to time to take care of the options. Of course the city would have to co-operate with this organization so as to take down the street hill at the same time, the property would be worth from three to five times more when leveled than it is at present, therefore there would be a good profit on the investment.

The organization could buy one of the sink-holes in the west end for dumping, which after being filled, could be sold at a good profit.

In this way the hill would be removed, the unemployed would all find work.

There would be absolutely no property damages to pay, which is generally a big item, no temporary bridges to be put up over streets which would cost a great deal and traffic need not be suspended at all as the hill could be taken down from one side at a time so that each street would have an inlet and an outlet at all times.

MONKEY WRENCH FLEW.

Broke Wife's Leg, She Refuses to Prosecute, but Neighbor Interested Gets Warrant.

A wife refused to prosecute her husband when he broke her leg with a monkey wrench, it is alleged, in a tarntrum because she would not give a neighbor girl a toy with which to play. And now the neighbor girl who caused the fuss is going to prosecute. She is Miss Mary Hudson, a young woman who lives next door to the family of Arthur Knapp, No. 805 East Thirty-first street.

The family was grouped around an indisposed automobile in the rear yard Sunday, when Miss Hudson called to ask if she might borrow an indoor baseball. Mrs. Knapp was not enthusiastic about the loan, it is reported to the police, but Mr. Knapp said the girl could have the ball.

He was busy with the machine, so he asked Mrs. Knapp to go into the house and get the ball, to deliver it to the girl. Mrs. Knapp, it appears from police records, did not enthuse over the errand; in truth, rebelled.

So a monkey wrench came flying and struck her leg, breaking it so she was taken to the Angelus Hospital to have it repaired. Miss Hudson claims Mrs. Knapp's husband threw the monkey wrench. Mrs. Knapp refuses to prosecute her husband, but Miss Hudson has sworn to a complaint issued by Assistant City Prosecutor Claud Morton yesterday, and a warrant has been issued in Police Court.

On the War Path.

examination he admitted that he had relied for knowledge of the case on Mr. Gossom and the police officers, who had found nothing. When asked whether he had sought the parents or the children in the case, he said he had left that to the officers.

BUCK PASSED.

It was at his point that Supt. Kepped waxed warm. "Everybody in the case apparently passed the buck when it came to this point," he declared. "It certainly is a serious mistake on the part of the probation officer not to protect a girl who because of mental deficiency is subjected to ill-treatment and taxpayers who are expecting just such service from that official are not getting it. It is a shame to come into a hearing of this character and peddle only second-hand information, and is to be deprecated on the part of all who have done so."

Mrs. Maud Crew Waters, chairman of the Teachers and Schools Committee of the local board, was called, and admitted she had depended on the probation officer largely for information. She stated her first information regarding the character of Mr. Russell had come from a teacher, and also declared the defendant came to her and assured her his difficulties grew out of a former admission of impropriety at Long Beach, made to Secretary Gossom, who, he declared, was jealous of his control over the boys. She admitted there had never been a complaint by pupil or parent against Mr. Russell during his time in the local school.

ABILITY PRAISED.

After leaving the Long Beach schools he went to Santa Monica as principal, Mrs. John H. Francis, wife of the City Superintendent of Schools, gave most favorable testimony as to his ability as teacher. She taught at that time in the same school. Mr. Russell was the best loved teacher ever known in that institution and the boys and girls are still talking of him as a model," she said.

About the same time Mr. Russell filed examinations to enter the Los Angeles school he was denied a principalship of Long Beach schools by Supt. Stephens on the ground he was not prepared for such a position, and his judgment on moral principles might at times not be of the best.

Mrs. Dorsey, assistant superintendent of local schools, was the final witness, following several character witnesses.

"I thought Mr. Russell lacked good sense when he permitted young girl teachers to ask how he would manage a school as principal," she said. "As a young teacher, he should have taken his place and kept it, not entering into such discussions, which was creating dissension."

She stated that after having heard from a girl teacher that Mr. Russell had a sinister Long Beach past, she ascertained that a personal friend, O. W. Reed, present principal of the Boyle Heights intermediate school, and former member of the County Board of Education, had given the information. Mrs. Dorsey severely criticised Principal Reed, declaring he should have given his knowledge to his superiors.

All members of the Los Angeles Board of Education, with the exception of Mr. Bean, were present. Their case was in the hands of County Counsel Hill and Attorney Hugh Gordon, while the defendant was represented by Attorneys Ted Geisler and M. M. Cohen. Further testimony will be heard this morning.

RAILROAD CELEBRATIONS.

Lindsay, Tulare County, and Lucerne, Utah, to Rejoice Because of New Steel Bonds.

Lindsay, in the rich foothill country of Tulare county, and Lucerne, in the wheat belt of Utah, are to have twin celebrations today. Lindsay is to celebrate the addition of the Santa Fe to its list of railroads; Lucerne the completion of the Salt Lake's branch line from Delta.

Over 1000 persons, including a number of Santa Fe officials, are expected to take part in the celebration at Lindsay. The affair at Lucerne will be more circumscribed, as the town musters but twenty inhabitants.

Lindsay was connected up with the Santa Fe by the construction of a twenty-three-mile link by the road's subsidiary, the Minkler Southern. The line that connects Lucerne with the Salt Lake is fourteen miles long. It is to be extended later to the upper part of the 200,000 acres under the Delta project.

tired of you if I married you. So I want you to come to my house every morning for your breakfast. I will cook the meal and we'll see how it comes out."

Next morning Chris reported for the matutinal bread. Prominent among the dishes offered was a hard-boiled egg. And Cnris ate it.

"Do you like hard boiled eggs, Chris" asked Matilda, coyly. "I do so much, and I hope you do."

"Sure I like 'em—love 'em. I could live on 'em, specially if you cooked 'em for me."

So the weeks passed and each morning the hard-boiled egg appeared.

But Matilda couldn't eat hers. She pretended she was not hungry, exercising woman's privilege in such matters.

After several weeks Chris began to regret his enthusiasm about the hard-boiled eggs. He hinted that he sometimes liked a little bacon without eggs, or at least, with scrambled eggs. And then he made more or less philosophical observations about the effect of constant repetition and monotony. And several mornings he brought along some fish or other delicacies.

When he did, Matilda would say, "Oh, Chris, you don't like my cooking! I know you don't. I just knew we never would get along."

And Chris would eat that egg so rapidly he never saw the gleam in Matilda's eyes as he was forcing the poultry product down his unwilling throat.

Yesterday the ninety days were up. Matilda's mother had kept score as official observer. Chris Waldo had eaten his hard-boiled egg every day for ninety days. On the final morning the neighbor whose coin was involved was present. After Chris left for his work the neighbor delivered to Matilda two $20 gold pieces and one $10.

Matilda went shopping. She returned with an entire new wardrobe, and called up her friend, Jim Haseltine.

"Jim," she said, I'm all dressed up and ready."

An hour later Jim came for her and took her away, somewhere to the northern part of the State after they had been wed in an adjoining county.

Chris came home last night.

He called at Matilda's home.

"Hoo-hoo; Where's my sweetheart?" he shouted.

Her mother came to the door.

"Matilda's gone," was her simple explanation.

Chris walked along the street. Persons stopped and stared at him. They nudged each other and called friends to observe him.

"He ate 'em; that's the fellow," they said.

Chris demanded to know what the curiosity was about.

It chanced he asked the man who had lost the $50.

The man told of the offer he had made and how Matilda had collected.

"Why the little rascal!" exclaimed Chris, joyous at the cunning of his supposed wife-to-be. "I bet she wanted the money to get ready to be married."

And he ran right back to Matilda's home. And then he learned what Matilda had done.

He right well wrecked that household. Among the things he destroyed were four dozens of eggs. That brought about his arrest.

labor unions. After much questioning he was excused on the challenge of the defense.

AGAINST CLOSED SHOP.

Next to be interrogated was Jacob Squire, who has resided at Downey for seventeen years, and in California for twenty-one years. He stated that he is a fruit grower; has no prejudice against trades unions, but is opposed to the "closed-shop" idea.

In connection with the examination of this juror, a further discussion of the place that union labor will take in the forthcoming trial was presented.

"Opposition to the "closed-shop" idea would not disqualify a man as a juror in this case," stated Judge Willis during this discussion.

"It doesn't enter into this case except to develop the state of mind as to prejudice against the testimony of witnesses who are in favor of the 'closed shop'—as to how the juror shall judge the credibility of witnesses."

The defense asked to be allowed further questioning of this juror upon new matters tomorrow, and the State passed the juror for cause.

During a portion of the afternoon Judge Jackson was a visitor to the courtroom, sitting with Judge Willis on the bench for about an hour.

During the afternoon H. H. Roser, a Socialist attorney of this city, appeared and attempted to enter the bar, but was detained by the bailiff. He appealed to the court to be allowed to enter the bar and take a seat. The permission was accorded, and Mr. Roser smilingly found a place beside Olaf Tveitmoe.

MOVEMENTS IN SOCIETY.

MR. AND MRS. J. H. MILES of No. 43 Westmoreland place formally announce the marriage of their daughter, Sueadele, to Edgar Shelton Dulin, prominent in business and social circles of the city and son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Dulin of 181 South Commonwealth avenue.

Miss Miles is a beautiful young girl, who has legions of friends in the younger set. With her parents and sister she has just returned from a five-weeks' visit in San Francisco, where many courtesies were extended. Her fiancee joined her north for much of the time.

The marriage will be a fashionable event of November.

Wedding Saturday.

Saturday will bring one of the most anticipated functions that Los Angeles as well as San Francisco society has known this year—Miss Marjorie Ramsay's marriage to Charles Reginald Blyth of San Francisco. The ceremony is to be celebrated at high noon in the beautiful garden of the Ramsay home on Western avenue, just off West Adams.

Miss Ramsay's fiance has already come from the north, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Penoyer of San Francisco and Mrs. Arsane Pujo and Miss Mona Pujo, her charming young daughter from New Orleans, are also house guests of Mrs. William E. Ramsay and the Misses Marjorie and Katherine, coming a few days in advance of the other members of the wedding party. Mrs. Penoyer, an aunt of the bride-to-be, will be her matron of honor, and Miss Pujo is one of the bridesmaids.

Miss Katherine Ramsay will attend her beautiful sister as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will number Miss Arabella Schwerin of San Mateo, Miss Beatrice Nickel of San Francisco, Miss Phila Miller of Pasadena, Miss Daphne Drake and Mrs. Paul Grimm, as announced in these columns several weeks ago. Mr. Blyth's best man will be E. Raymond Armsby of San Francisco, and the ushers are Messrs. J. Cheever Cowdin, Platt Kent, Dean Witter, Frederick Van Sicklen of San Francisco, H. Hartley Ramsay of New York (the bride-elect's brother) and Gurney E. Newlin. Leonora Armsby, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Armsby of Burlingame, will, as flower girl, complete the list of attendants.

It will undoubtedly be one of the prettiest weddings of the autumn.

Convalescing.

Miss Pinita Drake, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Charles Rivers Drake of Los Angeles and Long Beach, is rapidly recovering from an operation to which she submitted a fortnight ago. The Drakes are spending much of their time at Hotel Virginia, these days.

Wedding Date Set.

The hour of 4 on November 14 has been set for the marriage of Miss Edith Holder and James Roby Molony, which is to be solemnized at the Church of the Angels.

A round of gaiety has kept this delightful bride-to-be in a continuous whirl of pre-nuptial courtesies since the news of her betrothal was made public, and many additional affairs will yet occur on the social calendar.

Sunset of Life.

The seventy-seventh anniversary of Mrs. A. Dainton was made memorable by several friends who on Tuesday gave a happy surprise in her honor. Many pretty gifts and flowers were showered upon her. Appetising refreshments were served.

Studio Tea.

Miss Dorothy Medland, a member of the faculty of the Cumnock School of Expression, gave a studio tea in the school building on South Figueroa street Tuesday. Other members of the faculty, students, and parents and friends of students were her guests. Miss Medland, who is head of the school's art department, had a number of her own sketches and paintings on view.

A Nature Artist.

Mr. Mode Wineman, one of America's foremost nature photographers and widely known in social circles throughout the East and Southwest, has returned to Southern California after several months of filming scenes about Monterey and an extensive visit at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in San Francisco. He is making his home at the Beverly Hills Hotel and will remain there until later in the season, when he goes to Hotel del Coronado for the winter months.

To Winter Here.

Her many friends are glad to again greet Mrs. Nellie McDaniel of Denver, who, with her lovely daughter, Celeste, has come back to Southern California to spend the winter. Mrs. McDaniel was here over a year, her last visit, only returning to Colorado for the summer.

Honolulu Trip Postponed.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner Elmer Weatherholt, who went to San Francisco a fortnight ago preparatory for embarking on a Honolulu trip, have had to postpone their trip to the island, on account of the severe illness of Mrs. Weatherholt, who had ptomaine poison. Her condition was serious for several days. The Weatherholts plan to go in December. They are now at home to their many friends at the Bryson.

In Theater Crowd.

The Alexandria grill was notably gay on Monday evening following the theaters. One merry table included Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Schmidt and party. Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Biehl, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hartley, Mr. and Mrs. Barton W. Heffley and Mrs. A. J. Warner were also among the guests. Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Brauer were hosts to a number of friends. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Axton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Pelt, Mr. A. J. Warner, Mr. George P. Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Clark were also noticed in the parties at the various tables.

Welcomed Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Newton Richards, who are just returning to Los Angeles from a two years' absence, are now at home to their friends at the Rampart. They were guests of the Virginia in Long Beach for the past eight months, and prior to that time enjoyed a tour around the world.

Miss Sueadele Miles,

Lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Miles of Westmoreland Place, whose betrothal to Edgar Shelton Dulin is announced today.

Complimenting an Ohioan.

A hostess of yesterday afternoon was Mrs. George Warren, who, at her pretty home, No. 3003 Pasadena avenue, entertained guests at an elaborately-appointed tea, honoring her aunt, Mrs. Frances Tallman of Ohio. Lavender predominated in the decorative motif, both in flowers and refreshments, and bidden were Mrs. Arthur G. Munn, Mrs. Gertrude Allyn Long, Mrs. Nina Burke, Mrs. Julius Seyler, Mrs. Calvin Allyn, Mrs. C. P. Donnell, Mrs. Minnie Daggett, Mrs. A. Finnefrock and Mrs. C. Crabb of Ocean Park. Mrs. W. N. Crandall assisted in dispensing hospitality.

Going to Jewel City.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Rindge, Jr., are leaving today for San Francisco, where they will chaperon Miss Rhoda A. Rindge on a fortnight's tour of the exposition. They are to be domiciled at the St. Francis while north.

For Friday of Next Week.

Among the patronesses who are to serve for the recital which Sydney F. Hoben, assisted by the Alaskan soprano, Miss Grace Nelce, will give on the afternoon of Friday, the 15th inst., are Mrs. Cornelius Cole, Mrs. Seward Cole, Mrs. Roland B. Reed, Mrs. Frederick W. Kohler, Mrs. C. H. Lippincott, Mrs. Ralph M. Burdick, Mrs. Bessie Bartlett Frankel, Mrs. Harmon Ryus, Mrs. A. G. Schlosser, Mrs. George Ralph, Mrs. Edward F. Bogardus and Mrs. F. A. Jungquist.

The affair is to be held at the handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Knudsen at Vista del Mar, Hollywood, which is of the Algerian type of architecture, and overlooks all Los Angeles and Hollywood. Just now the Knudsens are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Herbert H. Garstin of Ranch Crafton, Redlands, who arrived Saturday night to spend a few weeks, and is to be joined by her husband shortly. They also have a country place in Bear Valley, which is known by many Los Angeles folk.

Merry Week-end Party.

Commodore and Mrs. Alexander J. Mitchell entertained a party of friends over the week-end in Catalina, going over on their yacht, the Yankee Girl, Saturday and returning to town Monday, being guests at the Metropole a part of the time. Mrs. Mary Butt Griffith and daughter, Miss Mary, of Atlanta, Ga., furnished the motif for the enjoyable cruise, others in the party numbering Mrs. I. H. Carroll of Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Edmon G. Bennett of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Eisen, Cyril Kelley of New York City and Beverly Griffith, son and brother of the specially-honored guests, and assistant manager at the Universal.

Miss Edna Morrison, a sister of Mrs. Mitchell and who has been her house-guest for most of the summer, concluded her visit yesterday morning and left for her home in New York, stopping en route to visit friends in Colorado Springs. With Miss Morrison, the Mitchells have visited Del Monte, San Francisco and were four weeks at the Metropole, Avalon. While Miss Morrison was resting and did not wish entertaining, many motoring parties, luncheons and dinners made her stay especially enjoyable, all, however, being extremely informal.

In Their New Home.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Loury Catherwood and their interesting family have taken possession of their new home, Vilkusha (Hindostanee for the abode of happiness,) located in Elysian Park district, where they are now receiving their friends. They have a wonderful view overlooking the San Fernando Valley, and an artistic house perched high on the hill. Mrs. Catherwood, who is one of our best-known musicians, will have her studio teas this year at the Regent.

NEW STAR AT LEVY'S.

With a grand revue, assisted by a dozen singing and dancing girls, Miss Ethel Davis, until recently a vaudeville star, will appear at Levy's Cafe Monday for the opening of the winter season at the cafe.

FAREWELL DINNER TO STATIONERS.

VISITORS ENTERTAINED BY LOCAL ORGANIZATION.

Delegates to Recent National Convention in San Francisco Praise Beauties of Southern California. Many Promise to Return to the Land of Sunshine.

As a fitting wind-up for the two days of entertaining, the Stationer's Club of Los Angeles last night entertained the 100 visiting delegates to the recent national convention of stationers in San Francisco with a banquet and ball at the Sierra Madre Club. In addition to the delegates from associations of the country, representatives of almost every large industry connected with the stationery trade, were present as guests.

D. A. Vail, president of the local association, introduced Martin Neuner as toastmaster. After he had read several messages from absent members, Mr. Neuner introduced the speakers. Among those who made addresses were Charles M. Bellman, president of the national association; Charles Lent of New York, past president; Fletcher B. Gibbs of Chicago, known as "The Father of the Association;" M. W. Byers of New York, national secretary; C. M. Marshall of Atlanta, Ga., where the next national convention will be held, and H. A. Rogers of New York.

Every speaker praised Southern California and their hosts. During the two days spent here as guests of the local organization, the visitors have had an opportunity to see the beauties of the surrounding country, and to get a better knowledge of the wonders of the great Southwest. In almost every instance, the visitors expressed the intention of returning as soon as possible.

Following the addresses, the tables were removed, and dancing commenced. It had been intended by the Entertainment Committee to have the women in the visiting party entertained at a theater by the wives of the members of the local organization. However, the prospect of enjoying a dance was too attractive, and the theater party was cancelled.

The visiting delegates will separate this morning. Some will go to San Diego, while others will start for their eastern homes. It was indicated last night that before long a number will be returning to Southern California, this time to remain several weeks, if not longer.

MOTHER ESCAPES WITH DAUGHTER.

OFFICERS TOO LATE TO STOP PAIR; CHILD'S FATHER CAUSES ACTION.

When deputy sheriffs hurried to the Santa Fe station yesterday morning to prevent Mrs. Anna Wagner from taking her daughter, Gertrude, 10 years old, back to St. Louis, they found their efforts vain. The mother and child departed Tuesday night at 9 o'clock.

Michael J. Wagner, the husband and father, represented to Judge Jackson that his wife, in the last stage of a chronic disease, intended to take the child to her grandmother in St. Louis, to cheat him out of her custody. Upon his showing the judge issued a writ of habeas corpus and a warrant for the arrest of the child.

Investigation showed Mrs. Wagner, who had been a patient in the California Hospital, was released early Tuesday evening and that she and the daughter fled a few hours later.

When it was discovered the mother and daughter were gone and undoubtedly had crossed the California line, the Sheriff's office refused to have anything further to do in the matter.

PLAYHOUSE TO REOPEN.

"Snow White," First Little Theater Offering.

"Under Cover" is Burbank's Next Attraction.

Vaudeville Bills Promise to Fill Bill.

The Little Theater, originally destined to be the home of "intellectual drama," is to resume the fulfillment of its function again Monday night. The vehicle chosen for the reopening is "Snow White," with Blanche Hall in the leading role.

Mrs. DuPont Joyce, an English actress, James Conway and James Donnelly are other names of significance in the list of players. Director Granville Forrest Sturgis will assume the role of Berthold. The story is an exceedingly beautiful one and a general favorite.

Other dramas of the higher type are scheduled to follow.

Burbank.

"The Big Idea," featuring Franklyn Underwood and Frances Slosson, is drawing large houses at the Burbank at each performance. The piece is full of charm, and the excellent company does full justice to it. Miss Slosson has played her role of the college girl in the East, which her finished work shows.

The story has to do with the writing of a play, and all playwrights will appreciate the ravings of the author, who is constantly interrupted in his work.

Next week the offering will be Rol Cooper Megrue's "Under Cover," with Frances Ring in the leading role.

Morosco.

Blanche Ring in "Nobody Home" starts the fourth big week next Sunday night at the Morosco Theater.

The many tuneful melodies in the production, including "The Magic Melody," "Any Old Night," "Beautiful Bed" and "There's a New Ford in Town," together with the amusing comedy, the pretty girls and beautiful costumes, continue to draw the crowds.

Mason.

"Potash and Perlmutter," adapted from the delightful Montague Glass tales, will be the offering at the Mason during the week beginning October 18.

"Abe" and "Mawruss" aren't stage folk any longer; they are a national institution, and "Potash and Perlmutter" is a tradition.

Orpheum.

Valeska Surratt, in "Black Crepe and Diamonds" and "The Moth and the Flame," will headline the new Orpheum bill which opens Monday afternoon.

Miss Surratt will begin her Orpheum tour in Los Angeles, and her coming is looked forward to with much pleasant anticipation, as she is a great favorite. She brings some stunning new gowns.

Others on the bill will be Nina Payne and Joe Niemeyer, in song and dance numbers; Frank Milton and the De Long Sisters in "The Terminal," an amusing sketch; Ralph Loshe and Nina Sterling in athletic feats, Miss Sterling having won the prize as the most perfect woman among 20,000 in a beauty competition; the Temple Serenaders, in song and instrumental selections, and the holdovers, including Charles E. Evans and Helena Phillips in their popular sketch; Charles Howard and company, and Violinsky.

Republic.

"The Boy and the Regiment," the playlet of European war conditions, which is being featured at the Republic Theater this week by Laura Winston and company, is proving a magnet for drawing crowded houses. The lighter acts on the bill, headed by the Howard Sisters with their dainty singing and dancing number, offer a pleasing contrast.

The programme for next week will have two headliners, Hager & Goodwin, "two boys at the piano," who are said to have an unusual musical offering, and Santry & Norton with their sensational dances.

Pantages.

"The Haberdashery" is the title of a feature which headlines the new Pantages bill opening Monday. In it all the mysteries of feminine apparel and how to wear such apparel are illustrated.

Others on the bill will be Harry Van Fossen, comedian; Rev. Frank W. Gorman, known as "the Chauncey Olcott of the pulpit;" Rondas Trio, acrobats; Bow and Bow, sailor boy comedians, and Mantell's Marionette Hippodrome.

Hippodrome.

"Within the Lines," a war play, said to have great punch and thrill, is the headline attraction of the new Hip bill to open Monday, next.

Other features will be Vilma Steck, of Kolb & Dill fame; Paisley Noon, in a breezy dance skit; Fay Carranza, the California singer; Albert Roquet and company in an equilibristic turn; Grace Cushman, musical comedy girl, in character songs; Kari, the wizard of the one-string fiddle, and the Stuart Trio.

Clune's Auditorium.

"The Escape," David Griffith's production, with Donald Crisp, Mae Marsh, Blanche Sweet and other film favorites in the leading roles, is drawing well at Clune's Auditorium this week.

Next week another Griffith masterpiece, "The Avenging Conscience," with Henry Walthall and Blanche Sweet in the leading roles, will be the offering.

Tally's Broadway.

"The Voice in the Fog," with Donald Brian in the leading role, is pleasing big houses at Tally's Broadway this week. The thrilling story by Harold McGrath is clearly told and convincingly acted.

Next week Pauline Frederick will be seen in "Zaza," in which Miss Frederick is said to do some of her strongest acting.

Woodley.

"Trilby," with Clara Kimball Young and Wilton Lackaye in the stellar roles, is showing to large audiences this week at the Woodley. This production had a long run at Shuberts.

Next week Julius Steger will be seen in his recent and greatest stage triumph, "The Master of the House."

Palace of Pictures.

Local theater-goers are still enjoying "The Island of Regeneration" at the Palace of Pictures. The unique romance of the South Sea Islands is establishing a record for Broadway, its unusual plot, excellent acting, beautiful scenery and spectacular effects making it a photo-play triumph that appeals to almost every class.

Majestic.

Ann Murdock in "A Royal Family" has created such a favorable impression at the Majestic that Manager Moffatt, in response to many requests, will continue the play all this week. In her part as a "tomboy," while, at the same time, a princess of the royal blood, Miss Murdock has pleased her Los Angeles audiences.

Beginning Sunday matinee, the Majestic will present Gail Kane in "Her Great Match." This was to have been shown this week, but has been postponed.

Superba.

Julia Dean, the noted Broadway actress, and Harry Carey, film favorite, in "Judge Not," will be the offering at the Superba next week, commencing Monday. The play is said to be strong throughout.

This week Anita Stewart and Earl Williams are scoring heavily in "The Sins of the Mothers."

Brooks Theater.

The Brooks Theater opens Saturday evening, presenting Theda Bara in "The Two Orphans," filmed from the stage production of the same name.

Theda Bara is one of the favorites in filmland, and the announcement of her name is sufficient promise of success for the film in which she appears.

Miller's.

Capacity houses are greeting Theda Bara in her latest picture success, "Sin," at Miller's. Miss Bara is particularly fascinating as the beautiful Italian girl who gets all the men by the ears.

"The Little Gypsy" comes to Miller's next week, with Dorothy Bernard in the title role. An added feature will be the first of the J. Rufus Wallingford stories, with Burr McIntosh and Max Figman in the leading roles.

Clune's Broadway.

"The Fatal Card," with John Mason and Hazel Dawn in the leading roles, is proving very popular at Clune's this week. Mary Pickford comes next week in "The Girl of Yesterday," said to offer the charming actress unusual opportunity for pleasing work.

Times' "liners" are productive of maximum results at minimum cost.

The fire department extinguished the flames, but until then was it learned that she had been inside already, presumably she had been rendered unconscious.

EVADE JURY DUTY.

Patriotic Address of Judge Has Little Effect on Many Veniremen.

The patriotic address of Judge Trippet on the duty American citizens owe to the flag and country in accepting service as members of juries selected to try criminal cases in the local Federal courts made a vivid impression yesterday on members of the panel for the next trial cases, that about half of the seventy-five men good and true advanced to the dais and gave reasons why they should not serve.

First the court heard the various excuses for not serving and then a dozen lined up, most armed with certificates of their favorite physician. These disposed of, there came those who for business reasons sought an escape from jury service more than twenty.

A number had not been summoned by the deputy United States marshal, and when Judge Trippet had passed on the physical and business excuses there were but twenty-eight on the panel left, and of these five were excused until later in the term, to report December 1.

This is an unusually small number of men to act as term jurors, and it means that some time during the term when hard-fought cases are to be tried it will be necessary to summon a special panel from which jurors may be selected.

The list that finally passed upon was made up as follows: [illegible] Brewster, Milton A. Blanchard, Blackburn, Otis Berry, Alexander Wigmore, J. T. Burns, [illegible] Baird, Herbert A. Cornell, [illegible] H. Seaver, Edwin D. Hill, [illegible] Horn, John A. Kingsley, [illegible] Meyer, W. R. Phelps, [illegible] Sergeant, Charles Woodbury, [illegible] Robinson, S. N. It is time that I smoke another Van Dyck. I lift him carefully from my cigar case—he is too fine a fellow to throw loose in the coat pocket.

I light carefully. I smoke deliberately; there is quite a pause between my puffs. I am not one of your walking chimneys—I smoke Van Dyck!

Ah, that rich Havana leaf—how often I look into its cool white smoke and see again my old home!

It is the siesta of midday. The air is heavy with complete fragrance. I rest in the blue shadow of my living room, smoking slowly. The splattering tinkle of water sings in my ears from the fountain in our courtyard.

So I say to myself that Mother Nature is not after all, the jade she sometimes seems.

Does she not give us many tobaccos for the beginners in smoking? Does she not give the precious Havana tobacco in Van Dyck cigars—to those of us who are more fastidious about our cigars?

After but one Van Dyck I thank her from my heart—my little troubles have vanished up in smoke!

OAKS BEST THE ANGELS.

Result Shows Uncertainty of Baseball.

Merely Serve to Complicate World Series.

Rube Gardner Makes Dazzling Catch in Ninth.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Those with nothing to do until today went out to the park yesterday and watched Los Angeles play Oakland.

They came away deeply impresed with the uncertainties of baseball, for the Oaklets defeated the Angels, 5 to 1, which merely goes to show how the unexpected may happen in a big series like this.

ANXIETY.

The result of this combat tends to gum up the baseball situation, and gives rise to the question: If Oakland can beat Los Angeles, who will win in Philadelphia tomorrow? It seems next to impossible to figure baseball. Of course, there is no common ground on which to compare the Angels and Oaklets with the Red Sox and Phillies, unless we liken Rube Gardner to Cravath, when Gavvy was in a rough and unfinished condition. Rube is just as good a hitter as Cravath was when he was out here, and doesn't field much worse.

The only club to which we can liken the Oaklets as a whole are the Boston Braves of last season. The spurt of the Braves gave them so much confidence that they couldn't be beaten. The recent rush of the Oaklets from last to fifth place seems to have made them invincible.

Nothing, it seems, can stop them—not even Harl Maggert. Mag tried to do so in the seventh inning yesterday, but the pill rolled between his legs, allowing three men to score. That's the way it goes. A winning club always gets the breaks. Far be it from us to detract from the achievements of any ball team, but had they not gotten the breaks, the Oaklets would not have won so many ball games this season.

Grover Cleveland Brant also tried to stop Oakland. But if Maggert couldn't stop them with both hands, what chance had Brant while using but one? He was taken out after Maggert had made that error, on the theory that it is well to change pitchers occasionally and keep up appearances even this late in the season.

RAH FOR HIM.

Shotputter Prueitt gave a demonstration of what one really great pitcher can do in a ball game by holding the Angels to six hits. He would have skunked the Angels but for the fact that Kuhn, the red-headed catcher, squirted the ball into the center field in the ninth. This let in a run that was wholly unexpected.

Dillon, in a last desperate effort to turn the tide of battle, used a flock of pinch-hitters in the eighth. Among those thus honored was Harry Wolter, who recently quit the team for the rest of the season. Having quit the team for the rest of the season more than there weeks ago, it seems impossible that he could have been batting yesterday, but he was there just the same.

EXCITING.

And despite the fact that Jimmy Callahan succeeded Dillon as manager of the Angels several months ago, and Del Howard took Rowdy Elliott's job away from him about the same time,

FRESHMEN WIN OVER MANUAL.

VERMONTERS FAIL TO SHOW OFFENSE.

Weird Officiating Gives Freshmen Their First Score and Genuine Football Gives Them Their Second. Mallette is Hero with Forward Passes and Twisting Runs.

In a game of streaky football and featured by the customary weird decisions the Trojan Freshmen added the Manual Arts' scalp to their collection yesterday by a score of 14 to 0.

The freshmen played practically the same style of football as they showed against L. A. High a week ago. They showed little ability to run the ends, great ability to smash off tackle and a weird amount of success in the short forward pass.

Manual Arts showed a very strong defense against everything but the forward pass but was rather a failure on the offensive. Only twice did the Vermonters show anything in the way of ability to advance the ball.

The first U.S.C. score came as a beautiful gift from the officials, two decisions in a row helping them over the line. The first saw them get the ball on an incomplete forward pass in which a Trojan back allowed the ball to glide through his fingers and another Trojan caught it before it touched the ground. According to the rule book this is incomplete but the Trojans were given about ten or twelve yards on it.

The second wild decision came when a U.S.C. back threw the ball on a forward pass clear out of the safety zone behind the Manual goal line without anyone touching the ball with their hands. According to the rules this constitutes a touchback and Manual should have had the ball on their twenty-five yard mark but instead it was ruled as incomplete and on the next two plays the Trojans took the ball over for their first score. Legett carried the ball over and after Nix had punted out to Marshall, Ramseyr kicked goal.

The second U.S.C. score was the result of a determined rush down the field in the third quarter, forward passes from Mallette to Burkett making most of the ground and Mallette finally carrying the ball over on a pretty, twisting run. It was an earned score and Ramseyr kicked goal again.

Manual made one determined smash in the first few minutes of the third quarter. Warren Lamport made a beautiful return of the kick-off to the center of the field and a series of forward passes thrown by George Bluett netted gain after gain until Bluett was hurt with the ball on the thirty-yard mark and the Manual offense collapsed.

The line-up:

"BIG" GAMES FOR SAN FRANCISCO.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—Completion of arrangements for the two "big" Rugby and American football games, here and at Berkeley, indicated today that the athletic split of Stanford and California and the consequent replacement of Rugby with the old style game at Berkeley have resulted in adding a feature to the football season instead of dividing interest.

A decision to hold the Stanford-Santa Clara Rugby game at Ewing Field here, November 13, was announced today after a conference last night between representatives of both universities. This will be the first intercollegiate game to be played here since the 1903 California-Stanford game.

FAST RECORD AT RIVERSIDE.

VERA HAL SETS UP SPEEDY MARK.

San Francisco Mare Paces Mile on the Half-mile Track in 2:06¾, Nearly Three Seconds Faster than the Mark Held by Hal McKinney and Made at Hemet.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 6.—A new pacing record of 2:06¾ for the mile on a half-mile track was made by Vera Hal, owned by Harold Cohen of San Francisco, in the second heat of the 2:09 pace at the Riverside county fair grounds this afternoon. The old record was made two years ago on the Hemet track by Hal McKinney, whose mark of 2:09¼ stood until today.

The 2:09 pace made the best and most exciting race this section has ever witnessed. Only three horses were entered, Vera Hal, with Cohen driving; White Sox, owned by W. G. Durfee & Co., winner of the $20,000 stake in San Francisco, with Billy Durfee driving; and San Jacinto, owned by George D. Armstead of Riverside.

White Sox took the first heat in 2:07, which record-breaking time brought the great crowd in the grand stand to its feet. Vera Hal was second and San Jacinto third. Vera Hal took the next two heats, in 2:06¾ and 2:07, with White Sox second and San Jacinto third. No horse led the other by more than half a length in any one of the three finishes.

The 2:14 trot, the other big event on the card, was won by Virginia Barnette, another mare from the Durfee stable, which took all three heats in 2:15¾, 2:15 and 2:14¼. Allie Lou of the Hemet stock farm was second, Marsh Thompson's Zoloch Bar, third, and T. N. Goldsmith's Danube, fourth.

Tomorrow, "Indian Day," will be one of the red letter days of the fair. The principal feature of the day's sports, outside the races, will be a football game between the Sherman Institute team and the San Diego marines.

PHILLIES ARE IN CONDITION.

Alexander and Mayer Both Show Form.

Demaree Fails to Win Nice Fat Bonus.

Mystery About Killifer's Throwing Arm.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—The Philadelphia Nationals, new champions of their league, had some good practice today in preparation for the world's series games which begin here on Friday. They wound up the regular playing season by defeating Brooklyn twice, while a small but critical crowd looked on.

ALECK O. K.

Alexander, who is expected to carry the pitching burden of the Phillies, is in as good condition as he has been at any time this year. He has done comparatively little twirling in the last two weeks, Manager Pat Moran preferring that the Nebraskan conserve his strength for the heavy work to come.

Pitcher Mayer, who with Chalmers, is expected to help Alexander bring the world's title to Philadelphia, also took things easy, but held Brooklyn in check. Incidentally, Demaree, who was to be given $500 bonus if he won fifteen games, failed to get the prize by a narrow margin. He needed only one game to win, but Brooklyn batted him hard and he was taken out.

TO BE BUSY.

With the regular schedule out of the way Manager Moran will devote tomorrow and Friday morning to keeping his men in condition.

They are already tuned up and ready for the fray, but he will have all the players on the field both morning and afternoon tomorrow for light work.

The fact that Whitted played in both games today was encouraging to the fans. Whitted injured his side in the final drive for the pennant and it was believed for a time that he had either broken or dislocated a rib.

Niehoff, whose legs were none too good, is also reported ready to play.

A MYSTERY.

The one great mystery that remains to be solved is the condition of Bill Killifer's arm. The big catcher's throwing arm "went dead" several weeks ago and, while he has since appeared in uniform, he has not attempted to catch in any of the regular games. Killifer says his arm is "coming around all right," but the skeptical would feel much better if they could see him in action. Burns, who has been doing most of the catching in Killifer's absence, has been given a good rest, and is again in trim, as was shown by his work in the first game of today's double-header.

Alexander will pitch the first game, and with him in good form the Philadelphia players do not see how he can lose. What little betting there has been on the series so far shows that the odds that have prevailed in Boston's favor are gradually shortening. Some bettors now want even money.

The weather man predicts cloudy skies and possibly rain for Friday.

THE RED SOX.

Cravath Hits Twenty-fourth Home Run.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—Philadelphia got its final hard work for the world's series this afternoon when Brooklyn was defeated in both games of a double-header, by scores of 9 to 6, and 3 to 2. Demaree, Mayer and Alexander worked in the order named in the first game. Demaree was hit hard in one inning, Mayer yielded only one hit in four, and Alexander, taking a one-inning workout, being hit for two singles.

Cravath made his twenty-fourth home-run drive of the season, but did not play in the second contest. Hard hitting in the third inning of the closing event gave the home team the victory. Both managers made numerous changes in the line-ups, Moran desiring to give his substitutes a chance in case of an emergency in the games with the Boston Red Sox for the world's title.

BRAVES SECOND.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—Two runs won two games and clinched second place for the Braves today, and also settled the Giants in last place for the season. The score was 1 to 0 in each game.

Hughes allowed New York only two hits in the first game, one a scratch. Palmero, a recruit, pitched well until the ninth, when Gowdy's double was converted into a run.

The second game was finished in one hour and seven minutes, a local record for the season. The Braves' tally, which came in the sixth inning, grew out of Tesreau's only pass, a scratch single, a sacrifice hit and a sacrifice fly.

CHANCE TO SEE SERIES.

Every game in the world series will be depicted on an electrical score board at the Empress Theater, No. 340 South Spring street.

A. S. Riggins, inventor of this board, which is declared to excel anything of the kind, has leased the Empress for a period covering the series. He will be assisted by a number of baseball experts, and is prepared to depict each play in a way that is at once technically correct and thrilling.

The electrical board will be served with a direct wire from Philadelphia tomorrow and Saturday, and from Boston when the teams are playing in that city. As the Empress is centrally located in the business part of the city, and an admission of only 25 cents will be charged, the returns should be witnessed by a capacity house each day.

The doors will be thrown open at 10 a.m., with the first returns flashed at 11 o'clock.

TWO FOR SOX.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The new Boston champions had a fine workout today and defeated New York in both sections of a double-header, the scores being 2 to 0 and 4 to 2. Manager Carrigan worked out four of his leading pitchers in the first game, when Shore, Leonard, Wood and Mays held the New York to three hits and struck out twelve men. Shore pitched only one inning and struck out three men on eleven pitched balls, Pickinbaugh being the only player to hit a foul. Wood worked in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings, and allowed two hits and struck out three men. In the second game, Ruth and Tipple were invincible for four innings, after which both weakened, Tipple did not permit a hit for five innings, but allowed nine in the last four.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—In the coming world's series between the Philadelphia Nationals and the Boston Americans both teams will be well provided with infield material. All told there are no less than thirteen players who may be called upon to take defensive positions around the base paths. The Red Sox have seven experienced infielders, who by a series of shifts, can be formed into several combinations of unusual strength both at the bat and on the diamond. The Phillies, while well equipped with regulars, are not as strong numerically or in general average as their rivals when the infield squads are considered as a whole.

This apparent advantage possessed by the American Leaguers will not count heavily against the Phillies, provided the two teams are able to go through the series without the necessity of changes due to accidents or illness. Should emergencies arise, however, where it becomes imperative to call upon the reserve forces of the infields, then the resources of the Boston club would be a factor worthy of much consideration in endeavoring to forecast the outcome of the play.

During the most important portion of the race for the American League pennant, the Boston infield line-up was, as a rule, as follows: Hoblitzel, first base; Barry, second base; Gardner, third base; Scott, shortstop. Gainer was frequently used to hold down the initial bag, however, while Wagner filled in at second and Janvrin took Scott's place at short. In addition Barry is familiar with the duties of both short and third; Janvrin can hold down third and Scott is not unfamiliar with the duties at second and third.

Opposed to the versatile and interchangeable infield, the Phillies have Luderus at first; Niehoff at second; Stock on third and Bancroft for shortstop. Byrne is an infielder of caliber and with Dugey, forms the reserve corps for the first line of the Moranites's defense. Byrne has played in a number of games during the past season, showing fair strength at bat and on the field. Dugey, who is the youngest member of the Phillies clan, has figured almost entirely this year as a pinch hitter and is not likely to be called upon to play unless an unusual emergency arises.

Notwithstanding the apparent superiority in numbers and veteran material of the Red Sox, the playing averages of the two squads fail to show any great advantage one way or the other. The seven Boston infielders have a combined batting average of .258 against the Phillies' .254, while the fielding averages are even closer, the figures being: Philadelphia, .955; Boston, .953. When the eight players who will probably form the two infields in the opening game are compared, the difference in the averages is greater but the advantage about equally divided. Luderus, Niehoff, Stock and Bancroft have a combined fielding average of .954 and a batting average of .265; the Boston quartette, consisting of Hoblitzel, Barry, Gardner and Scott show a grand average of .962 in the field and .254 at bat.

Comparing these players, position by position, the figures indicate that Luderus is a better hitter and fielder at first than Hoblitzel, with the base stealing ability about equal and the Red Sox's sackman holding an advantage in sacrifice hitting for Luderus's average at bat is .319 to Hoblitzel's .281, while in the field Luderus averages .991 to Hoblitzel's .986. At second, where Barry and Niehoff are likely to be the leading performers, the former Athletic star outshines the player secured by the Phillies from Cincinnati in exchange for former Manager Charles Dooin. Barry has batted .270 and fielded .965 this season to Niehoff's .239 and .943. Niehoff is much faster on the bases, having stolen nineteen sacks to Barry's zero in this department of play. Barry, however, has shown far greater steadiness in the field and has a better record in sacrifice hitting.

At third the fans who witness the series will have an opportunity to compare the work of Gardner and Stock, for the latter is likely to be the choice of Manager Moran, since his record for the season shows that he is a harder hitter and better fielder than Byrne, although figuring in but half the number of games credited to Byrne. Stock has a fielding average about thirty points better than Gardner but is fourteen points shy of the Red Sox third sacker's batting ability. Gardner is superior in base running and is credited with more sacrifice hits but is apparently less steady in the handling of difficult chances.

Comparing the records of the rival shortstops it is seen that Bancroft, the Philadelphia player, has a much better average with the bat, but falls below Scott, the Boston player, in fielding. Bancroft has played in almost all the games of the season and his averages are: Batting, .245; fielding, .921. Scott in less than 100 games has batted .194 and fielded .963. In base stealing and sacrifice hitting Bancroft's record shows to advantage over Scott's, while the latter is considered to be a steadier fielder.

WATCH STARS.

One reason why the unknowns have en able to get away with all this blicity is that the public expects much of the recognized stars in world series, while the least unal act of the mediocre or substi player is magnified and emed in the head lines.

In 1906, when one of the regulars ed a lag, George Rohe, a minor guer, was shoved in at third base the White Sox against the Cubs. only did he play the position in form, but his hitting was a promifeature in the victory of the Sox. that the White Sox probably would e won with their regular line-up. y had too much good pitching for Cubs in that series. Barry de a low throw to third, and Baker ived the ball. By all rights, Deal uld have been out a couple of es. He later scored on a drive by ker. To recapitulate, Deal was ited that caromed off Collin's ld with a double on a poor piece judgment in the field by Strunk, was caught off second by Schang managed to get to third because fates were with him. Strunk ved poor baseball and so did everyone else, figuring in that run, inding Deal, and yet Deal came out it a hero.

Rohe, who played such fine ball inst the Cubs, and Babe Adams, beat Detroit three times in 1909, about the only bona fide unwns who have suddenly stiffened and performed really remarkable in a world series. Of course ason of 1909 is a world series, while the least unwn player is magnified and emed in the head lines.

BEST TEAM GENERALLY WINS WORLD SERIES.

Part Played by "Unknowns" in Big Fall Battles Greatly Magnified—Rohe and Adams the Shining Exceptions—Cubs Under-rated White Sox—No Precedent on Which to Dope Coming Series.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

EVERY year along about this sorrowful time columns are written about the unknown who once rose on his hind legs and won a world title, or about the unknown who is about to rear up in the same manner and overthrew the enemy in a world now about to be hatched.

Then the enemy overthrown will be nobody ever has any idea. But it is to the club on which the unknown is not playing. That is a cinch. If a member of the enemy he could not overthrew it, and still be here.

But even why the unknowns have been able to get away with all this publicity is that the public expects to see some of the recognized stars in a world series, while the least unknown out of the mediocre or substitute player is magnified and emphasized in the head lines.

In 1908, when one of the regulars broke a leg, George Rohe, a minor leaguer, was shoved in at third base for the White Sox against the Cubs. Rohe did he play the position in fine style, but his hitting was a prominent factor in the victory of the Sox. Had the White Sox probably would have won with their regular line-up. There was too much good pitching for Rohe in that series. Anyway, that was the beginning of the unknown in world series.

BAH FOR DEAL.

Therefore, last season when Red Dooin shattered his best leg just before the end of the season, Deal, a comparative unknown substitute, was shoved in at third base. The experts castigated Dooin for a satisfactory and unselfish choice. And sure enough Deal won the winning run in the last game of the series. In fact, Deal was the only run. It was in the first inning. He hit out a frail fly that should have been caught, but Deal played poorly and it was good for a freak two-bagger. Deal took too big a lead off second when the ball down the line was thrown to third, and Baker caught the ball. By all rights, Deal should have been out a couple of times before he scored on a drive by Whitted that caromed off Collin's shin. Rather than capitulate, Deal was credited with a double on a poor piece of baseball in the field by Strunk, who had caught off second by Schang and managed to get to third because the throw was wide with him. Strunk played poor baseball and so did everybody else, figuring in that run, including Deal, and yet Deal came out a hero.

REAL HEROES.

Real heroes played such fine ball as Rohe, Cubs, and Babe Adams, of the Cubs, and Babe Adams, of the Detroit three times in 1909, and those who have suddenly stiffened and performed really remarkable work in a world series. Of course there was Hank Gowdy last fall, and Bullet Joe Bush in 1913, but neither of them were exactly strangers to the reading public.

Getting down to bed rock, it is found that the majority of world series have been won by the better team—well-balanced clubs, which on a close analysis, figured to win. And as a rule, when it came to the well-rounded team against the two or three-man club, the former has taken home the bacon.

There have been just two glaring exceptions to the rule—the defeat of the Cubs by the White Sox in 1906 and the beating which the Braves gave the Athletics last fall.

ANALOGY.

There is a striking analogy between the two series and their results.

In each case the club which was intrinsically the stronger went down to defeat, but the cause of it was perfectly clear. Both the Cubs and the Athletics underestimated their opponents, and caught the latter full of confidence and with their pitchers at top speed. The Cubs were not on edge for the White Sox series. Not only were the Sox fit as a whole, but Walsh, White and Altrock were primed perfectly.

Practically the same condition prevailed last year. The Athletics outclassed the Braves any way that you figured it. Soft from an easy season, overconfident and torn by internal dissensions, it was not the Mack machine of 1913 that met the Braves. What the Braves encountered was nine soggy, individual stars. And the Braves, tough and hardened from a fast, fierce rush from last to first place in the space of a few weeks, whipped the Athletics as no other team was ever whipped before in a world's series. No team in the history of baseball could have beaten the Braves that week. They had superfine pitching, and all pitchers looked alike to the Brave batters.

MUCH BETTER.

The Cubs were a better club than the White Sox—except for that one week. The Braves could not be compared with the Athletics as a great baseball machine, and yet they were the more powerful of the two for four days.

The foregoing are the two reversals that but go to prove the general rule.

In 1907 and 1908 the Cubs met and vanquished Detroit. It was a great machine running smoothly versus a three-man team—Cobb, Crawford and Bush.

In 1909 Detroit and Pittsburgh clashed. Neither was a perfectly-balanced club that year. It was Cobb, Crawford and Bush against Wagner, Leach and Clarke, with Babe Adams wielding the balance of power. By emerging from semi-obscurity and winning three games, Babe decided the issue in favor of the Pirates.

GOOD CLUB.

When the Athletics beat the Cubs in 1910 the better club won. It was a good old club that done broke down against a good new club. Again, in 1911, the Athletics beat the Giants because they were the better all-around club. And the same conditions held true in 1913. In 1912, the Red Sox beat the Giants, and they figured to.

So it will be seen that in a majority of cases the regular ball teams have been the winners—the genuine reversals being comparatively rare.

Even back in 1905, when Mathewson blanked the Athletics three times, the Giants loomed as the better team.

It is hard to find any precedent on which to predict the result of the Philly-Red Sox series, unless it is that series of 1905 or the achievement of Babe Adams in 1909. Neither the Red Sox nor Phillies are decadent. This is the first championship for either club as now constituted. Both are full of pep and vinegar, but neither will go into the series with the confidence of the Braves a year ago.

The Alexander of today is regarded by many as the equal of the Mathewson of 1905. But he is facing a much tougher club than Matty faced ten years ago. In 1912, Matty still great, was unable to win a game from the Red Sox, eleven veterans, of which series will face the Phillies.

Probably never in the history of baseball has there been a harder affair to dope than the present one between Boston and Philadelphia.

SOUTHPAW GETS MANY GIFTS AND TREMENDOUS OVATION.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 6.—This was a great day for Lefty Williams, the southpaw pitcher. About 5000 Salt Lake fans turned out this afternoon to see him pitch himself to the top of the Coast League pitchers' percentage column by defeating the Beavers, and to show him that they appreciate the good work he has done this season toward keeping Salt Lake in the league race.

Williams received an ovation that he will long remember and he also was the recipient of numerous tokens of a more substantial nature. Before the game with Portland, Rev. Elmer I. Goshen, on behalf of the club directors, presented Williams with a beautiful diamond ring.

Other gifts of appreciation that were handed him are: A beautiful gold watch, a present from his fellow-players; a new suit of clothes from Manager Cliff Blankenship; a gold-handled umbrella from Business Manager William O'Connor; a check for $250 from the club for his remaining with the team and turning down Federal League offers last July. After all this the fans gave him a silver shower which amounted to $59.

Tonight friends of the pitcher held a little reception for him and presented him with a silver loving cup. Harry Hannah was given a baby carriage.

Ray Bates scored both of Portland's runs by putting the ball over the fence twice.

VOLGA SETS NEW RECORD.

Elmer Dickson Stumbles in Pace Event.

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Oct. 6.—Volga, the Pastime stables' Peter the Great-Nervolo Belle filly, won the Kentucky Futurity for 2-year-old trotters, the chief attraction of the Grand Circuit meeting here today, in straight heats and set a new world's record for 2-year-old fillies for two heats.

She trotted the first mile in 2:07 3-4, which equaled the world's record for 2-year-old fillies, made by Native Belle in 1909, and finished the second round in 2:09 3-4. Volga was closely followed in each heat by Walnut Tree but had no difficulty in winning either.

The Tennessee stake for free-for-all pacers was unfinished after four heats. Napoleon Direct, driven by Geers, won the first heat easily but was pushed to a drive in the second by Braden Direct. In the third he broke badly turning into the stretch but came near winning when Geers brought him to the front after a wide turn, Peter Stevens taking the heat by a nose.

In the fourth round a wheel of Geers's sulky caught behind that of Tgan, driving Braden Direct, and the sulky of the latter was upset in front of the judge's stand. Egan was unhurt. Whitehead was fined $100 for laying up in the first heat. He finished fifth with Flower Direct in each heat.

The first mishap of the meeting took place in the second heat of the 2:09 pace when Elmer Dickson, an added starter, fell at the seven-eighths post and Bingen Pointer and Fern Hall drove into him, Snow, MacPherson and Overeen suffering only a severe shaking-up. The horses were not injured, except Elmer Dickson, which was driven by permission of the judges. After four heats the race went over until tomorrow, a different horse winning in each.

Savoy made a straight heat race of the 2:20 pace, unfinished yesterday, by winning the third heat from Peter Worthy, which took second money.

In the 2:21 class trot Ames Albingen, well driven by McDonald, won a straight victory over Judge Jones, piloted by "Pop" Geers.

In an effort to beat 2:10, his 1914 record, Peter Mack, a 5-year-old stallion by Peter the Great, out of Lillian R, 2:04 1-4, trotted in 2:03½. The horse was driven by his breeder and owner, Capt. David Shaw of Cleveland, O., who was given an ovation on his return to the stand.

Geers drove Etawah to beat 2:03, but succeeded only in tying the mark, it being the third mile he has trotted this season in 2:03.

Murphy drove Benville to beat 2:18 1-4, going the mile in 2:16.

JOE MANDOT WINS FIGHT.

BEATS ROCKEY KANSAS FROM BUFFALO.

Kansas has the Better of the First Half of the Fight but Tires Rapidly in the Last Five Rounds While Mandot Goes Through with a Great Finish.

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Oct. 6.—Popular verdict went to Joe Mandot of New Orleans tonight in his ten-round fight with Rockey Kansas of Buffalo.

The first five rounds went to Kansas, the next two were practically even, but from there on the battle belonged wholly to Mandot. In the eighth and ninth, especially, he gave Kansas a lacing and had him holding. Kansas probably only stayed in the tenth by grabbing Mandot around the neck and waist while the New Orleans boy tried to push him away. It was as much the sudden slowing up of Kansas as the hurricane rush of the southerner that gave him the big edge in closing sessions.

Kansas suddenly went leg weary and slow in the ninth and at once became a target for the slashing rights of the New Orleans boy. Mandot's blows were delivered in a semi-clinch and banged up Rockey's left ear and that side of his face.

Rockey fought like a champion in the early part of the bout, but could not last. He weighed 128½ and Mandot 133.

the name of the pitcher who will oppose Philadelphia in the opening game. Carrigan was quoted as saying that anything except straight baseball was usually barred in a world's series game as the two clubs would meet for the first time.

"I realize that we must face Grover Cleveland Alexander in the opening game Friday," said Carrigan, "and I also know just how wonderfully clever is the curve ball genius of the National League. It seems we must beat Alexander in that first game, and we have devised a means which we think will accomplish it. Should we beat Alexander in the opening game the rest will be a lot easier than I have figured. Outside of Alexander, I do not think any of the Philly pitchers compares with my men."

BATTLER NOT TO GET BOUT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—Battling Nelson can have a bout with Freddie Welsh, world's lightweight champion, if—and it's a big "if"—he will agree to the conditions imposed by Harry Pollock. The manager of Welsh, answering Nelson's wire offering Freddie $10,000 to sign up for a contest, indicated that he and not the Dane would make the terms.

"Nelson can have a match with Welsh for half the money Ritchie was paid," is the substance of his wire. "Welsh will fight twenty rounds for $13,000. He will sign for a thirty-round fight for $650 for each round over the twenty and a forty-five round fight for $1000 a round for all rounds over thirty. Also he will bet $10,000 that he can beat the Dane."

Which makes $34,500 Welsh would want as a guarantee for a forty-five round battle.

"That's a crazy idea," said Nelson here tonight. "Assuming that Welsh could stop me in a round, which isn't possible, wouldn't he let me stay the forty-five rounds just to get all the money?"

Nelson has wired Pollock in reply that such a proposition is out of the question.

However, Nelson still wants such a match to be staged at Juarez.

Newark is making elaborate preparations for holding the 1916 junior and senior track and field championships of the Amateur Athletic Union. The Decathlon and American Marathon, also possibly swimming and rowing events, as well as other athletic features will be a part of the celebratio nof the 250th anniversary of the settlement of the city. The ebents will be held next summer.

FOOTBALL GETS ANOTHER VICTIM.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY COLLIDES WITH COLLEGE MAN AND DIES.

POMONA COLLEGE JOINS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CLAREMONT, Oct. 6.—Pomona College has been elected to membership in the Association of Intercollegiate Alumni. This association now comprises some forty-five American institutions of learning, embracing most of the prominent coeducational colleges and universities of the country. As is the case with the honorary society of Phi Beta Kappa, which granted a chapter to Pomona two years ago, membership in the Association of Intercollegiate Alumni is based on a basis of high scholarship, so that Pomona considers herself greatly honored by the distinction of the election. Purdue, Trinity, Carleton and Ohio Wesleyan Union were the other four colleges elected with Pomona to membership at the biennial meeting of the association. Stanford and the University of California are already members, constituting with Pomona the entire California membership. In this respect the grouping is identical with that of Phi Beta Kappa, on which the same three California institutions have chapters.

SMALL INSECT DAMAGE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, Oct. 6.—Imperial county's freedom from pestiferous insects is shown in the annual report of Commissioner Waite to the State Horticultural Commissioner. To the questions asking damage done by a formidable list of parasites, Mr. Waite with only a few exceptions wrote "none." Slight damage was reported caused by orange thrips and grapeleaf hoppers, medium damage to dates by scale and the red spider, and severe damage to alfalfa and asparagus by grasshoppers.

FALLS IN WATER HOLE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 6.—Russell Hustis, the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hustis of East Central avenue, came near being drowned in a small puddle of water near the home yesterday afternoon. The little fellow was wading in the water when he stepped into a hole two feet wide and three feet deep. He went over his head in the water and had it not been for the lusty yells of his frightened brother and sister, would have drowned. Men working near rushed to the scene and pulled the boy out of the hole just in time.

AT THE STAGE DOOR

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Valeska Surratt will open her vaudeville season in this city next week, preceding it by an appearance in a picture for the Lasky company, according to report.

Secrets of the Ring.

Blanche Ring, star of "Nobody Home," is to do a burlesque of Frances Ring as the heroine of "Under Cover."

From Gasoline Alley.

The various rings of the Ring family have speeded up the automobile business since they invaded the city. Every known breed of machine is in the family. Blanche Ring has purchased a Fiat and a Stutz. Frances Ring owns a Packard, Mrs. Cecil Ring (Charlotte Greenwood,) has just bought a Chalmers; and of course, Charles Winninger runs a Ford.

Sweet Marie.

Marie Doro, the Broadway favorite, comes west this week to appear in pictures for the Triangle at the Griffith studio.

Miss Doro is one of New York's favorite actresses, having to her credit a notable success in "Oliver Twist," in which she played the name part with Nat Goodwin; "The Morals of Marcus," "The Butterfly on the Wheel" and others. She is one of the most beautiful women on the American stage.

Tonight's Jolly Affair.

The party which Blanche Ring is staging tonight for the "Nobody Home" company promises to be a delightful affair. Many motion-picture stars and newspaper people, as well as members of the company, will be present.

Prize Popularity.

"Under Cover" is in course of rehearsal at the Burbank, with Frances Ring in the leading role.

Miss Ring appeared in "The College Widow" in London last season, and she says that while there she received proof positive of her popularity, in the following manner: An English lady whom she met at a tea one afternoon, exclaimed: "Oh, Miss Ring, Lord Blank's funeral occurred today. I had an invitation, but I decided I'd rather come and meet you."

Scared, B'gosh.

Thomas Meighan, appearing in pictures for the Lasky company, as leading man with Edna Goodrich, says that once when he was playing "The College Widow" in an Indiana town one of the company fell sick and a local amateur actor was hastily subsidized to fill his place. When the performance came off the man got stage fright, and presently bolted. They tried to get him to go on.

"I-I-c-c-can't!" his teeth chattered. "I c-c-can't go on any more this act; b-b-but I'll t-t-ry to buck up for the next act!"

No Longer "Films."

Frank Darien, late of the Fine Arts film studio, and formerly leading juvenile at the Alcazar and Liberty theaters, has been engaged to play the Courtleigh role of Monty Vaughn in "Under Cover."

Darien gives evidences at rehearsals of keeping close to the quick Courtleigh pace.

Realism Note.

Evelyn Vaughn, wife of Bert Lytell, who has been appearing at the Alcazar in San Francisco, yesterday underwent an operation for appendicitis. Miss Vaughn has scores of friends in this city.

Helen and Ida.

Helen Eddy, a member of the Morosco Photoplay Company, will play the ingenue role in "Under Cover," and Ida St. Leon has the part of the young sister who steals for the purpose of paying her gambling debts.

Eddie's Gum Shoes.

Edmund Lowe has the part of the secret service man in "Under Cover," the leading massuline role opposite Miss Ring.

Eddie says when he was a kid living in San Jose he and the boy next door used to devour detective stories, and long for a career as the man with the cold gray eye and the gum shoes.

New Noise on Rialto.

The Brooks Theater, on Grand avenue, near Seventh street, announces its opening for next Saturday night. Big feature films will be run, the first of which will be Theda Bara in "The Two Orphans."

Good-by, Charlie.

Charlie Pike left for the East yesterday and will visit Marc Klaw, the theatrical magnate, at his home in Krafts, N. Y.

Gracie's New One.

Grace Travers will play the part of the smart young society woman at whose home all the excitement occurs in "Under Cover." It is a delightful role, and one which should fit Miss Travers's talents to perfection.

David and Goliath.

David Butler has the comedy role of the burly customs inspector in "Under Cover." It is a short but "fat" part, with some of the cleverest lines in the piece.

Welcome, Harry.

H. S. Duffield has recovered from a recent operation and will return to the Burbank stage within a few weeks.

Hector's Brain Throbs.

Edna Goodrich and Thomas Meighan have just finished their picture, "Armstrong's Wife," for the Lasky company, and will start work next week on a photoplay by Hector Turnbull, dealing with the somewhat abstract question as to whether a woman teacher who marries should be permitted to go on teaching, this being against the law in some States. Mr. Turnbull is said to have molded the theme into a strong photodrama.

Kissed 'em Good-by.

Marjorie Rambeau visited back stage at the Burbank last night and bade everybody good-by. It is related that even John Ivan forgot he was a theatrical manager and broke down and wept.

Sob Stuff.

The Hippodrome matinee audience yesterday witnessed a touching scene when Mrs. Leroy, mother of Vic Leroy of the team of Leroy and Cahill, was brought into the theater in a wheel chair, to watch her boy act. Mrs. Leroy is a confirmed invalid, very seldom leaving her home, but she insisted on seeing Vic despite the fact that she was almost taking her life in her hands to do it.

Youth and vivaciousness.

Both Winnie Baldwin and Mae Marsh, who are being seen, respectively, at the Morosco Theater and Clune's Auditorium this week, have their full share of these attributes. The former's vivacity is softly shaded and of perhaps a more demure order, while the latter's is limpid and sparkling. It looks as if the reverse might be true in the case of these two pictures, but you can see the lurking twinkle in Mae Marsh's eyes, if you look closely, and the soft light in those of Miss Baldwin.

MICHIGAN OPENS FOOTBALL SEASON.

DEFEATS LAWRENCE COLLEGE ELEVEN IN A RAGGED GAME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANN ARBOR (Mich.) Oct. 6.—Michigan opened its football season today by defeating Lawrence College of Appleton, Wis., 39 to 0, in a ragged game. The Wolverines lacked aggressiveness, and poor blocking offense cost them several touchdowns. Lawrence never threatened seriously to score.

The Women's Junior College Union of Missouri will hold a track meet, the first Missouri conference meet for women, at Columbia, Mo., next spring. Basketball and tennis tourneys will also be played next year.

CLASSES WILL DECIDE TITLE.

Believing that football was not made for the few but for all college and high school athletes who desire to play the great American game, some of the high schools of the city have inaugurated a series of games for the class championships, with a post-season game to decide which class in the city has the best team.

Hollywood High School has arranged a schedule which is to begin Monday, October 18. The eliminating games will be played until the class championship is decided. Then a school championship game will be played with Los Angeles High, the best class team of each school participating. These games will be independent of the regular interscholastic championship contests between the big teams.

Oaks Best Angels.

both Pa and Rowdy were in charge of their respective teams. And Portland, although forced out of the league, is still in it. Baseball, always hard to figure, is daily becoming more complex.

HI WEST.

HI West went in where Brant went out. One of the pinch-hitters replaced HI. This paved the way for Oscar to pitch the last inning, and he did so, as per programme. Metzger also played the last inning at third base. And to think that Oscar and George should be in the game after having been unconditionally released so many times during the past few weeks.

FRANZ AGAIN.

Franz Hosp, a shortstop secured from Wichita, was in that position for the Oaklets. He wore a red undershirt, similar to the kind which are considered very recherche in the exclusive corn-husking circles of Kansas and Nebraska. In this way he was able to equal Zeb's luster. Hosp certainly looked good, and with the experience picked up in the next three weeks and two or three extra red undershirts, should be able to hold down the job regularly next season.

Other new talent flashed on an expectant public by Rowdy was Stow at second and Duddy at third. One is from Texas and the other from Arizona. Stow is a flossy fielder, while Duddy has been running mainly to base hits since arriving on the Coast. Each figured prominently in the seventh inning offensive with a gallant base hit. In fact, it is a question whether Oakland would have won without them and Maggert.

FIRST RUN.

Oakland tore off its first run in the second. J. Clout Ness walked, with one out. Harper tossed him out trying to go from first to third on Gardner's single to right. Rube went down to second on the throw, and counted on Kuhn's safety to left.

Brant worked his way out of some trouble in the sixth, only to be overtaken by a great sorrow in the seventh. Gardner opened this juicy inning with a regular single. Kuhn walked. Brant accidentally hit Duddy in the stomach with an inshoot. He was not allowed to take first. Finney figured that any guy from Arizona should have a sunbaked stomach as hard as a slab of cement, and that he could not have been injured by the blow. Duddy proved that his stomach hadn't been cracked or otherwise injured by singling to right, the same filling the bases. Pruiett popped to McMullen.

A CRISIS.

Then came the crisis. Stow singled to center. Maggert galloped in and grabbed at the pill. His grabbing was not up to par, and the tricky sphere rolled almost to the fence. While Mag was engaged in running the ball to death the three men on bases scored with Stow bringing up the rear. West then went in and retired the side.

Ellis, leading off in the ninth, sought to bust the goose egg with a hard drive near the right field line. Gardner galloped over and wrapped his glove around the ball in a manner that can't be adequately described. Tris Speaker should have a care. Rube may yet get his job. Seriously, it was one of the greatest catches ever seen at the local yard. Koerner grounded out, and Harper walked. Harper started out to steal second. Hosp and Stow seemed willing that he should for neither lifted a foot to cover the bag. Kuhn fired away just the same and Harper came clear home. The teams will play two games this afternoon. This will be the last double-header prior to the world series.

Aha!

LEAVITT GIVES AN INTERVIEW.

Tells Exactly What He will not Do.

Will Keep Club and also R. Elliott.

Franz Hosp may be Regular Shortstop.

Frank Leavitt, president of the Oakland club, accompanied the athletes south, and will be here for the better part of the week.

Leavitt gave out a negative interview. That is, he partly or wholly denied a lot of reports that have been floating around regarding the Oakland club and its future fate. Having begun denying these things in Portland and denied them all the way down the coast, he was in pretty good condition.

The people along the line heard that Leavitt was coming, and when the train stopped to take on water he could be compelled to get out on the rear platform and tell the citizens what he didn't intend to do.

"It is not true that I have decided to sell the Oakland club," said Mr. Leavitt without referring to his notes. "Anything that I have, except my family, is for sale if I am offered enough. I have no intention of selling, but it might not be safe for anybody to offer me a fancy price. In reality, I am hardly started. Frankly, I would like to remain in the game until I win a pennant.

"It is equally untrue that Del Howard has ever been considered as manager of the Oaks. During the past two years, everybody from Chance to McGraw has been suggested, but never has Howard's name been mentioned. I have not seen him since he quit the Seals, and it was my understanding that he had retired from baseball for good.

"Regarding the management of the club for next season, I myself cannot say who the man will be. As far as I know now, Elliott will be the man. He encountered a lot of tough luck, but seems to have the club going good now. In fact, it is doubtful whether anyone could do better than he is. Of course, there may be a change, but none is contemplated or definitely outlined."

Leavitt says that Hosp's work has been of such a high order that Franz probably will have first call on the job next season.

WOMEN SUFFER GREAT AGONIES.

Noted Missionaries Injured in La Jolla Wreck.

Keep Accident Secret Until Pain Forces Speech.

Retired Farmer Killed in Pasadena Ditch.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Oct. 7.—Although in great physical and mental agony as the result of an automobile accident, near La Jolla, in which she and her friend, Dr. Mary Stone (Dr. Shin Keiyu,) principal of the Kiu-kiang Hospital in China, were seriously injured, Miss Jennie V. Hughes, head of the Woman's Training School in Kiu-kiang, kept the news secret for a week for fear the shock would kill her mother, Mrs. Abbey Hughes of No. 285 Topeka street, who is critically ill.

It was not until after the news had mysteriously reached her mother that Miss Hughes and Dr. Stone were brought home yesterday, Miss Hughes suffering from a terribly bruised and crushed side, several ribs being broken. Dr. Stone is bruised about the body and inflammation of the bone has set in in her left leg.

The accident occurred at Hairpin curve when the machine in which they were coasting down the steep grade collided with a big touring car in which the front wheels of both automobiles were torn off. The machines were almost completely demolished and the impact was so violent that Miss Hughes was hurled nearly thirty feet into the air, rolling back under the machine which came near crushing her to death.

Although painfully injured herself, Dr. Stone managed to fill her appointment at the Methodist Conference in San Diego as well as to speak for Miss Hughes, who was to have delivered the address.

It was later that Dr. Stone's injuries began to cause her so much pain. After an X-ray examination yesterday, her physician said that inflammation of the bone had set in of such a nature that she could not hope to leave her bed for more than a month. Miss Hughes will be fortunate if she is up in six weeks, the doctor said.

As a result of her misfortune, Dr. Stone was forced to cancel numerous speaking engagements, including one in San Francisco yesterday, Oakland today, then Salem, Or. She was to have delivered an address before the International convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in session in Seattle from October 11 to 17, inclusive. She also canceled her speaking engagements before the national convention of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society at Butte, Mont., October 15 to 17.

Dr. Stone was born in 1873 of parents who were among the first Christian converts in China. She was the first native Chinese girl allowed to grow up with natural feet. She was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1896 when she was just 23 years old. She is now the only educated doctor of a big hospital in Central China, which takes care of 1000 persons. She will go East late in the fall to try to raise $10,000 for a training school for nurses in Kiu-kiang.

DIES IN DITCH.

While starting out for his first stroll among the orange orchards of Pasadena last night, Fred Korneman, a wealthy retired farmer of Crosby, Iowa, who was visiting at the home of Mrs. Neth of No. 22 South Allen place, fell into a twelve-foot storm ditch near by and was killed instantly when his head struck the cement bottom.

The body was discovered late last night. His watch had stopped at the hour when the accident is supposed to have occurred.

Mr. Korneman was a bachelor and had just leased his big farm in Missouri to his brother before coming to Pasadena for recreation and to see the sights.

Later he started out for the walk he did not know of the Allen-avenue ditch in which he met his death. Officers Shelton, Kaigan and Lewis took charge of the body to the undertaking parlors of Turner and Stevens.

SLAVIN WEDDING.

The wedding of Matthew Slavin of North Marengo avenue and Miss Viola Fleischer of Portland, Or., last night at the residence of the bride's parents, was a notable event, both in social and Pasadena society. It was the culmination of a pretty romance begun when the couple met several years ago in Washington, where Miss Barenstecher was a schoolmate of the groom's sister, Mrs. Herbert Wood, formerly Miss Sara Slavin, at Central Park Seminary.

Mr. Matthew Slavin, Sr., and her daughter, Miss Edith Slavin, went East to attend the nuptials. Miss Lillian Morgan of Portland was maid of honor and Nathen Meers of Pasadena was best man for Mr. Slavin as best man.

CLEAN-UP DAY IN SEWER CLAY.

LONG BEACH PLANS TO SETTLE MATERIAL DISPUTE.

City Commissioners will Listen to Charges and Protests Arising Out of Municipal Contracts—Rumors of Munitions Plant Hint at Secret Plans—Long Aeroplane Flight.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Oct. 6.—City Commissioners have at last set a date on which an official hearing will be held to settle the rumors, charges, counter-charges, protests, counter-protests and withdrawals that have been made in reference to the use of clay or cement pipe in the construction of the city's outfall sewer system.

Tuesday, October 12, is the day on which the atmosphere is expected to be cleared of the charges that have been hurled at city officials and members of sewer contracting companies by citizens and contractors.

Featured by expensive half-page "authorized announcements" and advertisements in the local newspapers, champions of both the clay and cement lateral pipe connections have been waging a bitter fight against each other for six weeks.

The City Commissioners, in setting the date on which the hearing is to be held, this afternoon, also instructed the members of the Los Angeles firm of sanitary sewer engineers, Olmsted & Gillelen, who drew the plans for the outfall sewer system, and who are alleged to have drawn up the specifications concerning the lateral pipe connections as to bar clay from the bidding, to appear at the investigation.

All public officials, including the heads of the public works and engineering departments and A. N. Milner, the city's chief engineer of sewer construction, have been ordered to be present at the hearing to settle once and for all the clay or cement pipe question.

MYSTERY PLANT.

Rumor built "a munitions of war" plant on the local harbor in the short space of an afternoon today, following someone's idea that 35 per cent. of powder is potash. Shrouded in mystery, like all self-respecting munitions of war plants should be, no names could be learned of the alleged projectors.

However, George Simmons, vice-president of the Simmons Hardware Company of St. Louis, who is known to have visited in this city, was darkly hinted at as being interested in the deal, which involves the reported changing of hands of the American Potash Company of this city.

Accompanying the report that Long Beach would soon boast of a shrapnel establishment was the rumor that a high board fence would immediately be built around the site of the present potash plant to keep out spies, invading armies and others who might interrupt the busy bullet brokers. Thus far, however, the deal has progressed no farther than to be surrounded with mystery and a high board fence.

AEROPLANE FLIGHT.

Winging his way at a height of from 4000 to 5000 feet from San Diego to Long Beach, Lieut. E. L. Canady of the United States Aviation School at San Diego arrived here this afternoon after covering the distance, ninety miles as the crow flies, in the fast time of ninety minutes, flat.

The flight was part of a test prescribed by the school. After spending an hour in Long Beach the aviator soared into the heavens and disappeared in the direction of Santa Ana.

TRAMP WEARING SHOES OF DEAD.

POMONA, Oct. 6.—A tramp, who was prowling around the rear of an undertaking establishment today, took a pair of shoes that belonged to a dead man. As a consequence Gilromo Vasques, a Mexican section hand, lies in his grave at peace while his shoes go on walking the railroad track.

Vasques took a handcar from the Spadra section-house Saturday night, came here, bought a new pair of shoes and was killed by a locomotive while wearing the shoes home. Both his legs were cut off. The undertaker buried him without the new shoes.

A tramp hooked on to the shoes that caused the death of Vasques. He was traced to a local shoe shop, where he borrowed a needle to stitch up a gash the locomotive cut in one of the tops. The shoemaker says the tramp wore no socks.

SPALDING HEIR GIVES REASONS.

Family Tradition Moves Son to Contest Will.

Widow Made Administratrix Without Objection.

Business Before Spalding's Second Marriage.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 6.—Mrs. A. G. Spalding was appointed special administratrix for the estate of A. G. Spalding in the Superior Court today by Judge Guy, pending the contest of the will begun by Keith Spalding, which may continue for a period of six months. Her bond was fixed at $50,000.

Although it was anticipated that there might be a spirited contest in court today at the hearing, as both sides had asked for a special administrator, the first step in the big legal fight was settled peaceably, as attorneys for Keith Spalding stated they had no objection to the appointment of Mrs. Spalding.

The next act in the contest will be the filing of a demurrer to the contest by attorneys for Mrs. Spalding.

Mrs. Spalding testified that the estate does not exceed in value $1,000,000. She said the principal asset was 8000 shares of stock in the Spalding Bros. Sporting Goods Company, valued at $800,000. There is about $4000 in local banks. There is also stock in the Sperry Flour Company.

Mrs. Spalding said that there was $125,000 owing to her husband by the Spalding Bros. Co., which had been borrowed from him.

Regarding the death of her husband the widow spoke with difficulty, being overcome with grief. She said he had died at 9 o'clock on September 9. That she, Dr. Lorin F. Wood of Point Loma and a valet were in the room at the time of his death. John J. Barrett of San Francisco, attorney for Keith Spalding, examined the witness.

Mrs. Katherine Tingley was in the courtroom accompanied by Mrs. Ethelind Dunn of the Raga Rosa College. Keith Spalding did not attend the proceedings.

MOTHER SPARED NEWS.

That the chagrin and mortification which his grandmother, the aged mother of A. G. Spalding, would feel if she learned of his father's practically disinheriting him in his will would kill her, is the statement made by Keith Spalding.

"For this reason," Mr. Spalding said, "it has been agreed in the family to hide that fact from my grandmother until, through court proceedings, we shall be able to undo this wicked scheme. All that we have told my grandmother up to this time is that her son, Albert, left a fair and just will."

Speaking of the matter young Spalding, who is here with his wife at the Coronado Hotel, said he was averse to discussing the case, as it was bad enough to bring out the delicate matters relating to the latter years of his father's life and death even in court. He stated that he was acting in behalf of the entire Spalding family. Speaking of the intention of his father and his grandmother to make him the successor of his father in his business, he said that the bulk of the fortune had been acquired by his father during the lifetime of his own mother, now dead.

"This fact appeared in court this morning by the testimony of my stepmother when she said that substantially nine-tenths of the estate of my father consists of stock in A. G. Spalding & Brothers. The stock books of the company show at a glance that that stock is the identical stock which my father acquired in that company during the lifetime of my deceased mother and long before his marriage to Elizabeth Churchill Mayer, his second wife, who now claims it all. Since my father's marriage to her he has added nothing to his fortune but has suffered considerable serious losses."

FAMILY TRADITION.

He continued that the stock had a peculiar value to the Spalding family not only because of good dividends but because of family tradition and that he was to get the bulk of the stock on his father's death and to succeed him in that company, was well known and recognized by all the Spalding family for many years.

His grandmother, to whom he refers, is now 95 years of age and is living in Orange, N. J. His father always referred to her, Keith said, as "the real founder of the Spalding Brothers."

Speaking of the fact that none of the Spalding relatives from a distance were at the funeral, young Spalding said:

"Word of my father's death could easily have reached every member of our family within a couple of hours and every one of us would, as a matter of course, have hastened out here to see the body and attend the obsequies. He was idolized by everyone of the family. In the face of that situation the first and only word we received was contained in a telegram from my stepmother announcing that my father's funeral would take place within forty-one hours after his death and this telegram, instead of being sent direct to any of the family, was sent to a business office of the company where it was delayed twelve hours."

That Mrs. Tingley took control of the body, arranged for the undertaker and directed every detail of the funeral and herself preached the funeral sermon, was stated by Mr. Spalding.

A few days at Arrowhead will give you renewed strength and energy.—[Advertisement.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Oct. 6.—Local officers believe that they are on the trail of the meanest person in the world. James F. Barlow, a local grocer, died suddenly Tuesday forenoon after drinking a glass of buttermilk. Undertaker M. H. Hanson was called to conduct the funeral. He hung a $7 cluster of black crepe on the door.

Tuesday night somebody, without the fear of God in his heart, went to the door of death and stole the cluster of crepe therefrom, and now the police are trying to track him to his abode.

WILL CONTEST COMPROMISED.

SAN BERNARDINO ATTORNEY IS SATISFIED WITH SHARE OF ESTATE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Oct. 5.—By a settlement out of court, the contest over the will of Mrs. Mary J. Neill is at an end. The will is set aside and an outline of the division of the $65,000 estate has been recorded.

When Mrs. Neill, a pioneer, died, three wills were produced. The last was brought forward by Attorney John Brown, Jr., of San Bernardino, under which the bulk of the estate would have gone to Mr. Brown and $1000 to D. N. Kelly of Santa Ana. Other bequests were made. Walter Neill of Santa Ana, Mrs. Lillie Kiefhaber, Mrs. Ida Beaisley and Miss May Neill, all of Los Angeles, son and daughters of Mrs. Neill, were willed $10 apiece. They entered a contest of the will on the ground that undue influence had been used to prejudice their mother against them. Other relatives, including F. M. and F. L. Stennett, brothers of Mrs. Neill, entered into the negotiations.

Under documents recorded Brown ern relatives of Mrs. Neill $1000, and the remainder is to be divided up, half to the children and half to the brothers. Business property in Santa Ana worth $20,000 is concerned.

San Gabriel Valley Associated Chamber of Commerce Talks Over County Board Election.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ARCADIA, Oct. 6.—Eighty members of the San Gabriel Valley Associated Chambers of Commerce took dinner last night, served by the members of the Co-operative Arcadians, the local woman's club.

President H. J. Evans of Monrovia and Mayor C. A. Billings exchanged official felicitations. Supervisor J. J. Hamilton was chief speaker of the evening.

As the meeting was primarily in the interest of discussing the coming $2,800,000 county road bond election, Mr. Hamilton spoke at length upon the proposed issue, and outlined the benefits to be derived from all citizens of the county from its passage. Good roads, according to the speaker, are Southern California's best investment, and money judiciously spent in this direction comes back many fold.

A dozen speakers followed, discussing the bonds from as many angles, and all universally and enthusiastically indorsing the proposed issue.

The next meeting will be held in Whittier the first Tuesday in November.

LONG-LOST SON FOUND AT LAST.

SIX YEARS AGO HE LEFT HOME AT FULLERTON AND IS JUST LOCATED.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

FULLERTON, Oct. 6.—Ben Kenney, son of City Recorder Kenney of Fullerton, has been missing for more than six years. All this time the city judge has been advertising in the papers to learn where he was. Days lengthened into years and yet the boy was not heard from, nor did anyone seem to have known him. Advertisements and personals in the newspapers brought no response.

But this morning, when Judge Kenney went to the postoffice, without thought that anything unusual was at the point of happening, he opened his box and took out a letter from his long-lost son. It was postmarked "Terminal Island, Cal.," where the boy holds a good position. In the letter Ben said that he had written to his father a number of times, but had received no reply. The father never received the letters.

The judge was completely overcome for the time, but as soon as he could regain self-control he started in his car for Terminal Island, and the reunion of father and son will no doubt be a joyous one.

FOURTEEN MILES OF ROAD LAID.

BLYTHE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CELEBRATES WITH BANQUET.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BLYTHE, Oct. 6.—Palo Verde Valley is this week celebrating the completion of the first fourteen-mile unit of railroad that is to connect it with the Santa Fe at Blythe Junction, a total distance of forty miles.

Representatives of the Blythe Chamber of Commerce and the Boosters' Club made a trip of inspection to the new road and as guests of the California Southern Railroad officials held a banquet at Blythe Junction in honor of the occasion.

First freight was shipped over the new railroad this week when two carloads of hogs arrived, consigned to C. J. Rihn, a large landowner in the valley. An unofficial announcement has been made of a new through rate over the completed portion of the railroad which will save shippers in this valley many thousands of dollars.

Blasting operations are to start next week at the summit grade which must be crossed by the railroad and the builders of the road have given assurance that it will be completed into Blythe before next summer.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A PURE WHITE MINERAL OIL

Why Your Doctor Prescribes Nujol for Constipation

LAXATIVES can very easily do a great deal of harm.

Nujol can do no harm, because it is not absorbed into the system, but acts simply as a mechanical lubricant.

Laxatives give only a temporary relief, and by their after-effects aggravate the very condition they are meant to cure.

Nujol is odorless and tasteless, absolutely neutral, and is not digested or absorbed into the system. It acts merely as a mechanical lubricant.

Nujol is not a drug. Its use will not give quick, temporary relief. But Nujol is a genuine remedy in that it relieves constipation in the most natural way by lubricating the lining of the intestines, softening the intestinal contents, and thus promoting healthy and normal bowel activity.

Write for "The Rational Treatment of Constipation," an informative treatise on constipation. If you cannot get Nujol from your druggist, we will send a pint bottle prepaid to any point in the United States on receipt of 75c—money order or stamps.

WAR STOCKS TAKE A DROP.

POLICY OF CONSERVATISM IN SPECULATION A FACTOR.

Nearly the Whole List is Sold Lower, Most of the Business Coming from the West—Bethlehem Steel is One Exception, and Rises Ten Points.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Several important factors contributed substantially to the crumbling of quoted values today, chief among these being the policy of conservatism adopted by the stock exchange against further reckless trading in the war shares. Liquidation of the war issues attained proportions fully as large as the buying which attended the recent rise. Enforced selling was supplemented by numerous bear attacks. By their irregular opening quotations stocks gave promise of what was to follow. During the morning attempts were made to bolster the list by infusing strength into railway shares. These efforts proved abortive, because of the ease with which specialties yielded under persistent pressure. Weakness was most pronounced at midday and in the final hour. It was significant of the speculative situation as a whole that much of today's liquidation came from commission or "wire" houses, particularly those having western connections. Rallies of 1 to 5 points were recorded just before the close, but the market's undertone continued feverishly weak. Such isolated stocks as New Haven and Inspiration Copper were among the few features of strength. Total sales of 1,560,400 shares compared with the most active sessions of the previous week. Bond prices were on an ascending scale. Among the extreme losses of the session were Crucible Steel down 16¼ to 79¾, Baldwin Locomotive 12 to 102, General Motors 10 to 340, Westinghouse 7 to 125, American car 6 to 76½, Air Brake 6¼ to 145¾, Colorado Fuel 6 to 50½ and Continental Can 5¼ to 117½. Bethlehem Steel was a shining exception to others of its class, rising to the new high record of 401 and closing at that figure, a net gain of 10¾ points. The preferred stock lost 9 points. Bonds followed the course of stocks, but copper convertible issues were again strong. Total sales, par value, aggregated $4,425,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

JUDGE IN ROLE OF A SOLOMON.

UNUSUAL METHOD IN DISPOSING OF JEWELRY.

Dispute Over Value Settled by Giving Contending Party Who Offered Least Chance to Bid in Auction, and His Small Increase Fails Him.

A decision made by Judge Rives in the Probate Court yesterday smacked of Solomon. It grew out of a dispute over the value of jewelry belonging to the estate of the late Mrs. Gussie Gold.

The scene was animated as the interested parties assembled in the courtroom and kept Bailiff Lancaster busy wielding his gavel. The jewelry appeared to have been sold to A. Rack for $1040 by the administrator of the estate yesterday, under the order of Judge Rives.

Subsequently it seems the administrator was told the jewelry had been bought by B. Forer for $1050. The administrator asked that the $1040 sale be approved by the court. Mr. Rack joined in this request. Mr. Forer and his attorney insisted that the $1050 sale be accepted. Friends of both factions joined in the tumult.

Judge Rives ordered a recess taken, asking the disputants to come into court prepared to bid on the jewelry at an auction he would conduct.

On his return he announced the person with the longest sack would get the brilliants.

Someone shouted out an offer of $1075. There was a surprised silence with no other bidders.

"Sold," announced the court-auctioneer. The $1075 bidder looked pleased. "To the man who offered $1050," the judge added. The pleased look faded. When an objection was registered the court explained the rule that no bid could be considered less than 10 per cent. higher than the previous best bid. The court surmised the man who obtained the jewelry was entitled to it.

NOT WINE COMPANY'S.
MOOTED PREMISES SUBLET.

In connection with the redlight abatement law housecleaning by Judge Wellborn Tuesday, James L. Vai, proprietor of the North Cucamonga Winery, named in one of the suits, was able to show Deputy District-Attorney McCartney that the property at No. 27 Olivera street does not belong to his company, which operates the oldest winery in Los Angeles and confines its attention entirely to the manufacture of wines and liquors. The premises objected to are included in a blanket lease by the company and are sublet to other tenants. This let the winery out of it. The buildings where the wine making is conducted were, of course, never included in the order of the court ejecting the tenants of the objectionable places, the latter being some distance from the wine plant. Under the redlight law the word "closing" means only that premises are closed to improper purposes—not that they may not be used for anything. The other cases were continued to November 4.

WIFE PLAYS DETECTIVE.
AND IS GRANTED DIVORCE.

Mrs. Mae W. Hobbs discovered, she said, that the trysting place of her husband, Ira S. Hobbs, was his barber shop. She testified in her divorce suit yesterday that she found Mr. Hobbs and a woman in the shop, which was unlighted, and asked the woman what she was doing there.

"I seized her by the shoulders," she declared, "and shook her," she stammered.

Mrs. Hobbs's sister accompanied her.

After they had separated and Mr. Hobbs was visiting her sister, at whose home Mrs. Hobbs was staying, the wife said, she saw a letter sticking out of Mr. Hobbs's overcoat pocket, and she appropriated it. A missive declared the same was offered in evidence yesterday.

It is dated March, 1910, addressed to "Dearest Ira," and says:

"I don't think you are treating me right. You told me you had applied for a divorce. It's not true; you have lied to me. All the time you are running around with another woman. You may think you are fooling me, but you are not. I have always loved you and have been true to you. Now, sweetheart, if you love me as you say you do, you will get a divorce. You have used up the last eight months with me, and I have been loving a married man. Hope you will get a divorce and make things right. See you at 9 o'clock—old meeting place."

This letter was signed "Nell M.," which Mrs. Hobbs said stands for Nellie Morrison. Mrs. Hobbs was represented by Attorney Neighbours, who obtained a decree on the ground of failure to provide. Misconduct and extreme cruelty were also alleged.

WOODEN LEG SNAPS.
BUT OWNER WINS CASE.

Judge Wellborn called the suit of the Fletcher Collection Agency against the Hotel Pepper and George W. Henderson, on appeal from the justice's court at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. No one appeared for the defendants and the judgment of the lower court, $60, was sustained.

Shortly after 10 o'clock Gordon G. Hair hurried into the courtroom and asked:

"How does the case go against the Hotel Pepper?"

"Why, the court gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff," he replied.

Mr. Hair was much perturbed. He wanted to know if the case could not be reopened. He was told it was an appeal case, the defendants had not appeared, and the court had disposed of it.

"I was told 10 o'clock was the usual time court opened," replied Mr. Hair. "But I met with an accident—I broke my leg—that is, my artificial limb, and had to have it fixed up and I was late."

"Who was your attorney?"

"Why, Lawyer Cook."

"He represented the plaintiff," exclaimed Clerk Ekdale. "It was your claim, eh?"

"Yes, I assigned it."

"You win, then," concluded Mr. Ekdale.

"I am a dub, that's all," confessed Mr. Hair, now all smiles. "Thank you for your trouble."

"Oh, that's all right," said Mr. Ekdale.

SPRING AND AUTUMN

James Marion Smith, 57, married Nora Smith, 17 years old, and the marriage was not happy. Mr. Smith sought the divorce court yesterday, charging his bride with deserting him less than two months after the wedding. He also complained she was too fond of the company of youths.

Mrs. Smith retaliated by saying Mr. Smith was mean to her. She declared he made her do the cooking, and would not let her go out, even to her mother's house.

May Mitchell testified Mrs. Smith had told her of an automobile and a maid her husband was going to provide her. This may or may not have induced her to accept the elderly admirer. At any rate the court ascertained that Mrs. Smith's mother consented to the marriage and was present at the ceremony.

Judge Monroe granted the decree to Mr. Smith, but hinted it was to Mrs. Smith more than to her husband, since she is very young and he elderly, and he should have selected a mate better equipped in years.

CRUEL LETTER.
"KEEP LOVE," HE WRITES.

It was apparently a cold, cruel letter John E. Woods wrote his wife, Pearl C. Woods, in February, 1913. It was particularly cruel in view of the fact, she alleged in her divorce action yesterday, that he sent her to Los Angeles for the benefit of her health.

He wrote her he was through with her, and advised:

"You had better save all of your love and kisses as I don't intend to live with you any more. I have two letters which will give me a divorce any time. If you do come back, you will only find life too short."

Judge Monroe questioned Mrs. Woods about the letters hinted at by her husband.

"They were written by an old friend of mine. I had known him for years. There is nothing to them at all," she declared.

"How did he get hold of them?" persisted the court.

"He went to the postoffice and got them."

Because Mr. Woods had sent her only $50, which was money she had earned before Mr. Woods left her, the decree was granted. Mr. Woods is a government line rider in Montana, where the couple were married.

WEDS TO FORGET.
NOW PREFERS MEMORIES.

Being lonely after the death of her husband Mrs. Mary L. Fisher found William F. Fisher a likeable man, and when he proposed she accepted him. She had some money and she said Mr. Fisher would not work. The burden of supporting him was upon her, she declared in her divorce suit yesterday.

"Why did you marry him?" she was asked.

"I thought it would help to make me forget the loss of my first husband," she replied.

Florence Kelly, a daughter by the former marriage, testified that her stepfather did not love her mother. The decree was granted.

INS AND OUTS ABOUT THE COURTS.

TO SETTLE ESTATE. The late Jason N. Russell left an estate valued at $40,079.88, but because he made no will, a petition for letters of administration was filed in the Probate Court yesterday by his widow, Mrs. Margaret E. Russell, No. 787 East Fourteenth street. The real property is appraised at $23,850 and personal property at $6229.88. The heirs are the widow and children, the latter being Ethel E. Smith, Rolfe, Iowa; Mary A. Crummer, Brawley; Irene Cole, Upland; Lewis F. Russell, Callpatria, and John H. and Hugh Russell of this city.

SINGER WINS DIVORCE. Frank W. Egan's desertion of Julia M. Egan was the means of the petite young wife making use of her voice and earning her own living as a cabaret singer. She was married at Helena, Mont., in 1913. One day in Los Angeles Mr. Egan, she told in her divorce proceedings yesterday, packed his things and said he would not return that night. His explanation was he wanted to be nearer his work. She was granted a decree on the ground of desertion, and the custody of her child.

WIFE WINS SUIT. Howard H. Rhoads, a member of the city fire department, contested the divorce suit of Mrs. Ethel Rhoads, and filed a cross-complaint, charging her with misconduct. Mrs. Rhoads alleged desertion. The action was tried by Judge Taft, who granted Mrs. Rhoads the decree, the custody of the children and $30 a month for their support.

Giesebell, capital stock $5000, subscribed $2000; The Educational and Industrial Company, incorporators John Pflieging, Hannah Binnington and Tracie J. Fisher, no capital stock.

HOLD ON CHECK CHARGE.

Charged with forging the name of H. J. Miller of No. 319 South Spring street to a small check, W. A. Small was arraigned before Justice Hinshaw yesterday and held under $1000 bond for his preliminary examination. The complaint was issued at the instance of P. E. Woods.

TO FACE FORGERY CHARGE.

Fred Jackson, alias Jack Reynolds, who was arrested Tuesday on a charge of forgery, was arraigned yesterday before Justice Palmer, who fixed his bail at $1000 and held him to answer to the Superior Court. Jackson was arrested on a transcontinental train in company with his wife and their four children. The warrant was issued in San Diego, the complainant being S. Nitta, a fruit merchant. The prisoner is said to have been preparing for a trip East when apprehended.

TROUBLES PILE UP.

Ranchman Comes to Court to Answer Shooting Charge—Arrested for Contempt of Court.

The troubles of R. R. Sloan, a ranchman of Castaic Canyon, are multiplying. When he entered the courtroom of Justice Palmer yesterday morning for his preliminary hearing on a charge of shooting J. A. Cauffman, 18 years old, stepson of Mrs. Stein, he was arrested on a warrant charging contempt of court.

Sloan was released on his own recognizance last July when he appeared before Justice Brown on a charge of passing a worthless check. He failed to return and the bench warrant was issued.

Justice Palmer fined him $5 and continued the hearing on the shooting charge.

JUDGES BLAMED FOR LENIENCY.

COUNCIL ASKS SUPPORT IN CURBING SPEEDERS.

Request for Additional Motor Police Brings Criticism of Courts for Letting Speeders go Free and Judges will be Asked to Assist in Campaign.

Discussion of the Council Finance Committee's plan for establishing a rock pile for automobile speeders was renewed in the Council yesterday when Chief of Police Snively's request for twenty-five more "speed cops" was received.

"What is the use of providing more speed cops when only yesterday forty speeders appeared in Police Court and thirty-nine were released without penalty?" asked Councilman Conwell.

President Betkouski also commented on conditions which he said are such that the elimination of the speeding evil lies more with the police judges than with the police.

The Chief's request was finally referred to the Finance Committee. Chairman Wheeler said last night that he believes the present ordinances governing automobile traffic are ample to cope with the situation if the Council can obtain co-operation from the courts.

"Either the Finance Committee or the Council will address a letter to the police judges, asking them to co-operate with the Council in our efforts to abate the evils of speeding," said Councilman Wheeler. "The Council believes that public sentiment is behind this movement and it is simply a question of getting support in the enforcement of the ordinances. It is evident that the police judges are inclined to be lenient, to say the least, but we hope to get their co-operation in this matter."

Mayor Sebastian said he believes the police judges will not be disposed to hamper the movement for proper control of automobile speeding, and, with other members of the Police Commission, he has assured the Council that he will support the campaign that is designed to put the fear of the law in the hearts of reckless automobile drivers.

TRUCE DECLARED.
RED TAPE AIDS PEACE.

An armistice was declared yesterday between the Board of Public Works and the Efficiency Commission whereby when the commission wants to ask a question of any city employee under the direction of the Board of Public Works there shall be an exchange of correspondence and formal resolutions, duly and properly surrounded with the prescribed amount of red tape.

For example, in accordance with the agreement made a formal matter of record yesterday, if Efficiency Director Burks or one of his assistants wants to ascertain whether Pat Sheeley, street sweeper, goes over his allotted territory of asphalt twice every day, or once in two days, the Efficiency Commission may write a letter to Pat, addressed to the Board of Public Works. There the letter will be censored and, if not objectionable, it will presumably be passed on to the employee.

If it takes Pat more than five minutes' time to answer the note or to give the information required, or if he has to leave his post of duty to answer it, Pat must file application with the Board of Public Works for permission to give the information required.

If this permission is granted, Pat's answer must be forwarded to the Efficiency Commission by way of the office of the Board of Public Works. Otherwise, says the Board of Works' formal letter to the heads of departments, employees are instructed to "Give any and all information desired if it does not interfere with your duties an unreasonable amount of time."

Yesterday's promulgation from the Board of Public Works was in answer to a letter from the Efficiency Commission in which Director Burks informed the board that the commission is gathering data on certain subjects and asking the board to make a matter of record its instructions or understandings with the heads of departments, employees and the Efficiency Commission. The commission suggested that it might be a good plan to conduct formal negotiations with heads of departments, but the board reserved this duty to itself.

As a result of the controversy over the non-existent alley through Central Park, which was supposed to be maintained by the employees of the Board of Public Works, the board is now preparing the first record that the city has ever had of the area and extent of paved streets on which work is being done. Eventually this record will show the kind of paving, when it was laid and the extent and nature of all repairs.

HEADGEAR RETURNED.
MAYOR RECOVERS FEDORA.

Mayor Sebastian's classy fedora hat, purchased especially for "Dress Up Week," which was taken Tuesday by some visitor who left an old one just like it, came back yesterday with a letter of apology from W. H. Savage, an attorney living in the San Pedro district. In his letter sent the Mayor with the hat, Mr. Savage said:

While en route this a.m. from Los Angeles to San Pedro, I noticed a gentleman on the car who was a very savage looking individual and the hat he wore seemed out of place. We occupied the same seat and when I examined the inside of the hat, lo and behold, I discovered that the letters therein were (E. S.) I naturally concluded that this fellow had stolen the Mayor's hat and charged him with the crime. He denied the charge and said the Mayor had stolen his hat, for when leaving the Mayor's office he said he took the only hat he could find. I therefore let him go. The other fellow's hat has the letters W.H.W. inside. I am returning it and trust you will commend me for protecting the property of our Mayor.

Sincerely yours,
[Signed.] W. H. SAVAGE.

SALE HELD UP.
FRANCHISE OFFER SPURNED.

The Council yesterday refused to accept the bid of the City Railway Company of $100 for the street railway franchise in South Park avenue from Thirtieth street to Slauson avenue, and action on the sale was deferred until today to give the Los Angeles Railway Corporation an opportunity to bid for the franchise. The City Railway Company, which was the only bidder, is generally known as a subsidiary to the Los Angeles Railway, acting as its construction department. Councilman Wheeler opposed the sale of any franchise to the City Railway Company, saying this company accepted a franchise a few years ago for the line in South Main street from Slauson avenue to Manchester avenue and failed to construct the line. Officers of both companies will be asked to meet the Council when the sale comes up again for consideration.

PETITIONS CHECKED.
SUPPLEMENTS NECESSARY.

Checking the original initiative petitions for the repeal of the two-platoon fire ordinance and for the sale of aqueduct water outside the city was completed yesterday by City Clerk Wilde and both petitions were found to be insufficient. The clerk is now checking the supplementary petition filed against the two-platoon ordinance and a supplementary petition on the water sale question will be filed within a few days. The anti-two-platoon petition which requires 13,275 names bore only 10,074 valid signatures, while the water sale petition which required 4425 names, bore only 3512 good names. It is probable that the supplementary petitions in each case will make up the required number of valid signatures.

To Consolidate Work.

The plan for creating a municipal bureau of standards to consolidate the various testing laboratories of the city was discussed yesterday by the Efficiency Commission and the Council Finance Committee and the heads of various city departments were asked to meet Friday afternoon to discuss details of the consolidation plans. At present the city is doing similar work in a dozen different places and under various departments. When the new bureau is created it is planned to abolish the oil inspector's department.

Minor City Affairs.

The State Board of Health informed the city yesterday that the Hyperion sewer outlet is a public nuisance and the city is amenable to the State health laws for its negligence in providing proper facilities for disposing of the sewage at that point. The State board asks the Council to inform it as to plans for immediate abatement of the nuisance. The proposed bond questions to be submitted to the voters at the next special or regular election include an issue for the Hyperion outlet improvement.

Additional facilities in the way of permanent improvements at the vacation camp in the San Bernardino Mountains are requested by the Playgrounds Commission and an appropriation of $2000 is asked of the Council.

Property owners along First street, between Alameda and San Pedro streets, have entered a protest against being assessed for the removal of the old granite block pavement and replacing it with asphalt. Instead, they want the ordinance of intention rescinded and provision made for simply resurfacing the block pavement with asphalt. This change will be recommended to the Council by the Board of Public Works today.

The Building Inspector presented a report to the Board of Public Works yesterday enumerating repairs that are needed immediately on the Temple Block that will cost $170. He presents another list of repairs and improvements also needed, that would cost $5000 but these will not be urged by the Board of Public Works because of the city's financial condition.

The Council was notified yesterday by the City Purchasing Agent that he has destroyed the accumulation of 25,000 short measure milk bottles confiscated during the last year by the city sealer. The bottles, under Mr. Baker's supervision, were taken by a local bottling concern and smashed to fine bits and the company disposed of the broken glass to a manufacturing concern.

EX-SMUGGLER IS CHIEF WITNESS.

QUIT THAT LIFE FOR GOVERNMENT JOB—TELLS OF DEALS WITH ACCUSED LEADER.

David Main, second engineer on the government gasoline launch Ellington, just completed at the Wilmington ship yards, was the chief witness for the government yesterday in the smuggling case against John G. Chapman and his son-in-law, George Boring, before Judge Trippet and a jury in the United States District Court.

Main was in the smuggling game and made the trip on the Samson II involved in the present case, when twenty Chinese were safely landed at Point Elizabeth, near West Berkeley, in September, 1912. Later on he retired from the business, took a civil service examination and passed creditably. He has since been in the government employ. Main confessed his part in the transaction. He testified that Chapman went to Ensenada, made arrangements for the contrabands, and left the boat and received the load of human freight near San Francisco.

One of the most interesting witnesses of the government will be S. A. Leffingwell, who for years was in the game with Chapman, he alleges, and it is expected that he will furnish some statistics showing how many Chinese Chapman has been instrumental in bringing across the border. He broke with Chapman when they landed a load of forty-seven Chinese, and Leffingwell claims that Chapman swindled him out of his share of the money.

Among exhibits by the government will be the books of one of the banks showing that in 1913-14 Chapman deposited $19,824.24 in this institution, every dollar presumably made in the smuggling business.

It is claimed by the government that Chapman has scattered his wealth through a number of the Los Angeles banks, while a considerable amount has been invested by his wife in real estate in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties.

It is asserted by the government that Chapman has been one of the most successful smugglers operating on the Pacific Coast, but heretofore it has been impossible to secure evidence against him. That obstacle now forms the subject of the present investigation was known by the immigration officers here, but there were several links missing in the chain of evidence. This, the witness claims, has been able to supply, and his testimony has been opened by what he terms the unfair treatment of him by the man.

EXCELLENT PROGRAMME.

Kreisler will Combine Classic and Popular Numbers in Program for Concerts Here.

Handel, Tartini, Vieuxtemps, Schubert, Godowsky and others will be represented on the programme to be played here next Tuesday evening by Fritz Kreisler, the great violinist. He will also offer a number of his own compositions and transcriptions.

The chief numbers will be Handel's Sonata in A major, of Handel; that in A major, of Tartini, and the concerto in A minor, of Vieuxtemps, as Kreisler's own introduction and scherzo for violin alone. Most of the other numbers have a rather popular tinge.

Saturday's programme promises to be equally interesting.

Why Suffer From Migraine or Sick Headache?
USE ANTI-KAMNIA TABLETS
Dr. J. J. Caldwell says that this exceedingly distressing disease does not shorten life but does not appear to be curable. Sufferers from this affliction are condemned to undergo the periodical attacks every few weeks until they are forty years of age, after which the attacks are less frequent, and finally disappear entirely. Palliative measures during the attack are all that it is possible to suggest, while care in the diet is the best preventive measure. An attack may often be prevented by taking two Anti-kamnia Tablets when the first symptoms appear, and one Anti-kamnia Tablet every two hours during the attack shortens it, eases the pain and brings rest and quiet. Anti-kamnia Tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They quickly relieve all Pain.
